PREFACE

Anglo-Saxon Manuscripts in Microfiche Facsimile provides students and scholars with a fundamental tool in the field of Anglo-Saxon studies. The project aims to produce complete microfiche facsimiles of the nearly five hundred manuscripts containing Old English. Each issue or volume presents facsimiles and descriptions of about ten manuscripts prepared by one or more scholars. The facsimiles are in most cases produced from existing film stock provided by the holding libraries. New photography is limited to those manuscripts not yet photographed or poorly photographed. The images are up to the standards expected of good microfilm reproduction. Each description provides in brief compass the manuscript's history, codicological features, a collation, a detailed list of contents, and a selected bibliography. The descriptions are intended to be used with the photographic images to maximize their usefulness to scholars who do not have immediate access to originals or who may be unacquainted with the manuscript and its scholarship.

Manuscripts are reproduced in toto, even though the post-Anglo-Saxon material that is found as part of many of them may demonstrate no immediate or ultimate relationship with Anglo-Saxon interests. To have edited the facsimiles, presenting only confirmed Anglo-Saxon parts, might have eliminated important material to be noticed or discovered and in any case would remove the Anglo-Saxon vestiges from their actual material contexts. Users must decide for themselves the relevance of the images presented in this series. Several later manuscripts are included in this series even though they were not considered Anglo-Saxon by Neil R. Ker; in our view, these manuscripts have clear connections to undoubted Anglo-Saxon texts.

Each manuscript is assigned a main index number for this series; that number is given before the shelf-mark and always appears bolded and in square brackets after the shelf-mark when a manuscript in this series is mentioned in the body of a description. The index number is concorded with the catalogue numbers of Ker and Gneuss. A complete handlist of all manuscripts included in the project has been published in Vol. 15. An interim cumulative index of volumes 1–10 has been published as a separate volume (2006). An interim cumulative index of volumes 1–25 is planned; a final comprehensive index will follow the completion of the volumes of descriptions, now projected as about 40 in number. The manuscript descriptions, after being revised, will also be published as a separate publication towards the conclusion of this project. Users of these descriptions (and of the indices) are requested to bring any errors, omissions, or relevant new scholarship to the attention of the publishers or the editors.

The editor is grateful to the National Endowment for the Humanities, an independent federal agency, for generous grants in support of the project. Thanks are also due to the Evjue Foundation of Madison, Wisconsin and to the International Society of Anglo-Saxonists for generous gifts.

The editor and describer wish to thank the following for their help and permission to gain access to and use images of manuscripts in their care: Dr. Gerhard Stamm and Beate Karcher of the Badische Landesbibliothek Karlsruhe; Dr. Rudolf Freisitzer of the Benediktinerstift St. Paul im Lavanttal; Renate Ebeling-Winkler of the Salzburg Museum, and Eric Hollas of the Hill Monastic Manuscript Library for supplying a microfilm of Salzburg Museum 2163; Dr. Eva Irblich of the Österreichische Nationalbibliothek; Dr. Karin Morvay of Universitätsbibliothek Würzburg; in addition, the describer would like to thank Peter Jefferey for his help in identifying the lections in Salzburg Museum 2163, Christine Glaßner for answering a question about the shelfmark of the St. Paul manuscript, and Daniela Mairhofer for answering a question about the arrangement of parchment sheets in the two Würzburg manuscripts.

All the images of manuscripts in this volume remain the property of their respective owners and may not be reproduced without written permission of their respective owners.

The editor is grateful to Prof. Robert Bjork, Director of the Arizona Center for Medieval and Renaissance Studies at Arizona State University, Tempe, for agreeing to publish the project and to the excellent staff, particularly Roy Rukkila, Todd Halvorsen, and Leslie MacCoull, who have been of much assistance with this and preceding volumes.
