PREFACE

Anglo-Saxon Manuscripts in Microfiche Facsimile provides students and scholars with a fundamental tool in the field of Anglo-Saxon studies. The project aims to produce complete microfiche facsimiles of the nearly five hundred manuscripts containing Old English. Each issue or volume presents facsimiles and descriptions of about ten manuscripts prepared by one or more scholars. The facsimiles are in most cases produced from existing film stock provided by the holding libraries. New photography is limited to those manuscripts not yet photographed or poorly photographed. The images are up to the standards expected of good microfilm reproduction. Each description provides in brief compass the manuscript's history, codicological features, a collation, a detailed list of contents, and a selected bibliography. The descriptions are intended to be used with the photographic images to maximize their usefulness to scholars who do not have immediate access to originals or who may be unacquainted with the manuscript and its scholarship.

Manuscripts are reproduced in toto, even though the post-Anglo-Saxon material that is found as part of many of them may demonstrate no immediate or ultimate relationship with Anglo-Saxon interests. To have edited the facsimiles, presenting only confirmed Anglo-Saxon parts, might have eliminated important material to be noticed or discovered and in any case would remove the Anglo-Saxon vestiges from their actual material contexts. Users must decide for themselves the relevance of the images presented in this series. Several later manuscripts are included in this series even though they were not considered Anglo-Saxon by Neil R. Ker; in our view, these manuscripts have clear connections to undoubtedly Anglo-Saxon texts.

Each manuscript is assigned a main index number for this series; that number is given before the shelf-mark and always appears bolded and in square brackets after the shelf-mark when a manuscript in this series is mentioned in the body of a description. The index number is concorded with the catalogue numbers of Ker and Gneuss. A complete handlist of all manuscripts included in the project has been published in Vol. 15. An interim cumulative index of volumes 1–10 has been published as a separate volume (2006). An interim cumulative index of volumes 1–25 is planned; a final comprehensive index will follow the completion of the volumes of descriptions, now projected as about 43 in number. The manuscript descriptions, after being revised, will also be published as a separate publication towards the conclusion of this project. Users of these descriptions (and of the indices) are requested to bring any errors, omissions, or relevant new scholarship to the attention of the publishers or the editors.

The editors wish to acknowledge the following persons who kindly gave permission to use and publish the manuscripts in their care and provided help and advice during the course of the work: Pascal Rideau, Bibliothécaire, Bibliothèque Municipale, Arras; Agnes Chevalier, Conservateur, Bibliothèque Municipale, Angers; Benoît Tuleu, Conservateur en chef and B. Seguin, Conservateur, Bibliothèque Municipale de Boulogne-sur-Mer; Nicolas Ruppli, Conservateur, Bibliothèque Municipale, Dijon; Hélène Hamon, Conservateur en chef, Bibliothèque Intercommunale, Epinal-Golby, also her colleague Florence Bouvenet; Marie-Françoise Rose of the Bibliothèque Municipale, Rouen; Martine Le Maner, Conservateur de la Bibliothèque Municipale, Saint-Omer; Jean-Jacques Renaudet, Chargé du Développement Culturel et du Patrimoine, Ville de Sélestat and Hubert Meyer, Librarian of the Bibliothèque Municipale, Sélestat. Special thanks are due to Mme. Marie-Clotilde Hubert and Mme. Danielle Oppetit, Inspecteur Général des Bibliothèques in France, for their assistance and support where there was a problem of being granted authorization for access. We would also like to thank the I.R.H.T. and its staff for photographing and supplying microfilm of most of these items and for answering many questions.

The editors are grateful to Dr. Robert Bjork, Director of the Arizona Center for Medieval and Renaissance Studies at Arizona State University, Tempe, for agreeing to publish the project, and to his excellent staff, particularly Roy Rukkila, Todd Halvorsen, and Leslie MacCull, who have been of much assistance with this and previous volumes.

DESCRIBERS' PREFACE

Almost all of the manuscripts in the present volume were subject to the upheaval and change brought about by the French Revolution. Most of our manuscripts were originally the property of religious houses. Three decrees of the new Revolutionary government's Assemblée Constituante are relevant to the foundation of the Municipal Libraries of France:

- (1) 1789, 2 November: a decree ordering the putting of all the goods of the clergy, including the libraries of religious houses, at the disposition of the nation;
- (2) 1789, 14 November: a decree ordering religious communities to produce a report on the state of their libraries and to put their catalogues in the hands of the nearest authorities;
- (3) 1790, 13 February: a decree stating that religious vows would no longer be recognized and that the religious orders should be suppressed.

Notwithstanding the reluctance of religious orders to cooperate with any enthusiasm with these decrees, the secularization and the making of inventories of the books of religious houses throughout France applied immediately, with a view to preserving them for the nation. In May 1791 clear instructions for the compilation of catalogues were prepared by Les Comités d'Administration Ecclésiastique et d'Aliénation des Biens Nationaux. Items were to be alphabetized on cards, copied into a register, and the cards were to be sent to Paris in special boxes. Cataloguers were also provided with a questionnaire for manuscripts by the directors of the operation, as follows:

1. In which century was the manuscript written, or, is the writing ancient or modern, clean and regular or ill-formed and difficult to read?
2. Is the manuscript on vellum or paper?
3. Is it big or small, in-folio or . . . ?
4. What material is treated?
5. Is it written in Greek, in Latin, in French, in Italian . . . ?
6. Does it have one or two or three columns per page?
7. Is every line resting on a bar drawn by stylet?

8. Can the name of the author be found? The colophon is precious.
9. What works does it contain?
10. Is it decorated with miniatures or paintings? Be precise about their quality.
11. Is the volume well conserved?
12. Are the big letters at the beginning painted in gold or in color? Are they really fresh?

In spite of such meticulous guidelines, making the monastic manuscript-collections available to the nation was difficult to put into practice in a troubled period. While awaiting an administrative decision, books and manuscripts were kept in revolutionary depots throughout the various regions, often in conditions not conducive to their conservation, exposed to damp, damage, and theft, not to mention strings of official visitors. Any new institution which received books catalogued and regulated them methodically. No manuscripts could be lent. An early idea was to give books and manuscripts to the newly established Écoles Centrales. This was the case at Boulogne, the choice of volumes being given to one man, Jean-Baptiste Isnardi. He formed his collection from depots which included Arras (the monastery of St-Vaast) and St-Omer (the monastery of St-Bertin). Subsequently, when the schools were abolished, these books became the fonds anciens of the Bibliothèque Municipale at Boulogne. Other manuscripts from the Monastery of St-Bertin are in the Bibliothèque d'Agglomération de St-Omer (as MS 150).

Often local authorities showed good sense in choosing a former monk to make an inventory of their confiscated books and manuscripts, and sometimes to organize their new town library. At Rouen, François Gourdin, one-time Maurist from the Abbey of Jumièges, who became the first secular librarian, was even involved in the collection and transport of items from surrounding religious houses. At Angers, two former Benedictines, Jean-Pierre Braux of the Monastery of St-Nicholas and Jacques-Octave Locatelli from the monastery of St-Aubin, managed so skillfully that the new public library there opened in 1798. They were allowed to sell off duplicate volumes, and Braux was authorized by the Minister of the Interior to visit the Paris depots to bring back 1200 volumes to compensate for books lost from the local depot either through damp or pilfering.

Some books and manuscripts did not move far from their pre-Revolutionary location. The present Bibliothèque Municipale at Angers is on the site of the abbey of Toussaint and not far from the remains of St-Aubin. In Arras, the entire monastery of St-Vaast was taken over into secular ownership, and the present Bibliothèque Municipale lies within its eighteenth-century buildings. In these instances, the manuscripts have probably resided in or near their present location for more than a millennium. Not so fortunate in their experience of the Revolution were the books and manuscripts of Moyenmoutier. In the earlier eighteenth century they had been under the care of Dom Humbert Belhomme (Abbé, 1705–1762), builder and book-collector extraordinaire. His cataloguing and rebinding program in the early part of the century, coupled with his inclusion of a new library in the rebuilding of the abbey on a scale likened at the time to Versailles, had made his house one of the great intellectual centers of the Vosges region. The collection certainly remained in its monastic setting, but uncared for and exposed to weather and leaking gutters until 1824, when books, manuscripts, archives, and their beautiful shelving were taken into the nation's care at Épinal. A former monk of Moyenmoutier, Joseph-Benoit Didelot, did, however, make the revolutionary inventory, and it can be seen today at Épinal side by side with Belhomme's own catalogue, silent witnesses to the huge changes that took place around and to their contents within the space of about eighty years.

Two of the manuscripts in this volume are now to be found in libraries which predate the French Revolution. A public library already existed at Dijon, to which most of the manuscripts confiscated from the nearby monastery of Citeaux (including MS 574) were transferred. The Humanist Library at Sélestat was founded in 1452, and received extremely rich donations in the sixteenth century. It did not benefit from the dispersal of former monastic libraries.

3. Angers, Bibliothèque Municipale 477 (olim 461)
“Glossarium Andegavense”; Bede, “De rerum natura,” “De temporibus,” “De temporum ratione,” with Breton glosses; fragment of Justinian, “Institutiones” (flyleaf and pastedown)
[Ker Supp. App. 40; Gneuss – ]

HISTORY: The main part of this manuscript (Part B, ff. 9–87), a well-designed and much-used collection of Bede’s scientific work with related computistica and kalendar, was written towards the end of the 9c in Brittany, dated to about 897 by Fleuriot (1964: 9) because an early glossator ,who can be identified as the scribe of the main texts, added on f. 21r a calculation of the present year A.D. The presence of saints’ names suggests provenance if not origin at the abbey of Landévennec in western Brittany (Fleuriot 1964: 9–10). Irish material seems to have been available in its compilation (Ó Cróinín 1983: 77–79). The scribe of Part B is notable for his use of construe-marks (syntactical glosses), found in Breton as well as in other manuscripts of the period (on which see Le Duc 1994, Lemoine 1994). Quire I (Part A) was added to the beginning of the manuscript, and preserves the most valuable collection of surviving glosses from Britanny (Lambert 1983). Saints’ names also suggest that the manuscript may have been for a time in the area of St. Malo, and others that later it was at the Benedictine abbey of St-Aubin in Angers (Fleuriot 1964: 10–11). Its sojourn at St-Aubin is confirmed by Montfaucon (1739: 2: 1225), where it is to be identified with no.125 “in-f. Bedæ librum de computo.” From St-Aubin, after a period of storage in damp conditions at St-Martin, it would have come to the Bibliothèque Municipale (founded 1798) after the French Revolution. From f. 87 onwards there occurs a ragbag of notes, additions and diagrams from the 10c/11c. On f.96r are some scribbles in OE.

The binding of brown calf on stiff thick press-board sewn on five bands probably dates from the early 16c. For the endboard, a bifolium (Part C, ff. 100–101, containing item 14, a sheet, not the central sheet, from a quire in a dismembered 13c manuscript) has been used as flyleaf and pastedown to cover the anchorage of the sewing bands by sticking the second leaf over the board. For the same purpose a strip of membrane, almost certainly containing another fragment of the same text, appears stuck over the hinge-side part of the front board to cover the anchorage of the sewing bands, but to judge from the writing reflected on to the board and on the strip there was originally another leaf in place, almost certainly the other half of the bifolium to which the surviving strip belonged.

Previous description by Auguste Molinier in Catalogue 1849–1918: n.s. 31 (1898): 349; also Fleuriot 1964: 8–11 and Jones 1975–1980: 3.175–76, no. 4.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios 8 + 90 + 2, membrane, measuring 321 × 235 mm. (quire I: 300 × 235 mm.). The membrane is very unevenly shaped, not trimmed, or trimmed eccentrically in places. The membrane is stiffer in quires XI and XII, suggesting that they were added as an afterthought. The written area varies from 226 × 170 mm. (disposed in 39 lines) in Part A to 250 × 150/132 mm. (outer/inner, disposed in 33 lines) in quires II–IV, to 250 × 159 mm. (disposed in 41 lines) in quire V, 280 × 185 mm. (disposed in 38 lines) in quire VI, 270 × 180 mm. (disposed in 37 lines) in quires VII, VIII, and IX, 260 × 185 mm. (disposed in 37 lines) in quire X, and 233 × 175 mm. (disposed in 31–33 lines) in quire XI, but 255 × 200 mm. (disposed in 32 lines) in quire XII. In Part C the written area is 283 × 189 mm. set out in double columns with two passages of text at the upper center of the page, that in the left-hand column occupying the right-hand part of the column, and that in the right-hand column occupying the left-hand part of the column, with commentary disposed around in very cramped writing. The main part of the manuscript (Part B) comprises ff. 9–87 (sim. Fleuriot 1964: 8), but a pattern of worm-holes shows that quires I and II were together from an early date in the manuscript's history. There are holes in ff. 4, 13, 15, 17, 18, 27, 29, 50, 58, 64, 72, 75, 83, 91, 100. F. 98 has been damaged by a cut in the written area, but there is no loss of text. The folio numbering includes 54 twice (so the second one is designated 54bis) and lacks folios numbered 66 and 86. Arranged Part A HFHF; Part B quires II–III, VII–IX and XI HFHF, quire IV and X HFHFF, quire V HHFF, quire VI HHFFH, quire XII HF; Part C (from a dismembered quire of another manuscript, used as flyleaf and pastedown, shows flesh on the outside).

Pricking: In Part A (= quire I) prickmarks for 39 horizontal lines of writing can be seen along the outer edge of the written area, but none can be seen for the vertical bounding lines and column divisions. In Part B prick-marks for the vertical bounding lines of the double-frame rule can be seen just above the top and bottom lines of writing in many quires. Prick-marks for the 33 lines of writing can be seen in part near the outer edges of some leaves in quires II, III, IV. In quire V prickmarks for the 41 lines of writing can be seen near the outer edges of most leaves; on f. 37 the prick-ing-wheel seems to have been applied twice. Quire VI shows only traces of the 38 prickmarks for lines for writing near the outer edges of leaves. Quire VII shows only the prickmarks for the vertical bounding lines. Quire VIII shows prickmarks for the 37 lines for writing on the outer bounding line of the written area, with another set about 5 mm. further out. Quires IX and X are similar but without the second set. Quire XI shows no prickmarks. Quire XII shows prickmarks for the vertical column lines on f. 96 on the bottom ruled line, but none can be seen for the horizontal lines for writing. In Part C no prickmark is visible.

Ruling: In Part A the frame with four columns and 39 lines for writing is ruled in hardpoint. Sometimes the horizontal lines are ruled beyond the vertical bounding line on the hinge side, probably as a consequence of the ruling being done with the sheets flat. As for Part B, quires II, III (including ff. 22r-24v where the columns of text extend below the bottom ruled line), and IV (including all the folios with columns and tables) show a ruled frame with double bounding lines and the 33 horizontal lines for writing ruled between the inner bounding lines. Quire V shows the same depth of written area as the preceding three quires, but the frame has 41 lines of writing and the length of the lines goes up to 159 mm. Quires VI and VII show the same sort of frame with 38 and 37 lines of writing respectively. So does quire VIII, but the top horizontal line is ruled to the outer edges of the leaves and the outer pair of vertical bounding lines is ruled to the bottom edge of the leaves; similarly quires IX, X. Quire XI shows a simple frame ruling with 31–33 horizontal lines for writing, and quire XII shows 32 lines ruled for writing and 23 vertical column lines, but the layout is untidy and the number of lines written varies from 31 to 38. Part C shows no ruling visible.

Color: In Part 1 (= quire I) there is none. Part B: red is used for headings, rubrics, incipits and initials, and in diagrams for signs and borders. Some initials are calligraphic, as ‘B’ on f.20r, ‘I’ on f. 73r. Red is also used for the wavy lines separating the columns on ff. 36v–41r, also 43v. A pale watery purple (or possibly brown and red mixed together) is used for the ornamental initial ‘O’ on f. 10r and a darker version appears again, together with red, yellow, and black for column divisions in the tables on ff. 22r–27v. The checkerboard computus tables made up of squares on ff. 28r, 29r, 30v and 31r–36r show red, beige, yellow, purple, and black. Quires XI and XII contain no color except for the use of red in structural boundaries in tables on ff. 97r-99v. There is a drawing of a deer(?) and an arm and hand (holding a pallium?) in “Franco-Saxon” style on f. 69v, and initial ‘S’ is surrounded by dots in a “Saxon” or Northumbrian style. Part C: In quire XIII red is used for headings, initials (alternating with blue) and parishes.

CONTENTS:

[Note: The writing on the strip on the front cover is virtually illegible, but almost certainly comes from the same text as that in item 15 (Part C). Over this text and the entire page is the mirror-image offset of a 13c text.]

Part A

- a. ff.1r/ab1–8v/c14 Greek/Latin glossary, “Glossarium Andegavense”: ‘Chorice Rustici’; ends: ‘Orphanotrophium. locus in quo a pa|rentibus orbati pueri pascuntur’ Fin(is) | [added in a smaller script] ‘Competalia. loc(us) ubi peregrini sepeliant(ur)’ (ed. Omont 1898: 674–88).

[Note: Mostly set out in two sets of two columns (three sets of two on f. 6v, in long lines on f. 8v/c1–14); up to f. 3v/ab15 the Greek lemmata are unalphabetized but the Latin glosses are arranged in (disturbed) abc-order, R-U, corresponding more-or-less to the alphabetical Latin-Greek Glossarium Leidense (CGL 3.416.31–421.20), while at ff. 3v/cd1–5r/ab24, selected from the same glossary (ad loc.) or from a version of the Hermeneumata Monacensis (CGL 3.132 ff.), are Greek verbs with Latin glosses, and alphabetized B-O[mega], more-or-less in abc-order; ff. 4r/ab25–7r/bc39 are Greek-Latin class-glossaries corresponding closely to Fragmentum Bruxellense and Hermeneumata Stephani (CGL 3.393–98, 347–90); ff. 7v/ab1–8v/ab20 are Greek-Latin class- and declension-glossaries, the individual items of which can be found in various “Hermeneumata” glossaries; on f. 8v/ab 22–36 (but set out in the space as three columns) is a brief Hebrew/Greek/Latin glossary (on all of the above see Omont 1898: 669–71); the glosses on f. 8v/c1–14 form a list of Greek names for kinds of hospitals: ‘Gerontochonium . . . Orphanotrophium.’]

- b. f.8v/c15–47: Added in a later hand: ‘animeque s⟨anctis⟩s⟨im⟩o piis mat-er miranda patronis | p⟨re⟩ce petem⟨us⟩ chr⟨ist⟩i matre⟨m⟩ matrem maria⟨m⟩ . . . septe⟨m⟩ suffultu⟨m⟩ colu⟨m⟩naru⟨m⟩ numera uirgine⟨m⟩ d⟨omi⟩ni | habentem in ut(er)o isaia no[n] p[er] dictu⟨m⟩ oraculo’.

Part B:

Miscellaneous additions on f. 9rv:

- recto: a. (added to a blank, original? flyleaf) diagram for the Gallican ceremony of dedicating a church, showing walls, west door, altar, and including a figure of the “Ceremony of the Alphabet” where the bishop crosses the church from east-left to west-right and from east-right to west-left tracing the alphabet on the floor. The psalm-verses are those used in a dedication (see Duchesne 1904: 407–13 et pass., and Bischoff 1967c: 2.252).
- b. (top margin, 5 lines, added in a different, later [10c/11c] hand and intermittently to f. 43r, plus 82rv) an unidentified commentary(?), here beg. with Jer. 9:2–4: ‘dicd omin us. derelinquam populum meum . . . n(on) habet fiduciam [ . . . ] | fratrem suum et omn is’ (the right ends of the lines and most of the 5th line and five? more lines are erased or faded); continues f. 22r (right margin): ‘Amphiteatrum u<erbo uocatum | quod ex duobus sit theatris | compostum’; f. 28r (including extracts from Isidore’s Etymologiae) ‘Notitia dicta quod fiant & fingantur extra fingere’, etc.
- c. (right margin, 10 lines, prob. same hand as ii) a tag, ‘simon. deberent omnes audientes | credere ueram esse qui audiunt’ followed by Martial, “Ep.” 9.92: ‘Rum pitur inuidia qui dam karissime iuli . . . Jus mihi natorum rum pitur inuidia’ (lines rearranged; ed. Ker 1968: 142–44; = Schaller and Könsgen 1977: no. 14406);
- d. (right margin, next 6 lines, same hand) 4 Kings 7:6–7: ‘+ dixe’ r’<unt’ ‘que ad inuicem. ecce | mercede conduxitit . . . tentoria sua’;
- e. (right margin, next 20 lines, same hand, and continuing on outer margin of 9v) glossary materials: ‘Dioualares [for diabolares] dicuntur uilissimæ | meretrices . . . Cestus cestus cestus | corium. Cestus cesti. bell. teus’;

[Note: This hand or one very similar has added various notes on ff. 29v, 30r.]

verso: f. Two rota diagrams. The upper circle seems to correspond to Bede, De temp. rat. chs. 53–54, the cycle for finding the solar epacts and the occurrence of leap year, the lower rota has the inscription ‘hic est & lunæ | cursus & quand o sit tardior | luna quam sol per xii men-ses et item | sol quantum sé subtrahat celo | per singulos menses. id est xii dimediales & xviii bicornes’ (these diagrams are not a usual part of the following text, cf. Jones 1975–1980:1.186)

Old Breton glosses: There are about 500 such glosses to the following Bede texts according to Fleuriot, written in two series, “A” by the original scribe and “B” added in the 10c/11c (Fleuriot 1964: 6, 9). They remain largely unedited; for an edition of selected items see Lambert 1983: 185–202; they have been incorporated into Fleuriot's Dictionnaire des gloses en Vieux Breton (1964).

1. ff. 10r-18v Bede, "De natura rerum":

ff.10r/1-5 Title and introductory verses (in red ink that is now very faded):

IN NOMINE PATRIS ET FILII ET SP(IRITU)S S(AN)C(T)I AMEN.
| 'NATURAS [RERUM VARIAS LAB]ENTIS ET [AEUI] | PERST-RINXI TITULIS. [TEMPORA LATA CITIS | BEDA DEI FAMULUS TU FIXA] OBSECRO PERENNEM | [QUI] LEGIS ASTRA [SUPER ME]NTE TUERE [DIEM.]' (cf. Jones 1975–1980.1.189, PL 90.187A);

ff. 10r/6-18v/23 Text: (title of ch. 1 very faded: 'DE QUADRIFARA DEI OPERE EX OPUSCULIS [...]') 'OPERATIO (gl.: 'dispensatio') DIVINA QUÆ | SECVL A CREAT ET GVB|ern'a 't' (gl: 'p(ro) creatione(m)'); ends: 'Assia u(ero) a sept[e]ntrione p(er) oriente(m) usq(ue) ad meridie(m) (gl.: 'i(dest) usq(ue) ad nilu(m)') Atq(ue) [into margin] i(n) de africa (gl.: 'i(d est) egipto') a mer(idione) / usq(ue) ad occidente(m) / extendit(ur).' FINIT PRIMVS LIBER DE NATVRA RERVM. (as Jones 1975–1980: 1.192–234, PL 90. 187–278; cf. CPL 1343).

[Note: The text is accompanied by heavy glosses in several hands above the line and in the margins, beginning above 'NATURAS [RERUM VARIAS]' with 'i(d est) solis & lunæ et cetera.' and in the right-hand margin beside line 2: 'obsecro (id est) te. p(er)enne(m) (id est) d(eu)m | qui legis (id est) q(ui) numerus. tu. | a(n)te die(m) (id est) istum n(ume)r(u)m | temporalem. mente (id est) | uoluntate', etc.; on the gloss-tradition of De nat. rer. in general see Lipp 1961: and for this manuscript, with ed. of glosses to chs. 12 & 20 see her Appendix, pp. vii, xii–xix. Chapters marked by large initials and rubrics, now very faint. At f. 12r/2–3 DE SIDERA ... 'Sidera ...', a false ch. division. Ch. 15 beg. at f. 12v/28 is not marked: 'Quare motant [sic] colores. Suus quide(m) cuiq(ue) ...' the first sentence being the title, nor is ch. 21 at f. 13v/29 'Luna zodiacum tridecies'; not marked are ch. 23 at f. 14r/29 'Defect(us) | solis ac lun'a 'e' and ch. 38, f. 16v/3 'Nam Aquaru(m) duplicit' but the title 'DE NATVRA AQVARV(M) DVPLICI.' has been added interlinearly, by original scribe; ch. 40, f.16v/27 not marked '(quod) mare fluuior(m)'.]

2. ff.18v/23–22r/7: Bede, "De temporibus liber": INCIPIT SECUNDVS | DE RATIONE TEMPORVM. | 'TEMPORA mom(en)tis. horis. diebus': ends incomplete with ch.15: 'resurrectione nob(is) exoptabilis in memoriam reuocetur. (gl.: 's. honoraret(ur)') | FINIT AMEN'; lacks chs.16–22, the Ages of the World (as Jones 1975–1980: 3.585–600, PL 90. 277–87; cf. CPL 2318).

[Note: Chs. indicated by titles and colored initials; not so indicated is ch. 4 "De Hebdomada" beg. at f. 19r/19 with 'iiii' squeezed in; ch. 14 is subdivided at f. 21r/33 'Si uis scire q(uo)ta sit indictio ...' (Jones 599/8) and sim. five more times (at 'Si uis')

on f. 19v. Accompanied by glosses/commentary above the line and in the margins beginning ‘dicta s<unt> te<m>pora a co<m>mu|nionis te<m>p(er)am<en>to du<m> sé | ob inuice humore. | siceritate. calore. | frigore te<m>p(er)ant’. Beside f. 21r/26, right margin, a note in the hand of Breton glossator A gives the date “897” using Bede’s method of calculation in the nearby passage: ‘si nosse uis q<uo>t s<unt> anni | ab i<n>carnatione d<omi>ni . . . fiunt. dcccxcvii’]

3. a. ff.22r-27v Victorius of Aquitaine (fl. 450), “Calculus” (multiplication tables under decorated arches to frame them): INCIPIT LIBER CA`L`CVLI QUE(M) VICTORI(US) EXPOSVIT. The tables are not complete at the end, running from ‘II .i.’ to ‘ii. I’ in table a on f. 22r and from ‘xxxvii i’ to ‘xxxvii \ i’ in table c on f. 27v; the complete series runs to “L milia mille” in 98 tables (as Peden 2003: 4-27).

[Note: Peden (pp. xv-xvi) explains the tables this way: “[A] series of tables of multiplication, which show the numbers 1000 to 1/144 multiplied by 2 to 50 and the resulting products . . . The multiplicands from 1000 to 1/144 appear on the right-hand columns, opposite their products on the left-hand columns. Each pair of columns represents multiplication by a multiplier, starting from 2 and ending with 50”; this version of the tables lacks the fractions that follow after the lowest whole numbers.]

- b. ff. 22v/1-6, 23r/1-5 added text, “De punctis lunae” (hours of moon-light each night of the month) ALIUD ARGUM(EN)TU(M) de LUNA ‘Luna prima et xxx. iiiii. punctis lucet . . . Luna xu. et xui. xii. horas lucet’ (sim. to “De computo” PL 129.1305C; cf. De temp. rat., ch. 24).

4. Computus, Kalendar, Bede’s Paschal Table:

- a. f. 28r Table of lunar letters for finding the moon’s age (cf. Henel 1942: 439-41);
- b. f. 28v Table of “litterae punctatae” showing the age of the moon in two cycles of thirty/twenty-nine, using the letters ‘A-V’ as indicated in col. c of the Kalendar (ff. 30v-36r below) with the Greek “golden numbers” running across the top (cf. Jones 1943: 225, Wallis 1999: 72);
- c. f. 29r Tabula regularis for finding the age of the moon (cf. McGurk et al 1983: 16; Jones 1943: 218, Wallis 1999: 65, 293-96); in the top row are the Greek “golden numbers” of the 19-year cycle and in the bottom two rows of the grid are the “litterae primae”; f.29r/33 ‘Has duas lineas quas p(er)spicis habentes in p(ri)ncipio suo .c. & m. Intellegito q<uo>d nihil | aliud demonstrent nisi incensione(m) lunæ in denis & nouenis annis. Sed tam(en) | hoc n(un)c. omitendu(m) [sic] q<uod> om<n>i<s> anno duæ concurrunt ex his ui quibus scilicet lunæ | xxx. & xx.iiii. ac-cendatur’; above the text is a line of roman numerals ‘viii . . . v. xvi. xv.’ indicating the age of the moon on 1 March through the 19-year cycle.

- d. f. 29v Table showing concurrents (number of the weekday of March 24) through 19-year cycle (horizontal) and (vertical) through the 19-year cycles of Bede's Paschal Table (ff. 36v–43r below) running from 532 A.D. to 1063 (last line 'XLV' + 18 = "1063"); explanatory text above (lines 4–8) 'Hi s(un)t concurrentes septimanę dies omniu(m) annor(um) i(n) uiisi. K(a)l(endas) ap(ri)lis . . .'; below is added note on fasts: 'Haec sunt ieunia legitima populis chr(ist)ianis obseruanda . . . dedisset ante animam suam';
- e. f. 30r Table to find position of the moon in the zodiac (cf. McGurk et al. 17, PL 90.753–54), with instructions for the table added below (13 unruled lines): 'In p(ri)ma linea ex minio scilicet intellege om(n)i die in q(uo) signo luna uersat(ur) . . . p(er) circulu(m) decennouennale(m) co(m)pleto';

[Note: Added at the top of f. 30r (in the hand of the glossary) is a prescription for an amulet consisting of magical cryptographic letters and figures meant to staunch the flow of menstrual blood with the instruction: 'ad p(ro)fluui(m) mulieris scrib(e) & sub pectore ligabis | & si n(on) credis in cultello scribe & occide porcellu(m) de illo 7 sanguis n(on) ibit' (cf. Skemer 2006: 207–8, 286).]

- f. f. 30v–36r Kalendar, each month with a table to mark the age of the moon every two days (for that month) through the 19-year cycle (pr. PL 90.787–800 under title De embolismorum ratione computus; see Jones 1939: 74). The month's name is shown inconspicuously within the (faded) red 'KL' monogram outside the upper left corner of the grid. Across the top are the "golden numbers," labeling each year in the 19-year cycle, expressed as Greek letters; right margins have calendrical letters: col. a golden numbers, expressed as roman numerals, col. b 'A-O' series to find the moon's position in the zodiac, col. c lunar letters 'A-U' to find the age of the moon (as in table on f. 28v), col. d. dominical letters to indicate the day of the week, col. e lunar letters 'AEIOU' (as in table on f. 28r), col. f the days of the month by Kalends, Nones, and Ides; left margin, calendrical notabilia, which differ in kind and in many hands over the various months; Fleuriot (1964/1985: 9–11) noted that matters of Breton interest have been entered in the Kalendar at many places. A note on the hours, etc. of night and day at the foot of each month's page (cf. Baker and Lapidge 1995: 416 ad loc.).

Various inscriptions within the Kalendar:

- f. 30v (January) lines 1–4: 'Dies xxxi. lvn(e) xxx. IA(NVARIVS) . . . sup(er) KL ianuarii (ue)l e [sic] om(n)is linę conueniunt'; VERSVS. 'Principiu(m) iani sancsit tropicus capricorn' (Bede, De temp. rat. ch. 16, after Ausonius, Ecl. 16; cf. Schaller and Könsgen 1977: no.12589; poem is pr.

- PL 90.358; see Jones 1943: 356 on how Bede altered the poem); below the grid (7 lines): 'Ianus et October binis regulant(ur) abenis . . . rite kalendꝝ' (Versus de regularibus mensium, cf. Leofric Missal, ed. Orchard 2002: 2.88, Cordiolani 1961:193; Schaller and Könsgen no. 7613);
- f. 31r (February) lines 1–3: VERSVS. 'Mense numꝝ in medio sol distat sidus aquarui [sic]' (next verse from Bede/Ausonius poem cited for January); 'Dies xxviii. Luna xxix. | Momento [recte Mem-]quod in anno bissextili sit luna februarii . . . siue post' (drawing of an untonsured and mustachioed head in lower margin);
- f. 31v (March) top line: 'P(ro)cedunt duplices in marcia tempora pisces' (next verse from Bede/Ausonius poem), notes on hours, etc. [a continuation of the glossary in bottom 3 lines 'ubi aut(em) dicimus . . . inuisibilis'];
- f. 32r [April] top line: 'Respicis aprilis aries frixee Kalendas' (first line from Bede/Ausonius poem);
- f. 32v (May) top line 'Maius agenores miratur cornua tauri' (next line of Bede/Ausonius poem);
- f. 33r (June) top line: 'IVNIUS equatos c̄elo uidet ire laconas' (next line of Bede/Ausonius poem);
- f. 33v (July) top line: 'SOLstitio ardantis cancri fert iulius austru(m)' (next line of Bede/Ausonius poem);
- f. 34r (August) top line: 'A' U' Gustum mensem leo [fer]uidus igne p(er)-urit' (next line of Bede/Ausonius poem);
- f. 34v (September) top line: 'Sidere uirgo tuo bach[um se]ptember opimat' (next line of Bede/Ausonius poem); at bottom of page two lines of verse: 'ME LEGAT ANTIQUAS QUI PROFERRE LOQUELAS UULT. | QUI ME NON SEQUITUR UULT SINE LEGE LOQUI' (Alcuin, De Orthographia, PL 101.901);
- f. 35r (October) top line: 'Equat et octob(er) sementis libru(m)' (next line of Bede/Ausonius poem);
- f. 35v (November) top line: 'Scorpius hibernum p(re)ceps iubet ire nouembre(m)' (next line of Bede/Ausonius poem); calendrical notes below: 'mar(tius). febr(uarius). unus dies (est) si non mutet bissextus . . . KŁ Ian(iuarius) ii. non(um) martii';
- f. 36r (December) top line: 'Terminat arcitenens medio sua signa decem-bri' (next line of Bede/Ausonius poem; below: Eastertide calendrical table with OBret. words to left: 'ceplit' ("Maundy Thursday"), 'enet" ("Shrovetide"), 'med' ("Lent"?), 'pasc', 'sethun pasc' ("Easter week"), 'ascensio d(omi)ni', 'kł guiam' ('winter') (Fleuriot 1964/1985 ad loc.)

g. ff. 36v–43r Bede's 532-year Paschal Table, adapted from that of Dionysius Exiguus, from 532 to 1063, with columns showing the year A.D., the indiction, the lunar epact, the concurrent, the lunar cycle, the fourteenth moon, date of Easter, and moons on Easter day: PRIMVS CICLVIS DIONISII; begins 'An<no> | dxxxii' and ends 'lxiii / i | xvii | ii | xvi | xv Kl | xii Kl | xvii'; above the heading is the note: 'Ab origine mundi in aduentu(m) d<omi>ni n<ost>ri ie<su> chr<ist>i ANNI ./ CX-CVII.' (Wallis 1999: 392–404 gives the table in English; cf. De temp. rat. ch. 47; on the possible Irish connections of this copy of the table, see Ó Cróinín 1983: 77–79).

h. Calendrical notes:

- i) f. 44r/1–3 Extreme dates ("termini") on which Easter can fall: 'Pascha celebratur ab undecima Kl<endas ap<ri>l<is> usq<ue> in xvii K-l<endas> ma' i' i...';
- ii) f. 44r/4–6 Rules for paschal moons: 'Lunæ pasc` h'alis ab viii id<us> mar<tiis> ...' (cf. Dionysius Exiguus, De paschate, PL 67.490);

i. Egyptian days:

- i) f.44r/6–14 ARGVMENTV(M) AD I(N)VENIE(N)DAM FERIAM K(A)-L(ENDAS) ARGV[MENTU]M. [sic] | 'ANNUS solis h<abe>t dies ccclxv. hos .v. dies ægyptii qui m<en>sem trigenis dieb<us>...';
- ii) f.44r/15–25 ARGVMENTVM AD INVENIENDAM REGVLUM LV-NAE K(A)L(ENDAS) | 'Quinque ægyptio(rum) dies residuos de quib<us> sup<ra> i<n>fecim<us> men's' ion' [corr. from '-tio-', "t" underdotted] ... Illud ostendit <et> manifestissime declarat'.

j. Added notes in another contemporary hand:

- i) f. 44r/26–34 'Q(UO)T dataru(m)-. hodie p<er> dies anni. uii. Kl<endas> ianu'a' rii...';
- ii) f. 44r/35–38 'Si uis scr. [sic] in qua hora diei <ue>l in quo puncto horae accedit<ur> luna<m>...';
- iii) f. 44r/38–40 'Si p<er> ipsiu<s> argum<en>tu<m> feria<m> inuenire desideris...';
- iv) f. 44r (margin) 'Si p<er> ipsu<m> argum<en>tu<m> luna[e ...] | inuenire desidere... Ī | dccxx mom<en>ta s<unt> in septim\n[?] (cf. De computo, PL 129.1293B).

5a. Bede, "De temporum ratione" (headed by a dense linear monogram, which can be interpreted as "INCIPIT PROLOGUS BEDE PRES-BITIRI"):

ff. 44v/1–45r/3 (preface): 'DE NATVRA RERV(M) ET RATIONE TE(M) PORV(M) DVOS QVONDA(M) STRicto (gl: 'i(d est) breui') sermone libellos dissentibus (gl: 'discipulis') ... debita fraternitatis i(n)temerata iura custodiat' (above the first line as a gl: 'i(dest) celi 7 cum suis de-cursu solis 7 lun(ae) 7 astror(um). i(dest) q(uo)m(od)o diuidunt(ur) in dies 7 in m(en)ses 7 in annos') (as Jones 1943: 175–76, Jones 1975–1980: 264–65, PL 90.293–95);

f. 45r/4–37 (in two columns, and squeezed into three informal columns in the five last lines of col. b) capitula: 'i De conpotu (ue)l loq(ue)la digitor(um) . . . (col. c/36, = ch. 71) De septima / 7 octaua ætate / s(e)-c(u)li futuri' (as Jones 1943: 177–78, 1975–1980: 2.266–67);

[Note: The end of the list is confused: at the bottom of col. a is written within a bracket 'lx'x'vii [sic] lxviii lxviii lxx lxxi lxxii' referring to the ch. titles opposite in cols. b, c. There is no ch. 72 either on this list or in De temp. rat. Title to ch. 67 is written in last space of col. b, with ch. number erased: 'De cursibus ætatu(m) earundem' with a signe-de-rendoi to five lines up (col. c) which has the standard title 'De reliq(ui)s sexte \ etatis' followed by the standard titles of chs. 68–71. None of these final chapters of De temp. rat. appear in the text as written here.]

ff. 45v/4–85v/7 (folio numbering omits "86") text: 'DE TEMPORV(M) RATIONE D(OMI)NO IUANTE [sic] DICTURI NEC|essarium dixim(us) (gl: 'iudicauim(us)') utilissima(m) p(ri)mo pru(m)tissima(m)q(ue) [sic] flexus degitor(um) [sic]'; ends with the beginning of ch. 66, the greater part of which, the "Chronica majora", is omitted: ff. 84v/26–85v/7 (Jones 463/1–465/71) HOC EST PRINCIPI[U]M CR[O]NICI MAIORES [sic] BEDE. | 'DE SEX ETATIB(US) H(UIU)S MUNDI. A SEPTIMA (VE)L OCTAVA QVIETIS VITEQ(VE) . . . (f. 85r/25) i(n) qua semp(er) c(um) d(omi)no regnent expectent.' / FINIT 'PRIMA (i)g(itur) etate s(e)c(u)li nascentis'; ends imperf.: 'c(uiu)s adiutorio genuis p(ro)pagaret humanum'. The text is heavily glossed interlinearly and in margins (ed. Jones 1973: 179–291, Jones 1975–1980: 2.268–465, PL 90.293–578; cf. CPL 2320; this manuscript is no. 4 in Jones 1975–1980);

[Note: Chs. are indicated by red title, large colored initial (some decorated), and sometimes a line of rustic capitals. Ch. 1 is subdivided at f. 45v/20 'Cu(m) (er) g(o) dicis unu(m) . . .' (Jones 269/25) and at f. 46r/12 'POTEST AUT(EM) ET DE IPSO QVEM . . .' (Jones 271/75); ch. 9 is subdivided at 51v/31 'Si ergo uis scire quot . . .' (Jones 307/50); ch. 22 is subdivided after the table at f. 59r/10 IN K(A) L(ENDAS) I(N) N(ONAS) IN IDIB(US) | 'Si (i)g(itur) uis uerbi gratia anno . . .' (Jones 352/33); ff. 73r/29–74r/7 DE OGD'o'ADE ET I(N) \ [HEN]DECADE | 'IN PRIMO IGITVR ANNO EMBOLISMI HOC EST IN OGD'o'ADE . . . errare sublato rep(er)ies' is the first part of ch. 45 in PL 90.486A–488D but is not in Jones, and is not listed separately in the capitula; ch. 54 is subdivided at f. 78v/18 (Jones 443/11) 'Si uis nosse adiectiones solis . . .'; in ch. 56, f. 79v/5–23 (Jones 445–46) the list 'Anno lunari' is highlighted. The OE names of the months occur on f. 55r/10–14

as part of the standard (Latin) text. At the top of f. 45v are three lines of Roman numerals, apparently addition exercises. The text has been heavily glossed.]

Added texts:

- 5b. f.47v (top margin) a cryptogram in Greek letters containing a message enlisting divine support for the scribe, “Nunc mihi sit Dominus scribenti auxiliator, scribere ut possim hallice optimeque” (decoded and pr. by Lambert 1983: 140–41);
- c. f. 79v (margin, added in later hand) ecclesiological fragment: ‘Petrus. | Incipit iudiciu(m) | de domo d(e)i . . . rediges p(ro) uo|luntatem d(e)i’;
- d. f.85v/9–20 (added in a later hand on space left blank) a blessing for judgement by boiling water: ‘D(eu)s iustus iudex fortis et patiens es . . . p(re)stante d(omi)no n(ost)ro’. (pr. Omont 1898: 666; sim. to Andrieu 1931: 236);
- e. f.85v/23–31 (added in another later hand on space left blank) a series of curses condemning bad behaviour: ‘Maledict(us) (qui) n(on) hon-orat pa(trem) et m(atrem) (cf. Ex:20.12). maledict(us) q(ui) p(er)uerit iudiciu(m) . . . que(m)ad|modu(m) uoluit apparuit’;
- f. f.85v/36: A colophon, probably intended for the end of “De temporum ratione”: ‘+SIT SOSPES QVI SCRIPSIT HVNC LIBRVM+.

[foliation omits “86”]

6. Homiletic and ecclesiological extracts in various hands

[Note: F. 87, the last leaf of quire X, was probably left blank by the main scribe of “De temporum ratione,” but contains extra material to which further additions were then made and continued in the subsequent somewhat truncated quires.]

- a. f.87r/1–21 Extracts from Deut. 28: ‘Locut(us) (est) d(omi)n(u)s ad mois-en dic(e)ns. loq(ue)re ad populu(m) isr(ae)l . . . opp(ri)met te hostis tuus’;
- b. f. 87r/22–27 (same hand continues) part of a sermon on the Resurrection: ‘Quida(m) tractam ait. certu(m). ‘Fr(atre)s karissimi q(ui)a assid-uae cogitem(us) . . . sed etia(m) caelo(rum) nob(is) aet(er)na p(re)mia rep(ro)misi’ (from the middle section of a sermon based on Ps.-Cae-sarius 17 [PL 67.1080 = CPL 1019, CPPM 2290], pr. from Cambridge, Pembroke College MS 25 [11c, Bury] by Cross 1987: 167/32–168/3);
- c. f.87r/28–42 (in another hand, not following the rulings) various biblical and ecclesiological extracts and maxims: beg. ‘uigilate itaq(ue) omni-te(m)pore q(uia) nescitis die(m) necq(ue) hora(m) q(uan)do d(omi)-n(u)s ueniet’ (cf. Matt. 25:13); ends: ‘patiatur temptam(en)ta in ipsis gloriet(ur)’;
- d. f. 87v/1–32 (another hand) excerpts, mostly from Gregory the Great, that have been put together to make a brief homily, beg. with John 5:43:

'D(OMI)N(U)S dic(it) in euangeliō. ego ueni in nomine patris mei . . .'; from Moralia (PL 76.521–22), beg. line 6: 'GG. quis intelligat quur [for cur] uiuit. Alius insidians | mortibus p(ro)ximor(um) . . .'; from Hom. in Ev. Matt. 22:1–13 (PL 76.1293) beg. line 26: 'Nemo (er)g(o) scit quid de se in occultis'; ends: 'qui in se dignat(us) e(st) assumere | natura(m) n(ost)ram. q(ui) uiuit. et regn(at)';

- e. Extracts from Smaragdus of St. Mihiel (d. ca. 840), Collectiones in epistolias et evangelia:
- f. 88r/1–88v/4 'Primu(m) quippe tempus saeculi ante legem . . . caelestis patriae dona p(ro)ferre' (from Smaragdus Ev. Ioh., cap. II, PL 102.85A–89A);
- f. 88v/4–16 'Nulli malu(m) p(ro) malo reddentes . . . ab iniuria tu uicisti eu(m)' (from Smaragdus Ep. Rom., cap. XII, PL 102.91B–93A);
- f. 88v/16–25 'Cum descendisset d(omi)n(u)s de monte . . . sed etia(m) gratiae' (from Smaragdus Ev. Matt. cap. VIII, PL 102.93B–94A);
- ff. 88v/26–89r/9 'Fr(atr)es nemini q(ui)c(um)q(ue) [ed. "quidquam"] debeat is nisi ut inuice(m) . . . q(ui) n(on) diligit p(ro)ximu(m) nesciat chr(istu)m' (from Smaragdus Ep. Rom. cap. XIII, PL 102. 96D–98A);

102.119);
- j. ff. 93r/14–95v/33 Various sentences extracted without obvious order from Gregory, Moralia: ‘ECCe timor d(omi)ni ip’s a e(st) sapientia. et recedere a malo . . . ad ratione(m) oculos ap(er)it q(uo)s hic uoluptati dedit(us) | c’l’ausit’ (cf. PL 75–76).
7. ff.88r–95v (running along bottom margins) Added in another hand, various notes, extracts, glosses, mostly on patristic and biblical themes:
‘Seniores obsecro(rum) obsecrationes’; appears to end at bottom of 95v
(there is a line of the same writing at the top of 95v): ‘finis et uigilate in oranib[u]s [*recte ora(tio)ni*b[u]s] s(e)c(un)d(u)m exemplu(m) salu-atoris dicentis’.

[Note: At least four hands are evident on f. 96r.]

8. f.96r (top margin) scribbles in OE (?10/11c): 'on ðone weor 7. þæt . þ&s.y'; 'i(d est) guor' above 'weor'; '(uel) ant' above '7'; '(uel) e' above 'y'. The 'r' in 'weor' is majuscule, the 'g' in 'guor' has an open top loop (as elsewhere in the manuscript), ampersand for "æ", while the 'r' is 2-shaped. Uses eth, thorn, wynn, and "þæt" abbreviation.
- [Note: The OE is mysterious; the OBret. gloss 'guor' may mean "man", glossing 'weor' (cf. Fleuriot 1964/1985: 474, s.v. guor!).]
- 9a. f. 96r/1–10 Note on ferial regulars: '⟨pro⟩ quid d⟨icitu⟩r mar⟨tius⟩ .v. unus annus h⟨abe⟩t dies ccclxv. . . id⟨e⟩o d⟨icitu⟩r nouemb⟨er⟩ vii. sic facies p⟨er⟩ce⟨p⟩tos' (cf. De argumentis lunae PL 90.706B).
10. f. 96r/11–22 A little tract on governance made up of citations from Ecclesiasticus: DE RECTORIBUS | 'Rectorem te posuit d⟨eu⟩s noli extollī . . . magnus es humilia te in omnib⟨us⟩. | et cora⟨m⟩ d⟨e⟩o inuenies gratia⟨m⟩';
11. f. 96r/22–39 (a different hand takes over at line 33, at 'coepit') A summary of the book of Judith 1–6: 'ANno t⟨er⟩tio in regno cu⟨m⟩ esset et decimo nabucodo 'no'sor caepit | excitare . . . et uxores fame siti p⟨er⟩ eant';
- 9b. f. 96v/1–27 (same hand as 9a above) continuing notes on regulars: 'Q⟨uo⟩t datarum [sic] e⟨st⟩ hodie p⟨er⟩ dies anni. xvi<sup>o</sup> K<sup>l</sup> iunii. iunius in K⟨a⟩l⟨end⟩is q⟨uo⟩t dies | appellat. c. 'quin' qua. i.ii<sup>o</sup>. | 'relaxa futuros. relaxo xui. q⟨ua⟩re. quia adhuc desunt de numero | anni . . . p⟨er⟩ dies anni | in adp⟨ro⟩batione dieru⟨m⟩ et punctor⟨um⟩?'
- 12a. f. 96v/28–35 (added in bottom margin) + f. 99r Gottschalk of Orbais, "Lied für den Reichenauer Freund": 'O quid iubes pusiole . . . cana(m) patri filioq⟨ue⟩ simul || (continuing on f. 99r, below rota, 10 lines) atq⟨ue⟩ p⟨ro⟩cedenti ex utroq⟨ue⟩ . . . psalla⟨m⟩ die psalla⟨m⟩ nocte carm⟨en⟩ dulce o rex piissime' (first half pr. Omont 1898: 667–8, Chevalier 1892–1920: 3. no. 30945; poem identified, restored and ed. Bischoff 1967b: 29–31).
13. Table and Rota diagrams (probably intended to supplement Bede, De temp. rat., item 5a), with miscellaneous added texts:
- a. f. 97r/1–91v/9 A table (19 × 30 + 9) of the 19-year cycle showing common (C) and embolismic (E) years through the ogdoas and hendecas, continuing on verso for 9 more rows.
- b. f. 97v
- i) rota diagram, a composite of the sorts associated with Isidore's De nat. rer., showing (working outward) correlation of zodiac, winds, and

- months, and in four outside circles, seasons, colors, and elements (cf. PL 90.195–96 and 259–60); (in hand of 12?);
- ii) left side, lines 10–28 tract from a penitential or capitulary: ‘Qui subdiaconu(m) occiderit solidos .ccc. culpabilis iudicet(ur)’ ... ‘Parricidiu(m) faciens | xiiii annos peniteat | cum pane et aqua’ (pr. Omont 1898: 669, sim. to Charlemagne, Capitulum 25, PL 97.555C) and to right of this, under rota, same hand, is crowded a formula of repentance: ‘penitentia(m) agam de malis . . . & p(ro)geniem mea(m)’ [see also f. 99r, item iii and f. 99v, item v, which are in the same hand];
  - iii) on right, lines 10–18 ‘De vii. substantiis | animae ag(ustinu)s d(ici)t. | Du(m) c(on)templat(ur) sp(iritu)s. du(m) sentit . . . vegit& anima est’ (cf. Isidore, Differentiae 29, PL 83.84);
  - iv) right side, lines 19–32 and bottom, 3 lines ‘Melius (est) diuidere qua(m) discor|dare . . . liberat me de malis meis \ ezechiel metiens ciuitate(m) . . . in circuitu & plateas ei(us) foras’ (cf. Ez. 40–41);
  - v) lines 28–29 (same hand as iv, less crowded?) ‘Ag(ustinu)s. Tribus mod(is) iudicib[u]s iudicandu(m). Natura hoc (est) indagatione | rerum. & si-militudine p(re)cedentiu(m). & ex uerbis scripturae’;
- c. f. 98r
- i) rota diagram showing the correlation of planets and zodiacal signs: (central rubric) ‘cursus et or|do planetar(um). et ubi | a centro t(er)rae hab[et] si|das [sic] altissimas habe|ant’;
  - ii) from line 1 (working around rota to 5 lines beneath) various maxims and definitions: ‘hieronim(us) ait. Duo contraria s(un)t. filius bonus a patre iniusto . . . siue q(ui) agit et si mala s(unt) t(u)m tibi uiden(ur) bona’;
  - iii) (in another hand, bottom 4 lines up) ‘Quom(o) dic(it) diligit misericordia(m) cu(m) alio loco dicat . . . subueniat misericordia’;
- d. f. 98v
- i) rota diagram on tides (cf. De rat. temp. ch. 29 and table, PL 90.423–24);
  - ii) (45 informal lines running to left of rota and 5 at bottom) various maxims and comments: ‘bene n(on) solu(m) d(omi)n(u)s p(ro)pt(er) iudiciu(m) regis stematis . . . quia mittis [sic] (est) et humili / corde.’ (bottom) ‘Et inuenietis req(ui)em animab(u)s u(ost)ris . . . p(re)tiosius auro d(e)o munus offerre’;
  - iii) seven lines between between rota and bottom text, verses with introduction (verses in two cols.) “Versus Prisciani de Sideribus”: Incipit aepitome pheromenon [sic] id [est] apparitio siue ap[p]arentia p(ri)sciani grammatici uersus xii de sideribus. | ‘Ad boreae partes arctos uertunt(ur) et anguis . . . Hinc sequunt(ur) pystrix simul eridaniq(ue) fluenta’ (as Riese 1870: 2.139, no. 679; Schaller and Könsgen 1977: no. 151);

e. f. 99r

- i) rota with ‘centron’ and ‘diametron’ crisscrossing perpendicularly to make eight segments of the ‘oroscopus’, six of the points labeled with planets (‘sol’ missing) and with an inscription below: i. ‘h’ oroscopus stella. quae n<sub>(on)</sub> appetet tantu(m) indicto | ii. tomes uranima [sic] id media caeli | iii. todynon id. occasus ubi occidit sol | iv. topogin id sub t(er)ra’;
- ii) below and to the right, a large cross-shaped figure or monogram labeled ‘lux’;
- iii) lines 1–5 from Chrodegang of Metz, “Regula canonicorum”: DE DECIMIS DIVENDIS. ‘SACerdotes populi suscipient decimas . . . ipsis soli sacerdotes reseruent’ (PL. 89.1089D) [see f. 97v, item ii];
- iv) (to right of rota, lines 6–20, in another hand) part of a glossary?: ‘Encenia d⟨icitu⟩r solle(m)nitas dedicatio|nis te(m)pli . . . ministrantes fame(m) paciebant(ur)’ [this seems to continue on f. 99v (item iv)];
- v) an inscription relating to the poem below (item vi): ‘est Karitas monar|chitas [recte monachitas] toti(us) mundi (underlined and ‘cos-mi’ wrtten above) fauicitas | et quod latet et quod patet | decus eiusde(m) referat’.
- 12b. (ten lines below rota, continuation from f. 96v of Gottschalk of Orbais, “Lied für den Reichenauer Freund”) ‘atq⟨ue⟩ p⟨ro⟩cedenti . . . o rex pi-issime’.
- vi) (nine lines at bottom of page) drinking song: ‘Hic sistim(us) cu(m) p⟨re⟩cibus ( . . . ) bene bibatis poscim(us) . . . ac deinde potauim(us) sufficient(er) c(on)sedimus’ (ed. Bischoff 1967a: 69–70, Smolak 1986: 270).

f. f. 99v

- i) rota diagram of the week, showing as pie-segments the time divisions within the days of the week, central inscription: ‘ebdomada | h⟨abe⟩t dies vii et ho⟨ras⟩ | clxviii. pu⟨nctos⟩ dclx|xii. min⟨uta⟩ idclxxx | mom⟨enta⟩ üidccxx’;
- ii) rota showing the terrestrial zones with the ecliptic crossing them, labeled with the seasonal zodiacal signs;
- iii) rota diagram of “harmony of moon and sea”(omitting the tidal signs “ledo” and “malina”), central inscription: ‘ordo lunæ et | cursus maris aetas | lunae et comitatio māris. et quatuor aebd’o’|madas maris et lunae’ (cf. Bede, De temp. rat., ch. 29);
- iv) continuation of glossary? (by several hands?, running for 28 informal lines above and around rotae): ‘irabis maius peccatu(m) et maxime inuidia(m) intelligi potest’ . . . ‘pignus dat(ur) 7 recipit(ur)’;

- v) (seven lines to left of lower rota) a canon from a penitential or capitulary: ‘Mulier quae dormiens filiu(m) suu(m) | o(p)primit . . . & fletum poenitentis’ (as e.g. Herardus Turonensis (8/9c), Capitulum 88, PL 121.770A-B, also pr. Omont 1898: 669) [see f. 97v, item ii];
- vi) (next 5 lines, another hand?) ‘Scri’p’tura s(an)c(t)a dicit. Qui adult(er)-a(m) tenet s(i)t stultus et impius. . . . et qualis cu(m)q(ue) accepta –. habenda. 7’; (cf. Egbert archb. of York, Excerptiones, ch. 119, “Item de legitimo conjugio,” PL 89.392–93);
- vii) (bottom margin, added later) the names of Greek letters ‘alpha. beta . . . otomegâ. enneacses’ (pr. Omont 1898: 669).

Part C

14. ff.100r/1–101r/82: A fragment of a 13c copy of the “Institutiones” of the Emperor Justinian (a bifolium, not the central sheet, from a dismembered quire has been used to cover the anchorage of the sewing bands by sticking the second leaf over the board). The central text (29/28 lines in two columns) is surrounded on four sides by the commentary of Accursius or Accorso di Bagnolo (ca. 1182–1263, ed. Anello de Bottis 1592: 23 ff., ad loc.) in writing about 40% the size of the main text, with the bottom margin occupied by additional commentary in still smaller writing. The main text begins on f.100r/a1 ‘[magistratus] huic iuri auct(oritatem) dederu(n)t ¶ Prop|onebant aut(em) ediles cu-rules edic|tum de q(ui)b(us)d(am) causis’ (as Moyle 1912: 105/I.ii.7), to f.100v/b29 ‘Multis aut(em) modis ma[numissio procedit]’ (as Moyle 1912: 114/I.v.1); after a break of missing leaves it continues at f.101r/ a1 ‘[quos ex iustis nup]tiis p(ro)creauerimus ¶ Nuptie aut(em) | siue mat(ri)moniu(m) est uiri’ (as Moyle 1912: 124–25/I.ix.1) to f.101r/ b28 ‘¶ Itaq(ue) eam q(uae) p(er) adopt(i)onem t(ibi)’ (as Moyle 1912: 132/I.x.1). At the foot of f.101r there is a tabular note indicating conditions forbidding matrimony, beginning ‘Prohibent nupt(ias)’. f. 101v is attached to the end cover (and cannot be read).

PHOTO NOTES: The red ink in the manuscript is much faded and only partially legible, so it often does not show on the fiche. The opening showing ff. 87v–88r appears twice.

6. Arras, Bibliothèque Municipale, cod. 764 (739(A))

Hrabanus Maurus, “In Judith,” “In Hester”;
Compilation of commentaries on Pauline epistles;
Isidore, “Allegoriae sacrae Scripturae,” “Prooemia Veteris et Novi Testamenti,” “De ortu et obitu patrum”
[Ker 4/5; Gneuss 779 /780; Lowe 6.714]

HISTORY: Three separate items have been brought together in this manuscript after they all came to the abbey of St-Vaast, Arras.

Part A (ff. 1–93, Ker 4, Gneuss 779, Lowe 6.714), written probably in northern France (?St-Bertin) at the end of the 9c, probably came to Bath in 944 with the monks installed there from St-Bertin by King Edmund, and was almost certainly the “liber rabbani super iudith et hester,” one of thirty-three given by Sæwold (abbot of Bath 1065 × 1066) when or after he emigrated to the abbey of St-Vaast, Arras (Grierson 1940a: 111, no. 32; Lapidge 1985: 60–62, no. 32); for some account of manuscript movement between England and the near continent at this time see Gameson 2002: 176–77. As reported by Grierson (1940b: 132, no. 154), it is recorded as present in St-Vaast in the 12c catalogue of books there (Arras, BM cod. 323, f. 71v). The last leaf of this part, f. 93, is much darkened by the application of a reagent as well as by exposure or dirt. There is an addition in Latin on f. 93v and scribbles in OE on ff. 89v, 90r, 93v (see Ker, Cat. 4), but otherwise there are no annotations. Together with B and C it was still in St-Vaast in 1628, as is recorded on f.1r ‘Bibliotheca monasterii S. Vedasti Atrebantensis 1628’.

Part B (ff. 94–133) was probably written on the continent in the 11c, and perhaps because it begins with an item by (or drawn from) Hrabanus Maurus, was thought suitable to be added to A.

Part C (ff. 134–181, Ker 5, Gneuss 780, Lowe 6.714) was written by more than one hand in an A-S minuscule (with majuscule elements) in England, perhaps Winchester, probably in the first half of the 9c (Lowe 1953 says s.viii; Gneuss says s.ix). Once in St-Vaast it seems to have been hardly used, if the lack of annotations is anything to go by. It has a couple of apparently contemporary OE glosses.

The present binding is of white vellum from the 17c. The transfer from St-Vaast to the Bibliothèque Municipale in Arras (the same building) was in effect an administrative one and took place formally with the opening of the Bibliothèque Municipale in 1795. OE in the manuscript was first noticed by Mone 1838. On f.181r in the bottom margin there is a 19c note that it contains 181 folios, 'Il reste 181 feuillets.'

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios i + 93 + 40 + 48 + i, membrane except for the paper endleaves (which were added with the 17c binding), measuring 198 × 153 mm. The written areas in the various parts are as follows: Part A 140 × 115 mm., disposed in 18 long lines, set out with great regularity and neatness; Part B 185 × 142 mm., disposed in 34–37 long lines; Part C 160 × 129 mm., disposed in 20–24 long lines. Holes show in ff. 105, 122, 123, 145, 181, and artificial holes show where textual matter has been cut out in ff. 58 and 59. The bottom margin area has been cut out of f. 90, and the lower area of f. 93, where there was no text, has also been cut out. Hair/Flesh: Part A: HFHF; Part B: HFHF; Part C: HFHF.

Pricking: None visible in Part A. In Part B prickmarks for the horizontal lines of writing can sometimes be seen near the outer edges of leaves, as 30 prickmarks on ff. 111–114 in quire XV, and 25 prickmarks on ff. 123–125 in quire XVI. Otherwise they are only occasionally visible in part near the outer edge for horizontal lines, as on f. 100 in quire XVI. In Part C slit-shaped prickmarks for 24 horizontal lines of writing are shown in quire XX near both the inner and outer edges of the leaves in the first half of the quire; apparently pricking was done with the sheets unfolded. Similarly in quire XXI prickmarks for 22 horizontal lines are shown on the first two leaves only; no doubt those on any subsequent leaves were cropped by the binder. In quire XXII only traces of these prickmarks for the horizontal lines can be seen on the first leaf, f. 160. In quire XXIII prickmarks for the horizontal lines can be seen right at the outer edge of the ruled frame on f. 164 only (the first leaf). No prickmarks are visible in the remaining part of this part.

Ruling: Part A shows a frame rule in hardpoint with single bounding lines and horizontal lines ruled for writing; there is writing on the top line. Part B was apparently ruled in hardpoint with a frame rule, but the membrane is thin and "tired" (f. 96, with an internal tear, is in danger of disintegrating), and the leaves have been cropped by a binder, leaving virtually no margins, so that little can be seen. In quire XV, as on ff. 111–114, there are 26 ruled lines but the scribe has fitted 35 lines of writing into them; similarly with quire XVI there are 25 ruled lines on ff.123–125, but the scribe has fitted 32 lines of writing into them. In Part C the ruling in hardpoint shows a frame rule with single bounding lines and with 23 horizontal lines ruled for writing, with writing on the top line. The ruling was evidently done with the sheets folded, probably a quire at a time.

Color: In Part A the heading on f. 1r was apparently originally in red, but is now illegible following the application of a reagent. On ff. 52v–54r incipits and chapter numbers (for the list of capitula) are in red, but the chapters themselves are not signalled until ch. ‘vi’ in brown ink on f. 71r. There is no use of color in Part B. Part C shows ‘Z’ with red ornament on f. 177v, also A-S insular-style decorated initials surrounded by red dots.

COLLATION: Part A: I<sup>8</sup> (ff. 1–8), II<sup>8</sup> (ff. 9–16), III<sup>8</sup> (ff. 17–24), IV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 25–32), V<sup>8</sup> (ff. 33–40), [a quire is missing], VI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 41–48), VII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 49–56), VIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 57–64), IX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 65–72), X<sup>8</sup> (ff. 73–80), XI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 81–88), XII<sup>6</sup> wants 6 (ff. 89–93); Part B: XIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 94–101), XIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 102–109), XV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 110–117), XVI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 118–125), XVII<sup>6</sup> (ff. 126–131), XVIII<sup>2</sup> (ff. 132–133); Part C: XIX<sup>12</sup> 6 and 7, ff. 139–140, are half-sheets (ff. 134–145), XX<sup>6</sup> wants 6 (ff. 146–150), XXI<sup>10</sup> wants 10 (ff. 151–159), XXII<sup>8</sup> wants 3, 4, 7, 8 (ff. 160–163), XXIII<sup>10</sup> 2 and 9 (ff. 165, 172) are half-sheets (ff. 164–173), XXIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 174–181).

Original quire signatures in the bottom margins of Part A, ‘i.’ on f. 8v, ‘ii.’ on f. 16v, ‘iii.’ on f. 24v, ‘iiii.’ on f. 32v, ‘v’ on f. 40v, [quire no. “vi” wanting], ‘vii.’ on f. 48v, ‘viii.’ on f. 56v, ‘viiii.’ on f. 64v, ‘:x:’ on f. 72v, ‘:xi:’ on f. 80v, ‘:xii:’ on f. 88v, and subsequent ones added in a later (?modern) hand ‘XIV’ on f. 101v, ‘XV’ on f. 109v, ‘XVI’ on f. 117v, ‘XVII’ on f. 125v, ‘XVIII’ on f. 133v, ‘XIX’ on f. 145v, ‘XX’ on f. 150v, ‘XXI’ on f. 160v (erroneously placed), ‘XXII’ on f. 163v, ‘XXIII’ on f. 173v, ‘XXIV’ on f. 181v.

CONTENTS:

Part A, Hrabanus on Judith and Esther

Inscription above the top line of f.1r ‘Bibliotheca monast(er)ii S. Vedasti atrebensis 1628 A.’ and ‘Rabanus maurus’; below that in the same hand to the right of the title where it is written over an (older) title note: ‘Ju(Gu)dith. | (Liber)’.

1. ff.1/1–52v/10 “Commentarius in Judith”: (lacks prologue, partly illegible heading in oxidized silver and red) [I]NCIPIT [EXPOS]ITIO HRA ‘b’ BANI | [IN] LIBRUM IUDITH | ‘Arfaxat itaque rex medorum subiugauerat multas | gentes imperio suo’; ends: ‘Quando uidebitur d(eu)s | deorum in sion et s(an)c(t)i eius regnabunt cum eo in saecula seculorum.’ | EXPLICIT. EXPOSITIO. HRABANI. MAURI. IN IUDITH (as PL 109.539–92; cf. Stegmüller 7038).

[Note: Large, three lines high, decorated initial 'A' of text visible in outline. There is a lacuna in the text where a quire is missing between ff. 40 and 41: f. 40v ends 'porro ozias princeps populi israhel dixit ad eam; benedicta [es tu filia]' (= PL 109. 576A); and f. 41r begins '[ad disci]pulos suos ait: Data est mihi omnis potestas in caelo et in t(er)ra; [Matt. 28:18]' (= PL 109. 582D).]

2. Hrabanus Maurus, "Commentarius in Hester": ff. 52v/11–53r/11 INCIPIT. PROLOGUS. 'Liber hester quem hebrei inter agiographa annumerant . . . ad aeterni regni gaudia perducere dignetur';
- ff. 53r/11–54r/2 INCIP(IUNT) CAP(ITULA) LIBER HESTER. | 'I De asuero rege et famosissimo eius conuiuio . . . XIIIII Quod assuerus rex cunctas insulas fecit tributarias ubi historia | hester apud hebreos finem habet.' EXPLIC(IUNT) CAPITULA HESTER.;
- ff. 54r/3–93r/12 INCIPIT EXPOSITIO HRA|BANI MAURI. IN HESTER | 'IN DIEBUS. ASSUERI. QUI REGNAUIT. AB INDIA. USQUE. | AETHiopiam'; ends: 'omnes qui uiderunt eos cognoscent illos | quia isti sunt semen cui benedixit d(omi)n(u)s.' EXPLICIT EXPOS|TIO HRABANI MAURI IN HESTER. D(E)O GRATIAS / AMEN (PL 109.635–70; Stegmüller 7039). Chapters (as in PL) indicated by slightly larger capitals, and numbers in margin. Small rectangular patches cut out, with loss of text, from ff. 58, 59, and a strip from the bottom margin of f. 90 with no loss of text; the bottom part of f. 93 (which could hold 5 lines of normal text but which was probably blank) below this text has been cut out.

[Note: On f. 93v a later addition in Latin now largely illegible to the naked eye, formerly read as "Paulus apostolus Christi Domini . . . ipse dixit ad eum . . . miserat Christus . . ." (Catalogue Général 1872: 295); lines 2–4 have the so-called Apostles' Creed: '[. . .]ire credo in d(eu)m patre[m] | [. . .] credo et in ie(su)m chr(istu)m | [. . .] credo et in sp(iritu)m s(an)c(t)um et s(an)c(t)am | [ecclesia(m)] catholica(m) s(an)c(t)o(rum) communione(m) remissione(m) pecca[torum]'; then, also on f. 93v, after some OE (see next section), a now illegible (after the application of a reagent) Latin inscription in an A-S script, formerly read as "Explicit Disputatio libri Veteris et Novi Testamenti" (Cat. Gén. 295).]

OE Contents in Part A: On f. 89v, top margin, 'wes æil', and on 90r, top margin, 'oc drinc hæil þ[æt] wer na(?). ær', with the passage completed as far as possible (following damage from the application of a reagent) from the script facsimile in Caron 1860: facing p. 375. On f. 93v, 'ic wæt þ[æt] ne gewoerdað'. Caron's script facsimile also records, without any indication of the position on the page, "[. . .] þ[æt] orm] were swa wis on bocum [hocum in the facsimile] swa he is for werolde". This last annotation is recorded by Mone 1838: 323 as "ic wæt, þæt arm were swa wis on bocum swa he is for worulde", and reported by Förster 1932: 24, n.107. As Ker notes, the annotator uses “p,” “þ,” and “wynn,” but his forms of “a,” “g,” and “r” are caroline. These three scribbles are apparently all in the same hand and probably 10c (Ker, Cat. pp. 3–4).

Part B, a compilation of commentaries upon Pauline epistles

Booklet (a):

3. ff.94r/1–101v/39 Hrabanus Maurus? “Enarrationes in Epistolas Beati Pauli” (selections, or possibly a composite work based thereon, beginning with the first part of “Expositio in Epistolam ad Corinthos primam” (whole = PL 112. 9–160), and ending with the last part of “Expositio in Epistolam ad Hebraeos” (whole = PL 112. 711–834): ‘Paulus ap<osto>l(u)s chr<ist>i ie<s>u. Apostolu(s) chr<ist>i [paulu(s)] nomine[?]. q(uia) ab ipsa in fine ad [...] | [...] [di]x<it> ad eu<m>. Uade ego longe ac gentes mittam(m) te’ (cf. PL 112. 10); ends apparently incomplete in ch.13 (last) of the “Expositio in Epistolam ad Hebraeos”: ‘neq(ue) homo animalis | gratia(m) poterit sp<iritu>s s<an>c(t)i suscepere’ (= PL 112. 834A); Stegmüller 7065 and 7077). F.101v is at the end of quire XIII.

[Note: Grierson 1940a: 112 suggests that it might be derived from Hrabanus' Pauline commentaries or maybe is part of “Expositio super epistolas Pauli” by Freculf of Lisieux (9c), a work mentioned in the 12c Arras catalogue (no. 176, Grierson 1940b: 133) but otherwise unknown. Grierson 1940a: 112–13 sees four parts, with a division between the Hrabanus and the Ps.-Haimo; f. 102 begins a quire and probably a different hand, but they seem to be coordinated “booklets” rather than distinct “Parts.”]

Booklet (b):

4. ff.102r/1–106r/30 Pseudo-Haimo Halberstatensis, “Commentarius in Epistolam I ad Thessalonicenses”: INCIPIT EP<ISTO>LA PAULI AD T<H>ESALONICENSES | ‘Macedonia p<ro>uincia <est> greco<rum> in qua <est> ciuitas metropolis thessalonica’; ends: ‘ut securi de p<rae>mio recte <con>u(er)sentur’ | EXPLIC<IT> EP<ISTO>LA I (as PL 117.765–78; Stegmüller 3107) [last two words of text in another hand].
5. ff.106r/30–108r/26 Pseudo-Haimo Halberstatensis, “Commentarius in Epistolam II ad Thessalonicenses”: INCIPIT II | ‘Thesalonicenses accipientes p<ri>ore<m> ep<isto>lam cu<m> p<er>uenissent legendu ad illu<m> | locu<m>’; ends: ‘pseudoap<osto>lo<rum> potuisse corru<m>pi Ita scribo Quomodo. gra<ti>a d<omi>ni n<ost>r ih<es>u chr<ist>i cu<m> om<ni>uo uobis [recte omnibus]’ EXPLICIT II EP<ISTO>LA AD T<HE>S<A>L<O>N<I>C<ENSE>S. (as PL 117.777–84; Stegmüller 3108).
6. ff.108r/26–115r/7 Pseudo-Haimo Halberstatensis, “Commentarius in Epistolam ad Galatas”: INCIP<IT> AD GALATHAS | ‘Primo q<uae>- rendu(m) <est> in exordio h(uiu)s ep(isto)lę unde sint appellati galathę Rex bithinię'; ends imperf. in ch. 3: 'q(uae) facta <est> ad abraha(m) de chr(ist)o q(uo)d in semine ei(us) benedicendę e(ss)ent o(m)nes gentes. Absit.' (as PL 117. 669–684A; Stegmüller 3104).

[Note: At f.115r/8 there is a change to a paler ink, and after item 6 ends incomplete item 7 begins imperfect.]

7. ff.115r/8–123r/7 Marius Victorinus (fl. ca. 363), "In Epistolam Pauli ad Galatas libri duo" (abridged and begins imperfect. in Book 2, ch. 3, vers. 21): 'Si <enim> data e(ss)et lex q(ua) posset uiuificare uere ex lege e(ss)et iustitia' (= PL 8. 1172A); ends: 'Gratia d(omi)ni n(ost)ri ie(s)u chr(ist)i cu(m) sp(irit)u u(est)ro AMEN' EXPLICIT AD GALAT(AS) (ed. Locher 1972: 36–71, PL 8.1145–98; Stegmüller 1887, CPL 98).
8. ff.123r/7–133r/20 Pseudo-Haimo Halberstatensis, "Commentarius in Epistolam ad Ephesios": INCIP(IT) AD EPH(ESIO)S | 'Ephesus ciuitas <est> asiæ 7 grecie cui(us) habitatores ephesii uocant(ur)'; ends imperfect. in ch. 4 (of 6): '& descendit p(ri)mu(m) | in inferiores partes t(er)-re' (= PL 117. 719B) (as PL 117. 699–734; Stegmüller 3105). The rest of f.133r is blank. The leaf has been partly cut out (7/8 lines up) underneath the written text.

f.133v blank (except for quire signature).

Part C, Isidore, Biblica and Hagiographica

- f. 134r/1–14 blank (presumably for titles that were never filled in);
9. ff.134r/15–150r/11: Isidore, "Allegoriae quaedam Sacrae Scripturae": (prologue) 'Nunc quaedam notissima nomina in lege N[o]uae | de u(e)t(e)ro'q(ue)' testamento sub alligoria ymaginariae | teguntur . . . emendandum sollicite cures'; (text, "Ex veteri testamento" beg. f. 134v/1) 'Ada(m) figura(m) chr(ist)i gestauit'; ("Ex novo testamento" beg. at f. 142v/12, title on line 12 is illegible because of dark blotches) 'Quatuor euangelistae d(omi)n(u)m ie(su)m chr(istu)m sub quatuor | animalium uultibus figuraliter expaemunt'; [another hand begins at f. 141v/1] ends: 'In qua omnes s(an)c(t)i per chr(istu)m aeternae beatitudinii [sic] | refectione saturabuntur.' 'Explicit' de libris noui & e [sic] ueteris testamenti. (as PL 83. 97–130; CPL 1190).
10. Texts added in another hand:
  - a. f. 150r/13–22 Aquilinus Juvencus, "Evangeliae Historiae libri IV", Bk. 4, lines 3–13: 'Certum <est> ueridicum té nunc uenisce magistrum . . . Atq(ue) d(e)o p(ro)prium legis tribuemus honorem'; the verse lines correspond to lines as written on the leaf (as PL 19. 279–80);
  - b. f. 150v/1–16: A series of biblical and patristic quotations: beg. effaced '[. . .] patria quando ipse quem diligo mecu(m) est'; continues at line

- 5: ‘Ubi cumque fuerit corpus illuc congregabuntur’ (Matt. 24:28, Lk. 17:37); at line 13, ‘Dificilis est accusatio in episcopum si peccauerit | nemo credit’, sim. Jerome, “Commentarius in Ecclesiasten” (PL 23.1077B/C); ends at line 15: ‘Nihil sine dolore amittitur nisi quod sine amore possidetur’, sim. Gregory, “Moralia” 1.1.5 (PL. 75.591A); f.150v/17–23 blank. End of quire XX, wanting a leaf, which presumably contained the beginning of the next item.
11. ff. 151r/1–163r/11: Isidore, “In libros veteris ac novi testamenti prooemia”: (prologue, beg. imperfect) ‘[tamen propter quamdam eloquii] salomonis sancti ut titulo praenotati . . . In eis parua prae ‘ue’l hemia.’ mia narrationum subiecta eciamus’ (= §§8–15, PL 83.153A–160B); (text, f. 151v/8) ‘Genesis iuxta fidem historiae discripsit [sic] fabricam mundi’; ends: ‘flumen etiam baptismi mundum | lignumque uitae dominum’ nomen ‘nosterum’ ie(su)m christum’ | explicit disputatio libri veteris et noui testamenti. (as PL 83.158–80; CPL 1192); f.163r/12–17 blank.
- f. 163v blank but for a 12c addition, apparently in cipher.
12. ff. 164r/1–181v/23 Isidore, “De ortu et obitu patrum”: INcipit de ortu et gestis et obitu et uita (preface) ‘Quorundam | inlustrium uirorum sanctorum nobilissimorum que | ueteris et noui testamenti . . . Qui in scripturarum | laudibus praefereuntur.’ (capitula, line 9, 5 cols., Fathers are numbered in margin in text but not in capitula) ‘Adam | Abel | enoch . . . (N.T. saints beg. at ‘Zacharias’ line 16d and continue in margin of f. 164v to ‘timotheus | tis’; text of O.T. beg. f. 164v/1: ‘Adam protuplaustus [sic] et colonus paradiisi’; N.T. beg. at f. 177v/1: ‘Zacharias et elezabeth ante dominum iusti’; ends imperf. in ch.81: ‘Philippus galilias Bartolomeus / li[caoniam]’ (= PL 83.154A; the last word is added below the line but is now more or less illegible (ed. Chaparro Gómez 1985 [siglum “A,” cf. pp. 60–61], PL 83.129–56; CPL 1191).

OE glosses in Part C: They are by a hand probably more or less contemporary (9c?) with that of the text: on f. 168r/20, ‘gerecum’ in left-hand margin [in gutter] glossing ‘sceptris’ (PL “sortibus”) and f. 174v/11, interlinear ‘herdu’ glossing ‘stuppa’ (PL “offa”) and ‘her’ glossing ‘capillis’ (cf. Vaciago 1993: 3 and Meritt 1961: 448, no. XV). On f.164r/5, in the left-hand margin, there occurs in the same glossing hand ‘scetit’ (possibly for “scætit”) but it does not seem to be relevant here.

PHOTO NOTES: Folios 1r, 90r, 93v are much rubbed or damaged by the application of reagent and can be read only in part on the film/fiche. A Supplement presents slightly enhanced (negative) images of f. 93v; no improvement could be made for f. 90r. Part B shows writing that is often very faint in the manuscript and so it is mostly very difficult to read on the fiche; for example f. 115r/8–37 appears blank on the fiche, but in fact the writing is extremely pale. F. 133r is shown with a paper backing leaf behind it. The OE gloss on f. 168r/20 is in the gutter and not fully visible on the film.

HISTORY: Written in Italy by several hands employing a broad and stately uncial script, probably in the first half of the 6c (Lowe 1953: 11, also previously described by E. Martel in Catalogue Général 1872: 4.592–93, where it is assigned to the 7c). Corrections or alterations by a scribe are found occasionally, as on f. 71r. Booklet B was added to Booklet A at the time of writing, Booklet B being distinguished by showing initially a different position for the vertical column of prickmarks and generally thicker membrane, as well as a new set of quire signatures. The manuscript was formerly thought to have been in England in the 8c. But as argued by von Büren (1993: 152–55) the manuscript was at Lorsch by the end of the 8c, where it was annotated on ff. 61r–62r (cf. item 4) by an A-S monk passing through, probably on his way to (or from) Rome, then it was at Corbie in the mid-9c, where it was catalogued (Vatican, Pal. Lat. 1877, f. 49r) and the text was copied (Paris, BN, lat. 12137), before finally moving on to Cluny, where it was catalogued again as no. 103 in the 11c. Unfortunately the loss of leaves at the beginning of the manuscript may have resulted in the loss of information about its provenance.

The manuscript's later history is difficult to reconstruct with certainty (cf. Wilmart 1925: 292–93, n.4). The older suggestion was that it was at Arras at the time of the French Revolution, and therefore previously at St-Vaast. Another suggestion is that it may well have been at St-Bertin. Martène and Durand (1717–1724: 1.2: 184) record seeing there three ancient manuscripts, one of St. Basil, one of St. Ambrose, and one of St. Gregory, “qui ont plus de mil ans,” and the present manuscript has been considered a prime candidate for the Ambrose. At the time of the Revolution the books from St-Bertin went to the depot at St-Omer. The manuscripts and books for the library of the newly-founded departmental École Centrale (1795) at Boulogne-sur-Mer were chosen by one man, Jean-Baptiste Isnardi, who was able to select from four revolutionary depots, those at Arras, St-Omer, Montreuil-sur-Mer, and Béthune (see Describers' Preface). When the Écoles Centrales were suppressed in 1802 the books were at the disposition of the town and became the fonds anciens of the new Bibliothèque Municipale (Tuleu 1995: 53). Undoubtedly the present manuscript was one of the hundred manuscripts chosen by Isnardi, but this information does not make its history watertight, particularly as Boulogne acquired more manuscripts from St-Vaast (some thirty-two) than from St-Omer (some eight) after the French Revolution (H. Michelant in Catalogue 1849–1918: 4 [1872]: 565–69). Moreover, there is another candidate for the Ambrose seen by Martène and Durand at St-Bertin, viz. Boulogne-sur-Mer 35 (Catalogue 1849–1918: 4 [1872]: 594–95) dating from the 9c.

During the 18c or early 19c the manuscript was exposed to damp, particularly at the spine, and probably also at the beginning and end, so that an estimated 6 leaves were lost from the first quire and one was lost at the end, and the penultimate pages, ff. 189v–190r, are much faded. At some point, probably in the late 19c, the manuscript was “reorganized” so that Booklet B was more fully integrated with Booklet A by the allocation of new quire signatures that provided the appearance of greater continuity between Booklet B and Booklet A. New titles were added in the top margin, as on ff. 25v, 55v, and also on ff. 185r, 187r, and 189r. Folio numbers were entered at the top right-hand corner of recto leaves. At this time the manuscript was re-sewn and bound, and a binding strip containing 12/13c writing was inserted at the centre of quire XXIV. F. 119 was sewn in in the wrong position (it should be before f. 115). No doubt this reorganization coincided with the late 19c binding of light tan calf on thick card with red morocco for the spine, presently covered in grey paper. A note in red ink on the last paper endleaf, f. 192r, recording ‘190 feuillets | Boulogne sur mer le 17 mai 1884 | Le Conservateur’ followed by his signature, is no doubt contemporary with the binding. Probably in the course of this rebinding some leaves were evidently glued to each other at the hinge, occasionally in defiance of the collational structure (e.g., ff. 26/27, 50/51, 58/59, 66/67). The rubber stamp of the Bibliothèque Municipale at Boulogne-sur-Mer appears in the bottom margin of every recto page. At the time of inspection (October 2006) the manuscript was still in poor condition at the hinges of the bifolia, with several leaves loose (ff. 1, 11, 74, 91, 179) and is due for conservation; it is also the most ancient manuscript in the library. It is described exactly as found in October 2006, using analysis of the textual content to indicate any loss or disordering of leaves that has occurred.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios i + 190 + ii, membrane (with the exception of the paper endleaves) of smooth Italian type, cream-colored on the hair side, measuring 245 × 220 mm., and the written area 205 × 175 mm., with the text disposed in 27 long lines. Some leaves are very fine and thin, as ff. 37, 72. In Booklet B the membrane used is generally thicker than in Booklet A, including some very thick leaves, as ff. 121/126. Holes occur in the text on ff. 5, 7, 13, 23–25, 30, 36, 38, 39, 51, 52, 57, 59, 60, 69, 72, 76, 77, 80, 81, 84, 87–88, 91, 94, 100, 104, 127, 137, 140, 144, 156, 172, 174, and in the margins on ff. 5, 9, 13, 30, 41, 57, 59, 60, 71, 73, 76, 77, 102, 111, 118, 119–120, 128, 131, 132–133, 139, 163, 165, 190. Generally there are fewer holes in Booklet B than in Booklet A. Some leaves have been slit or cut, as ff. 25, 29, 46, 56, 60 (with slight loss of text), 70, 76, 86, 88, 118 (a small portion cut out), 129–130, 131, 132, 141, 151, 184, 189. Flesh outside, all sheets, in quires of 8; see "Collation."

Pricking in Booklet A: f. 1, prickmarks for the 27 horizontal lines of writing can be seen about 15 mm. beyond the text area of the leaf. Quires II, III, V, VI, VII, IX, X, XI, XII, XV, XVI are similar, but quires IV, VIII, XIII, XIV show the prickmarks only 10 mm. beyond the text area. In Booklet B prickmarks for the 27 horizontal lines of writing can be seen tight in to or very close to the outer frame line of the text area in quires XVII, XVIII, XIX, but in quires XX, XXI, XXII up to about 8 mm. beyond the outer frame line, and in quires XXIII, XXIV, and XXV about 10 mm. beyond the outer frame line. The ruling throughout is for a simple frame in hardpoint on the flesh side, done 1 or 2 bifolia at a time. The ruling generally extends across the gutter at the hinge of the bifolium (as very clearly on ff. 27/34, 121/126) and beyond the column of prickmarks to the edges of the leaves as presently constituted (after cropping). There is writing on the top line. Quire signatures, probably original, on right-hand lower corner of the last page of quires, each booklet beg. with 'i'; in Booklet B the signature series has been extended using a continuous series (see below).

Red ink (now somewhat faded) is used for rubrics on ff. 25r/v, 55v, 75v, 98v, 99r, 118v, 120r, 181v, 182r, 185r, 187r, and 189r.

COLLATION: Booklet A: Because of the loss of leaves from the beginning of the manuscript reconstruction is required for Quires I-II. Quire I can be tentatively reconstructed as I<sup>8</sup> lacks 1, 2, 3, 4, 6 and 8 (f. 1 being 5, and f. 2 being 7), II<sup>8</sup> f. 3 and f. 10 no longer attached (ff. 3–10), III<sup>8</sup> (ff. 11–18), IV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 19–26), V<sup>8</sup> (ff. 27–34), VI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 35–42), VII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 43–50), VIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 51–58), IX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 59–66), X<sup>8</sup> (ff. 67–74), XI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 75–82), XII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 83–90), XIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 91–98), XIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 99–106), XV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 107–114), XVI<sup>4</sup> (ff. 115–118);

Booklet B: XVII<sup>1+8</sup> (ff. 119–127, f. 119 sewn around the bifolium ff. 120/127, but the sequence of the text shows that it belongs in Booklet A between ff. 114 and 115), XVIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 128–135), XIX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 136–143), XX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 144–151), XXI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 152–159), XXII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 160–167), XXIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 168–175), XXIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 176–183, with a 12/13c binding strip sewn at the centre between ff. 179 and 180), XXV<sup>8</sup>wants 8 (ff. 184–190).

[Note: Quire XVI, the last in Booklet A, appears to have been originally a quire of 1 + 4, ff. 119 + 115–118. As a result of this weakness in the make-up what is presently f. 119 no doubt became loose and was re-fixed in the wrong sequence. Lowe (1953: 11) records “gatherings of eight (some out of order),” but examination showed that the text follows sequentially from quire to quire with the sole exception of f. 119 being misplaced. Collation of the manuscript with the text also revealed leaves missing at the beginning (four leaves before f. 1, and one between ff. 1 and 2 and another between ff. 2 and 3). There is also a leaf missing at the end.]

Quire signatures, probably original, at the bottom right-hand margin of the verso page in Booklet A on f. 10 ‘ii’, f. 18 ‘[iii]’ cropped in binding, f. 26 ‘[iv]’ cropped in binding, f. 34 ‘v’, f. 42 ‘vi’, f. 50 ‘vii’ trimmed in binding, f. 58 ‘viii’ trimmed in binding, f. 66 ‘[viiii]’ cropped in binding, f. 82 ‘xi’ trimmed in binding, f. 90 ‘xii’ trimmed in binding, f. 98 ‘[xiii]’ cropped in binding, f. 106 ‘xiiii’ trimmed in binding, f. 114 ‘xv’, f. 118v ‘xvi’, and in Booklet B on ff. 127 ‘i’ but also ‘xvii’ written in a later hand, f. 135 ‘ii’ but also ‘xviii’ written in a later hand, f. 143 ‘iii’ but also ‘xviiii’ in a later hand, f. 151 ‘iv’ but also ‘xx’ in a later hand, f. 159 ‘v’ but also ‘xxi’ in a later hand, f. 167 ‘vi’ but also ‘xxii’ in a later hand, f. 175 ‘vii’ but also ‘xxiii’ in a later hand, f. 183 ‘viii’ trimmed in binding but ‘xxiiii’ in a later hand.

Hair/Flesh: Booklet A: Quire I FHFH, quire II FHFH, quires III-XV FHFH, quire XVI FHF assuming f. 119 included in its rightful place before f. 115; Booklet B: Quires XVII-XXV FHFH.

1. ff.1r/1-25r/25: Ambrose, “De apologia prophetæ David ad Theodosium Augustum”: beg. imperf. at ch. 3, §11 (Schenkl 306/8) ‘[qui autem de libera per] repromissionem quae sunt per allegorian | dicta’; ends [holes]: ‘ut chr̄ist̄i sibi gratia(m) merca|rentur. cui est honor gloria laus | perpetua cum d(e)o patre et sp(irit)u s(an)c(t)o a sae|culis et nunc et semper et in omnia sae|cula saeculorum amen.’ exp(lit) apol-ogyam | dauid de psalm .L. ‘explicit’ (coll. Schenkl 1897: 299–355; as PL 14.856–84; cf. CPL 135).

[Note: Up to four folios of text are lacking at the beginning (= 7 pages in Schenkl’s ed.; the 49 sides of the text = 48 pages in Schenkl). Lacunae in the text occur as follows: (a) between f. 1v, ending ‘erroris offensa [reuocauit]’ = ch. 3, §13 (Schenkl 308/4), and f. 2r beginning ‘[tam facile] iurare et incerta uouere pro certis quoru(m)’ = ch. 4, §16 (Schenkl 309/21), and a 19c hand correctly records this leaf as missing before f. 2 ‘deest folium’; (b) between f. 2v ending ‘munus auctoris [tamen non pretiosis aliquibus]’ = ch. 5, §21 (Schenkl 311/15), and f. 3r beginning ‘[per lauacrum regenerationis] et infusionem sp(iritu)s sancti ait securus ueniae’ = ch. 5, §23 (Schenkl 313/16), and a 19c hand correctly records this leaf as missing before f. 3 ‘deest aliud folium’. The text follows on from ff. 3v to 4r, from ff. 9v to 10r, and from ff. 10v to 11r, that is, the leaves are correctly ordered.]

2. ff.25r/25–55v/2 Ambrose, “De Joseph patriarcha”: inc(ipit) de ioseph liber .I. | lege filix [sic] in chr(ist)o ie(s)u d(omi)no nostro || ‘Sanctorum vita ceteris norma vivendi | est’; ends: ‘et audite istrahel [sic] patrem uestrum.’ || [at top of f. 55v in a marked-out frame] EXP(LICIT) LIB(ER) PRIMVS | DE IOSEPH. (coll. Schenkl 1897: 73–122; as PL 14.641–72; cf. CPL 131).
3. ff.55v/8–75v/3 Ambrose, “De patriarchis”: [heading continues in the marked-out frame at the top of f. 55v] INC(IPIT) DE PATRIARCHIS | ‘Primum omnium quantam discimus pa|rentibus’; ends: ‘ego plantaui apollo rigauit.’ | [in a marked-out frame] EXP(LICIT) DE PATRIACHIS [sic] (coll. Schenkl 1897: 125–60; as PL 14. 673–94; cf. CPL 132).

A-S Content: OE gloss f. 62r (top) ‘uit’ h ‘laes’ (8c) to Latin ‘conluationis’ (= Schenkl 135/17 & n.; reproduced by Lowe 1953, ed. Meritt 1957: 66; cf. also Vaciago 1993: 3); two Latin glosses in the same A-S script, by f. 61r/5 (margin) ‘sine | sorte’ to ‘exorte’ (= Schenkl 134/4 & n.) and f. 61v/1, ‘hereticos’ to ‘futuros’ (= Schenkl 134/20 & n.).

4. ff. 75v/4–118v/11 + f. 119r/1–119v/27 Ambrose, “De paenitentia” (coll. Faller 1955: 117–206; as PL 16.465–524; cf. CPL 156):
ff. 75v/4–98v/22 Bk. 1: [heading (faint) continues in the marked frame at f. 75v/4–10] INC(IPIT) TRACTATVS | EP(ISCOP)I AMBROSI PAENITENTIA(E) FILICITER. | ‘Si uatum finis ille est maximus qui plurimo|rum spectat profectum’; ends: ‘quam adsumpta credatur’ | [in a marked-out frame, alternating brown and red ink] DE PENITENTIA EXPLICIT | LIBER PRIMVS (Faller 119–63);
ff. 98v/22–114v/27 + f. 119rv + 115r/1–118v/11 Bk. 2: [heading continues in the marked-out frame, with words and letters alternating between brown and red ink] INC(IPIT) | SECUNDVS FILICITER || ‘Etsi non

pauca quae ad cohortationem pae|nitentiae'; ends: 'et gressus omnes mundi | istius nexus debemus obsoluere.' | [in a marked-out frame, the words alternating between red (very faint) and brown ink, and the letters so alternating in the last word] TRACTATVS PAENITENTIAE | EXPLICIT LIBER II | FILICITER. (Faller 163–206).

[Note: F. 119rv, beg. 'quod speraueris inpetrare merearis' (= Faller 196/6, De paen. II.9, §80) and ending 'quia uestem illam' (= Faller 198/46, De paen. II.9, §88) is misplaced and belongs after f. 114v, which ends 'quod debitum est [ut]', and before f. 115r, which begins 'ablutionis et gratiae sordidarunt'. A modern note marks the misplaced folio, f. 114v, bottom.]

5. Ambrose, "De excessu fratribus" (coll. Faller 1955: 209–325; as PL 16.1289–1354; CPL 157):

ff. 120r/1–142v/1 Bk. 1: Inc(ipit) liber I de excessu. fratribus s(an)c(t)i ambrosi | (line 3) 'Deduximus fratres dilectissimi hostiam | meam hostiam incontaminatam'; ends: 'si cito cogar exsoluere' || Exp(licit) lib(er) I (Faller 209–51);

ff. 142v/1–181v/27 Inc(ipit) lib(er) II de fratre s(an)c(t)i ambrosi | 'Superiore libro aliquid indulsimus de|siderio'; ends: 'supra naturam sit | ut mortem iam timere nequeamus.' | [in a marked-out area] Exp(licit) liber secundus | lege felex in chr(ist)o ie(su)m (Faller 251–325).

[Note: Below the last text-line is copied in a small uncial script 'incorruptelam et mortale hoc induat hs' with a signe de renvoi 'hd' four lines up at 'hoc induat' to indicate the haplography (the text runs "ut corruptibile hoc induat incorruptelam et mortale hoc induat inmortalitatem").] [1 Cor. 15:53]

6. Ambrose, Epistolae 64–68 [74, 75, 78, 80, 26] (cf. CPL 160):

a. ff. 182r/1–185r/14 Ep. 64 [74], Ambrosius Irenaeo: 'Audisti frater hodie lectum in apostolo quia | lex pedagogus noster'; ends 'ecce in timore uestro ipsi timebunt quos | timebatis.' [in a large space left for rubric] EXPLICIT EPISTULA I (coll. Zelzer 1990:149–55; as Ep. 74, PL 16.1254–57);

b. ff. 185r/14–187r/8 Ep.. 65 [75], Ambrosius Clementiano: [continuing in rubric space] INCIPIT .II. | FILICITER LEGE IN CHR(IST)O IE(SU) | 'Etsi sciam quod nihil difficilius sit'; ends: 'in mensura aetatis plenitudinis chr(ist)i' | [in large space left for rubric] Exp(licit) epistula II (coll. Zelzer 1990: 156–9; ed. as Ep. 75, PL 16.1257–59);

c. ff. 187r/8–189r/13 Ep. 66 [78], Ambrosius Orontiano: [continuing in rubric space] Inc(ipit) epistula | .III. lege filiciter in chr(ist)o ie(su) | 'Si abraham creditit d(e)o et reputatum est | ei ad iustitiam'; ends: 'mihi mundus crucifixus est et ego mun|do' | [in large space left for

- rubric] Exp(licit) epistula III. (coll. Zelzer 1990: 160–64; as Ep. 78, PL 16.1267–69);
- d. ff. 189r/13–190v/17 Ep. 67 [80], Ambrose to an unknown recipient (PL: “Ambrosius Bellicio”): [continuing in rubric space] Incipit | epistula .III. lege filiciter amen | ‘Audisti frater lectionem euangeli. in qua | decursum est’; ends: ‘Tunc pro|sunt quando nocere se credunt’ (coll. Zelzer 1990: 165–8; as Ep. 80, PL 16.1271–73);
- e. f.190v/17–27, following without a break, but indicated by a small added mark '#': Ep.68 [26], Ambrosius Irenaeo: beg. at §2 ‘Semper | quidem decantata quaestio et celebris ab|solutio fuit mulieris eius'; ends im-perf. at §3: ‘sed vehemen|tior facta est posteaquam episcoli reos [ . . . ]’ (coll. Zelzer 1990: 169; as Ep. 26, PL 16.1042) [a leaf has been lost after f. 190].

17. Boulogne-sur-Mer, Bibliothèque Municipale 189

Glossed Prudentius: “Cathemerinon,” “Liber Apotheosis,” “Peristephanon,” “Contra Symmachum,” “Tituli Historiarum”
[Ker 7; Gneuss 805]

HISTORY: A well-presented manuscript of Prudentius (excluding the “Psychomachia”). Written in the late 10c and early 11c by up to five scribes (of whom the first and last two were English and the third from Northern France according to Gameson 2002: 171). It was almost certainly written at Canterbury Christ Church, where Flemish scribes are known to have worked (Gameson 2002: 178 and n. 65). Heavily glossed in Latin as well as OE; the Latin glosses are those classified by Silvestre as in the French tradition, originating in northern France and comprising English and French manuscripts, including those glossed in OE (Silvestre 1957); Boulogne-sur-Mer 189 is his “T” and has the glosses classed as “BII”; they do not appear to correspond to those published by Burnham (1905, 1910), nor to those of Arevalo (1788–1789), reprinted in PL 59–60. The OE glosses to Prudentius were written in the first part of the 11c in four hands at Canterbury Christ Church (Item 11 below). Glossator 1 is Bishop’s Scribe xxii, who also wrote glosses in two manuscripts that are definitely from Canterbury Christ Church, viz. Cambridge, Trinity College B.14.3 (289) [78] and London, MS Cotton Domitian ix [190], ff. 2r–7v (Bishop 1959: 423), so the Christ Church provenance of the manuscript in the first part of the 11c is confirmed. The glosses, many in OE, are numerous, but tend to be grouped in clusters (consequently the Prudentius contents are described in some detail so as to provide a firm platform for study of the glosses). Construe-marks in the manuscript are noted by Korhammer 1980: 57. The manuscript was at the abbey of St-Bertin at St-Omer in the 15c (and no doubt earlier), as indicated by the inscription at the bottom of f. 4r ‘.: De libraria S(an)c(ti) Bertini .:’ with ‘nº 668’ on f. 2r, and a shelfmark and second folio note at the top of f. 1r., ‘retho(r)i)ca 2º fº in parte’ (as on the present f. 5r/a1, the second folio of the Prudentius proper). At the French Revolution the manuscript presumably went to the depot in St-Omer, whence it went to the library at Boulogne-sur-Mer. Attention was first drawn to the presence of OE glosses (Item 11 below) by Mone 1839. The binding of the late 19c is in brown calf, presently covered in grey paper. On the rear end-leaf there is a note by the 'conservateur' dated 30 May 1884, probably written when the manuscript received its present binding, saying that the manuscript has 190 folios. Some cropping by a binder has occurred, resulting in the loss of prickmarks for vertical frame-lines.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios i + 190 + i, membrane except for the paper endleaves, measuring 275 × 195 mm., written area 218 × 142 mm. (inner frame 128 mm.). The hair/flesh arrangement is HFHF(HF). Some folios show holes in the membrane, as ff. 6, 16, 17 etc. Towards the end of the manuscript some folios show damage in the bottom outer corner. Folio numbers are entered in red ink; occasionally additional numbers have been entered in pencil, but the latter are usually inaccurate and are best ignored. Pricking is visible at the outer edges of leaves in quire III, for twenty-two horizontal lines; no pricking is shown for the twenty-third line of writing. Pricking is visible at the outer edges of quires XIV, XVI, and XIX for twenty-five horizontal lines. Only occasional traces can be seen in other quires. There is a frame ruling, in hardpoint, generally very faint, showing double vertical bounding lines. The written area is generally disposed in long lines, ranging in number from 23 to 27 per leaf. Some of the text is written in double columns, as ff. 4v/22–8v/27, 13v/1–15r/4, 23v/3–28v/25, 99r/17–107r/25, but no additional ruling seems to have been provided as guidance for these columns. As for color, the only decorated initial is an ink drawing of an interlace 'P' with biting animal heads on f. 4r at the beginning of the Prudentius. Red is used for headings and incipits, and occasionally for capitals.

COLLATION: I<sup>8+2</sup> a bifolium inserted between ff. 1 and 4 (ff. 1–10), II<sup>8</sup> (ff. 11–18), III<sup>8</sup> (ff. 19–26), IV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 27–34), V<sup>8-1</sup> 2 (f. 36) a half-sheet, lacks 6 (ff. 35–41), VI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 42–49), VII<sup>8</sup> 3 (f. 52) and 7 (f. 55) are half-sheets (ff. 50–57), VIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 58–65), IX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 66–73), X<sup>8</sup> (ff. 74–81), XI<sup>10</sup> (ff. 82–91), XII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 92–99), XIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 100–107), XIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 108–114), XV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 115–123), XVI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 124–131), XVII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 132–139), XVIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 140–147), XIX<sup>10</sup> (ff. 148–157), XX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 158–165), XXI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 166–173), XXII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 174–181), XXIII<sup>8+1</sup> (ff. 182–190).

[Note: The binding has the quires glued to the spine so that ascertaining the collation is difficult, particularly for the first quire. Probably f. 1r was originally left blank. Ff.

2–3 were probably inserted when the text on f. 1r was added at the time when the manuscript was made up.]

sum dicit"] | 'PLurima (gl: 'plurium errores') sunt sed pauca loquar ne

dira (gl: 'horrida') relatu'; ends: 'Despuite. (gl: 'dispicite') exsurgens quo chr~~(istu)~~s p~~(ro)~~uocat ite; | FINIT LIBER APOTHEOSES (as Bergman 1926: 82–124, Cunningham 77–115).

[Note: The glosses to the title are in an early modern hand and unlike the original ones, found in Arevalo's edition. Between f. 50r/19 and 20 the scribe made a mistake. At f. 50r/19 '[p]erficer& mortale genus uirtute p(er)enni' (= Liber Apotheosis, 993) the text breaks off, four lines are left blank, and a further four lines at the bottom of the page are crossed out. The next line, 994, is not taken up until f. 51r/21 'Hic ille est nobis qui septima sabbata co(m)pl(et)' (= 994). In between these points in the text the scribe repeated some of the text already copied (ll. 880–928 at f. 48v/2–48v/22), so that f. 50r/22 has 'quod lapsam christiq(ue) inope(m) noua gratia inundat' (= 880), and this erroneous re-copying continues to f. 51r/20 'consciat [recte: consociata] trahit nec non simul ipsa sodalit' (= 928), this last line having been struck out. Evidently the scribe, after writing for two pages, subsequently realized his mistake (see Bergman 1926: 116–20).]

5. ff. 53r–54v Prudentius, "Hamartigenia" ("The Origin of Sin") (ed. Bergman 1926: 127–63, Cunningham 1966: 116–48):

ff. 53r/16–54v/3 (Praefatio): INCIPIT AMARTI|GENIA. LIBER .II. | DE ORIGINE PECCATORUM. [in marg., otiose LIB(ER) .II.] | PRUDENTII LIBER .II. AMARTIGENIA | 'FRATRES EPHEBI (gl: 'ibes' for "iuvenes") FOSSOR (gl: 'cain .agricola') ET PASTOR (gl: 'abel') DUO'; ends: 'Cain (gl: 'marcion') triumphat morte fratrī alitus (gl: 'nutrit(ur)')' (as Bergman 127–29, Cunningham 116–18);

[Note: This and other manuscripts have titles and subscriptions indicating two or more books, but the work is in one book as now edited; see Cunningham 1966: xxv.]

ff. 54v/5–73v/24 "Hamartigenia" (text): ADUERSUS MARCIONITAS [rest of title illegible but should be "qui duos deos esse adfirmant"] | 'QUOTE PRAECIPITAT RABIES (gl: 'i(n)sania') TUA PERFIDE CAIN (gl: 'marcion'); ends: 'Glorificant. me poena leuis clementer adurat.' | EXPLICIT AMARTIGENIA. ID EST | DE ORIGINE PECCATORUM. | AURELII PRUDENTII | UIRI ELOQUENTISSIMI | LIBER SECUNDUS | DEO GRATIAS AMEN AMEN (as Bergman 129–63, Cunningham 118–48).

6. ff. 74r–141v Prudentius, "Peristephanon" ("The Crown of Martyrdom") (ed. Bergman 1926: 291–431, Cunningham 1966: 251–381):

[Note: The hymns are (in relation to the edd.) in the order 10, 1–9, 11–14, which occurs in the "French" tradition of manuscripts as e.g., in this series, Durham Cath. B. IV. 9 [121], ff. 77r–135r, cf. Cunningham 1966: xxvi.]

ff. 74r/1–96v/17 "Peristephanon" 10: INCIPIT PASSIO ROMANI. | 'ROMANE CHR~~(IST)~~I FORTIS ADSERTO (gl: 'q(ui) es (S) p(re)dicator')

[Note: On f. 189v/23, after the last line of “Titulum Historiarum,” appears in small writing, as a prompt for the rubricator ‘:-epilog(us). i(d est) c’l’ausula’, meant to be entered at the top of the next page as the otherwise missing title of “Epilogue.” In “Titulum Historiarum” between items xlii and xlivi the editions of Fabricius (Basel, 1562) and Giselinus (2d ed., Antwerp 1564) print another quatrain entitled SEPVLCRVM CHRISTI (as Bergman 1926: 446), but it is lacking in manuscripts and the editio princeps of Pafraet (Deventer, 1492) (cf. Cunningham 1966: 398; Pillinger 1980: 105–6).]

9. f.190r/1–190v/7 Prudentius, “Epilogue” (divided as for two columns): wanting title and first line of ed. text, beg. ‘PIUS. Fidelis. innocens. pudicus (gl: ‘i(d est) cast(us)’). | dona conscientiae’; ends: ‘Iuvabit (gl: ‘s. me meo’) ore personasse (gl: ‘laudasse’) chr(istu)m | quo regente (gl: ‘pende’) unum (gl: ‘s. uiuim(us)’)’ | AURELII PRUDENTII. | CLE- MENTIS. VIRI ELOQUEN|TISSIMI. LEPIDE SATIS ET POLITE

| COMPOSITI FINIUNTUR LIBRI (as Cunningham 1966: 401–2, Bergman 1926: 448–49).

[Note: The last line ‘quo . . . unum’ appears only in a few manuscripts; the last gloss is actually a correction of the text.]

10. OE glosses, numbering more than 1000 OE, ed. Meritt 1959, previously ed. Holder 1878. (The earlier edition by Mone 1839, whose transcript was used by Thorpe 1836/1869, is unreliable; cf. Vaciago 1993: 3, no. 5; on the earlier publishing history of the OE glosses, see Meritt 1959: x.)

[Note: There was evidently some element of collaboration in the provision of glosses. Meritt divides the glosses by Glossators 1–3 into batches according to where they occur with greatest frequency (but they also occur on other folios): Glossator 1, ff. 4r–11v (Cathemerinon, Praefatio and Bks 1–5), ff. 99r–100r (Peristephanon 2); Glossator 2, ff. 74r–82r (Peristephanon 10); Glossator 3, ff. 100r–104v (Peristephanon 2), ff. 111r–122v (Peristephanon 5), ff. 139r–143v (Peristephanon 14 and Contra Symmachum Praefatio), f. 190r (Epilogus). Glossator 4 is responsible for some glosses on ff. 6r–26v (Cathemerinon Bks 2–11) and 113r–133r (Peristephanon 5–9, 11).]

PHOTO NOTES: Many headings and incipits in red ink and page numbers also in red ink are difficult to read on film/fiche. Ff. 25v–26r is shown twice. On the supplied film, f. 101v is blurred and illegible, but repeated clearly in the next shot; f. 30v is somewhat blurry but legible = “Liber Apotheosis” 7–31.

113. Dijon, Bibliothèque Municipale 574 (olim 334)
Bede, "Historia Ecclesiastica"
[Ker App. 8; Gneuss –]

HISTORY: A handsome Bede, carefully planned and executed, written at Citeaux (founded 1098, some 20 miles south of Dijon) in the third quarter of the 12c, during a period when the decoration of Cistercian texts was minimal. Speculation on how the text of Bede came to Citeaux is offered by Dobbie (1937: 18): an Englishman, St. Stephen Harding, was abbot of Citeaux 1109–1134, and he organized a scriptorium. The retention of the manuscript there is indicated by the 15c inscriptions at the bottom margin of ff. 2r, 66r and 114r in large letters 'Liber cisterciij'. On f. 116v also in large letters of the 15c 'De 4<sup>ta</sup> ba(n)ca de lat(ere) ref(ectorii) XI', and it is recorded at Citeaux in 1480/82 as no. 215 in the inventory compiled by Abbot Jean de Cirey (Wuest 1906: 207; cf. Załuska 1991: 13, and Bell 1999), who also set in motion the transfer of the books to a new library (now restored) in 1498 or soon afterwards. There are scarcely any marginal annotations or additions, the only notable one being on f. 96r in the top margin 'S(an)c(t)i spiritus assit nobis gr(at)i>.

The manuscript evidently remained at Citeaux until the abbey's suppression in 1791, when it was moved to Dijon, the principal town in the département of Côte-d'Or, along with most of the other 240 or so medieval manuscripts now at Dijon (Plouviers and Saint-Denis 1998: 254). There it joined the Bibliothèque Publique founded in 1701 in the college of the Godrans (named after a President of the Parlement de Bourgogne), which was also the Jesuit College, and this library was formally constituted as the Bibliothèque Municipale in 1803. The binding was remodelled in 1930 in the style of Jean de Cirey (late 15c) with the arms of Citeaux superimposed at the centre of the front cover from an earlier 18c binding. The inscription from the spine of the earlier binding is attached to f.1r. Previously described in Catalogue Générale 1889.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios i + 115 + i, membrane of good quality, creamy and fairly thick, but supple, measuring 322 × 234 mm., written area 225–235 × 166 mm. disposed in two columns each 76 mm. wide and containing 36 horizontal lines. The two-column format is abandoned for long lines on f. 114v and the written area becomes 273 × 177 mm. on f. 115v. There are holes in the text area only on ff. 32, 58, 85, and 95, and in the margins on ff. 20, 22, 25, 32, 37, 39, 47, 48, 54, 55, 59, 73, 75, 78, 92, and 99. Tears have been sewn together on ff. 17, 114, and 115. Arranged HFHF throughout, except that f. 116, a leaf added to the final bifolium to take extra additional material, shows flesh on the outside.

The manuscript is written by a number of hands, distinguished by Wuest 1906 as follows: Scribe W1: ff. 1r/a/1–23r/a/23; Scribe W2: ff. 23r/a/24–81v/b/36, who writes Cædmon's "Hymn"; Scribe W3: ff. 82r/a/1–93r/a/5; Scribe W4, who often uses insular rather than carolingian "r": ff. 93r/a/6–114v/b/8; Scribe W5: f. 114v/1–6; Scribe W6: f. 114v/7–8; Scribe W7: ff. 114v/9–115r/22; Scribe W8: ff. 115r/23–115v/14; Scribe W9/10: ff. 115v/15–116v/20. Some of Wuest's distinctions look like the same scribe taking over for another stint, or, towards the end of the manuscript, resuming after a colleague has taken over for a while. Apparently Scribe 1 wrote ff. 1r/a/1–93r/a/5; Scribe 2 (whose "g" is distinctive) ff. 93r/a/6–114v/a/8; Scribe 3 the verses at f. 114v/b/1–8; Scribe 4 ff. 114v/11–115r/22 and 115v/16–24; and Scribe 5 ff. 115r/23–115v/14 and 115v/25–116v/20. Therefore Scribe 1 was responsible for the whole of Bede's "Historia Ecclesiastica" (item 1), including Cædmon's "Hymn," and about two-thirds of the "Vita Cuthberti" (item 2), while Scribe 2 finished the "Vita." The other scribes are responsible for the additional items, Scribe 3 for item 4, and Scribes 4–5 sharing responsibility for items 5–6. On ff. 46v/b–47r/a the capitula for "Historia Ecclesiastica" Bk. 4 have been written in a smaller script. Corrections occur rarely, as on f. 103v/a/18.

Prickmarks for the four single bounding lines of each column are usually visible near the bottom and the top edges of each leaf, as are the 36 prickmarks for the horizontal lines for writing both near the hinge and near the outer edges of each leaf: it follows that the pricking was done with the sheets folded. In quire XV the prickmarks for horizontal lines of writing can be seen only near the outer edges of leaves. In quire V two sets of prickmarks for the horizontal lines can be seen on ff. 36–38 near the outer edges of the leaves. There is ruling in hardpoint for a simple frame with a double-column format. The vertical bounding lines and the top two and bottom two horizontal lines are ruled to the outer edges of the leaves, and the horizontal lines are ruled across the central space that separates the two columns of writing. On ff. 93–94, the central leaves of quire XII, lines 1–3, 11–13, 23–25, and 34–36 (the bottom three lines) are ruled to the outer edges of the leaves. On ff. 102–105, the last 4 leaves of quire XIII, the top three and bottom three horizontal lines are ruled to the outer edges of the leaves. In quire XIV, on ff. 106 and 108 the top three lines have been ruled to the outer edges of the leaves, but in both cases this is apparently to facilitate the rubricator.

Calligraphic initials (the first two ornamented) at the beginning of Books: ff. 2r 'G' (Preface, blue), 3r 'B' (Bk. I, blue), 18r 'H' (Bk. 2, green), 30r 'A' (Bk. 3, red), 47r 'I' (Bk. 4, brown), 64v 'S' (Bk. V, blue), 81r 'D' ("Vita" Preface, green), 81v 'P' ("Vita," brown). A palette of brown, red, green, and blue is used for rubrics in rustic capitals and for secondary initials. Rubrication after the writing of the text is indicated by key initials and particularly by the text for the rubricator written in very small script near the edge of the leaf, as on f. 81v where the explicit for the "Historia Ecclesiastica" and the incipit for the "Vita" have been so written right at the base of the page, subsequently partially cropped by a binder. Sometimes the rubrics spill into the margins, as on ff. 85v–86r.

COLLATION: I<sup>8</sup> (ff. 2–9), II<sup>8</sup> (ff. 10–17), III<sup>8</sup> (ff. 18–25), IV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 26–33), V<sup>8</sup> (ff. 34–41), VI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 42–49), VII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 50–57), VIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 58–65), IX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 66–73), X<sup>8</sup> (ff. 74–81), XI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 82–89), XII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 90–97), XIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 98–105), XIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 106–113), XV<sup>2+1</sup> (ff. 114–116).

Original quire signatures occur at the bottom centre of the verso leaf at the end of each quire of 8 (except quire XI): as 'I.' on f. 9, 'ii.' on f. 17, 'iii.' on f. 25, 'iiii.' on f. 33, 'v' on f. 41, 'vi' on f. 49, 'vii' on f. 57, 'viii' on f. 65, 'ix' on f. 73, 'x' on f. 81, none on f. 89, 'xii' on f. 97, 'xiii' on f. 105, and 'xiiii' on f. 113.

[Note: Text has 28 numbered chs. instead of 30 of the capitula and the series is extremely confused: ch. 5 (f. 30r/a30, 'ANNO dominice') is labeled 'VI'; chs. 6–9 are thus one ahead as 'VII–X'; ch. 9 is subdivided at f. 52r/a11 beg. 'IN eodem quoq(ue) monasterio' as 'XI'; ch. 10 ('XII') is subdivided at f. 52r/b34 as 'XIII'; chs. 11–13 are labeled 'XIII–XVI'; ch. 14 (f. 54r/a27 'IN quo tu(n)c monasterio') is not indented and is labeled 'XV' (see Colgrave and Mynors, note a, p. 326); the division (modern ch. 15, f. 54v/b13 'Interea sup(er)ueniens') is not numbered, as is traditional, nor is mod. ch. 16 'Postqua(m) (er)g(o)' so that the chapter labeled 'XV', actually old 14, continues; old chs. 15–17 are labeled 'XVI–XVIII', but 'XVIII' is used twice, so that the labels coincide correctly for ch. 18 (f. 57r/a14 'UIDET(UR) oportunu(m)'); numbering skips from 'XXIII' to 'XXV' (ch. 24, f. 61r/b17 'ANNO dominice') and then skips to 'XXVII' (ch. 25, f. 61v/b13 'IPSO etiam') and is repeated, 'XXVII' for ch. 26 (f. 62r/b25 'Exin cudbercht'); ch. 27 is not noticed (text continues 'Duob(us) anni' at f. 63r/a8); ch. 28 is labeled 'XX' (f. 63v/a2 'Uolens'), ch. 29 is labeled 'XXVIII'
(f. 63v/b25 'Erat in eodem') and ch. 30 is 'XXVIII' (f. 64r/a36 'NEC silentio').]

[Note: The text is derived from a Northumbrian version and inserted into the text of the "Historia Ecclesiastica." It is preceded and followed by a cross, suggesting that it was copied from an exemplar where the OE text was in the margin. Despite the earlier connections between England and Cîteaux the scribe evidently did not know OE, as already signalled at the beginning of the Bede by his misspelling 'geoluulp' h' o' for King Ceolwulf. The scribe writes "p", "pu" or "u" for "wynn", "d" for "ð". Diplomatic

Homilies; “Épinal Glossary”
[Ker 114; Gneuss 824; Lowe 6.760]

HISTORY: This manuscript consists of two parts subsequently brought together. Foliated in ink continuously ‘1–107’ in top right-hand corner (and used in this description). Part A (ff. 1–93) contains fifty sermons attributed to St. Augustine of Hippo, and was written by more than one scribe in the 10c. Part B (ff. 94–107, foliated separately in pencil ‘1–14’ by a later hand in upper right corner, and paginated ‘1–28’ in bottom outer corners), comprising the so-called “Épinal Glossary,” was written probably around or just before 700 in England (Lowe 1953 thinks ‘saec. viii’; Brown 1982 c.700; Bischoff and Parkes 1988 c.700 or late 7c), or possibly by an Englishman on the continent. Pfeifer (1978: xc–xci) thought the dialect to be Anglian, specifically Mercian, with some W-S and Kentish coloring but that the linguistic evidence was insufficient to determine the Glossary’s place of origin. The script is basically an A-S majuscule (usual in lemmata) with frequent shifts into minuscule, especially where space was cramped.

More properly the Glossary part should be called the “Moyenmoutier Glossary,” since that was its home until it went to Épinal as a result of the French Revolution. How the Glossary came to Moyenmoutier is not known, but no doubt it was there for centuries. Around 960 there was a leading school of grammar there under Abbot Almann. Before the French Revolution the whole manuscript was at the abbey of Moyenmoutier (Vosges, founded 671), the name, meaning “middle monastery,” deriving from the fact that it was situated at the centre of a group of five monasteries referred to as “La Croix Sacrée de Lorraine,” Bonmoutier to the north, Étival to the west, Senones to the east, and St-Dié to the south. During the second half of the 17c and the 18c the monastery enjoyed a period of aggrandisement, following the establishment of L’Academie de Moyenmoutier under Abbot H. Alliot (1676–1705). In order to provide systematic access to its resources a major reorganization of the library was undertaken by Abbot Humbert Belhomme (d.1762), who published a history of the monastery (Belhomme 1724). It was he who was responsible for the note of the present manuscript's inclusion in the Catalogue that he masterminded (mentioned below) and the statement of contents noted under item 1(a) below (Vernier 1960).

The manuscript's binding, sewn on five bands in a sheepskin cover (tanned with oak bark) over thick card, is of the first half of the 18c and is similar to others from the abbey. Probably it was done about 1717 under the auspices of Abbot Humbert Belhomme. On f. 94r a reference to George Hickes's Thesaurus linguarum veterum septentrionalium (Oxford, 1703–1705) has been trimmed by the binder, indicating that the binding was applied after that date but before the entry in the catalogue of 1727 mentioned below. On f. 1r there is the 13c inscription 'Iste lib(er) (est) de majori ecl(esi)a. ego joh(ann)es feci eu(m) religari'; and an 18c inscription 'Mediani Monasterij Catalogo inscriptus. 1717'. In 1727 it was duly recorded in Belhomme's unprinted "Catalogus Bibliothecae Mediani Monasterii editus anno M.DDCCXXVII," now Épinal, BM cod.189, 2: f. 571v, as 'Sermones XLVIII. S. Augustini. | ibidem; lexicon quoddam Anglosaxon' under the press-mark 'X.1.19'. The press-marks on the front endleaves read 'ARM(arium) No. 66 [corrected below from 'No. 100'] 7'; and on the inside of the front cover 'X. 1. No. 10' [not included on the film/fiche]. Perhaps around this time the whole manuscript was foliated in ink in the top right-hand corner of recto leaves. Another foliation in pencil, starting at the beginning of Part B, was added subsequently. When the abbey of Moyenmoutier was suppressed in 1790 during the French Revolution, following common practice (Gasse-Grandjean 1992) the manuscript was listed by Joseph Benoît Didelot in his 1791 manuscript "Catalogue des Livres de la Bibliothèque de la ci-devant Abbaye de Moyenmoutier . . . en 1791," now Épinal, Bibliothèque Municipale, cod. 194, f. 62, and (clearer) f. 70r (another copy, cod. 195) as 'Nº. 1844 Sermones XLVIII S. Augustini episcopi. | ca(ractère) minuscule ca(ractère) Versets cap(italie). vel(in) 9 ou 10 S(iècle)— | Lexicon quoddam Anglo Saxonicum. au | commencement est un cahier détaché de | l'office note de S(aint)o Hydulpho du 15 S(iècle)' (St. Hydulphus was the founder of Moyenmoutier); the reference is to the style of writing in both the Augustinian sermons and the Glossary which is written largely in majuscule in columns; the detached leaflet is no longer present in the manuscript.

Along with other manuscripts (and the splendid early 18c wooden shelving), it remained in Moyenmoutier (neglected) until 1826, when all manuscripts were transferred to Épinal (Vernier 1960: 26–27, and 1962). There the manuscript, and especially Part B, was brought to wider attention by the German scholar Franz J. Mone in 1835. He applied a reagent, 'lyrrocide chimique' according to a note on the endleaf, which has left a grey-blue shadow on the verso of the last leaf and to a lesser extent on the preceding pages (different from the thick brown shadow left by the reagent applied to the Vercelli Book), and he made a transcript of the OE glosses, now London, Lincoln's Inn, Charles Purton Cooper MS B2-7, stated by Pheifer (1974: xxiv) to be of no textual value; the first two printed texts of the OE glosses, by [Thorpe] in 1836 (published 1869) and by Mone himself in 1838, were based on this transcript. Eighteen months later another (more accurate) transcript was made by M.J. Quicherat, now Paris, Bibliothèque Nationale, cod. suppl. français 2717. Previous description in Catalogue 1849–1918: 3 (1861): 394–95, as "no. 7" (i.e. Épinal BM MS 7) and so frequently cited by French sources. A detailed description of Part B in Bischoff et al. 1988: 13–17.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios i + 93 + 14 + i, membrane apart from the paper endleaves added with the 18c binding. Part A, measuring 325 × 240 mm., is made up of fairly good quality membrane, showing a hole in the text area only on f. 51, and in the margins on ff. 21, 46, 72. Ff. 49–50 show pieces cut out in the bottom margin. Most of the right-hand margin has been cut off from f. 88. The written area is 237 × 162/165 mm, disposed in 30 long lines (32 in quire II). There are stains (from spilt liquid?) on ff. 30v–31r. Arranged HFHF throughought. Part B, measuring 328 × 245 mm., is made up of good-quality yellowish membrane showing small holes in ff. 102 and 104, but it is now rather stiff, probably as a result of exposure to damp (in the early 19c); written area of 302 × 210 mm, disposed in six columns of 38 lines in quire XIII, and 39 lines in quire XIV. Part B is arranged HFFF, HHF.

Prickmarks in Part A for double vertical bounding lines for a frame rule can usually be seen at the top and bottom of the leaves, as can the 30 prickmarks for horizontal lines for writing near the outer edges of leaves. In quires I-II there is an extra prickmark at the top. In quires III-V, VII-IX, and XI-XII the prickmarks for the horizontal lines have mostly been cropped by the binder, but they are visible on some leaves, as ff. 71–72, 92–93. In quire X on f. 80 there are prickmarks for 23 horizontal lines, but the ruling is for 32 lines, so there was presumably another set of prickmarks now lost by hazard of the binder's guillotine. In Part B very little is now visible, but prickmarks for most of the 39 horizontal lines of writing can be seen close to the outer edge of the area framed for writing on f. 102v.

Frame ruling in Part A is in hardpoint with double vertical bounding lines extending to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves, and with the 30–32 horizontal lines ruled between the bounding lines except for the top and the bottom two lines, all four of which extend to the outer edges of the leaves. Writing occurs on the top line. In Part B, after folding the sheets were provided with a ruled frame with single bounding lines in hardpoint for six columns and generally 38/39 horizontal lines. Several sheets were ruled at a time, with the result that the ruling is so faint that it is hardly visible. Consequently some leaves were ruled again, normally on the verso, resulting in the anomaly of f. 97 showing 37 lines, ff. 100v and 101v showing 39 lines, and ff. 104v and 107v showing 40 lines. Traces of the horizontal lines show most clearly on f. 95.

Part A shows initials ornamented or shaded in red at the beginning of sermons (ornamented on ff. 2r, 4r, 10r, 12r, 13v, 15v [more carefully drawn], 19r, 20v, 22v, 25r, 26r, 30r, 31v, 32v, 34r, 37r, 38v [more carefully drawn], 42v [in red], 43v, 45v, 46v [in red with a face drawn inside the lobe of 'Q'], 49v, 52r, 54r, 57r, 57v, 60r, 64v, 69v, 78v [more finely drawn], 81v, 87v [more finely drawn], 90v [calligraphic 'H'], 91v), and rubrics and capitals shaded in red, or on ff. 42v, 43v the rubric is in red. More carefully drawn ornament occurs on f. 27v as a space-filling boundary between sermons. There is no color or ornament in Part B.

Occasionally a scribe wrote matter for insertion in the margin, as on ff. 66v, 67v. F. 93v was written by a scribe whose writing is more cramped, and who ignored the ruling provided in order to include more lines in the space available. Some annotations in the margin indicate continuing interest in the text, as on ff. 77v, 78r. Many “annotations” are drawings of heads, or head and shoulders, or hands, as on ff. 8v, 10r, 29r, 31r, 74r, sometimes pointing hands, as on ff. 17v, 19v, 22v, 32v, 35v, 40r, 60v, 62v, or even an owl on f. 34r, a bird’s head on f. 77v, an animal on f. 76r, and some animal heads on f. 78r.

Quire signatures occur at the bottom centre of the verso side of f. 8 ‘¶A.i.’ in an ornamental box, f. 16 ‘A.ii.’ in an ornamental box, but subsequent ones seem to have been added later, as on f. 24 ‘Q A.iii’, that on f. 32 is not legible, and on f. 40 ‘Q.V’ but there is none on ff. 48, 56, 72, 80 or 88.

CONTENTS:

On f. i recto there is a note, apparently by Mone, about the OE glossary constituting the second part of the manuscript, noting its rarity and drawing attention to features of the orthography, such as the frequency of “th” and the rarity of “þ,” “wynn,” and “ð” (pr. Catalogue Général 1849–1918: 3.395).

f. i verso blank.

Part 1, Sermons by and attributed to Augustine:

ff. 1–93 “Quinquaginta homiliae”, a standardized homily collection, the sermons all attributed here to Augustine, but actually by Augustine, Caesarius of Arles, and others (for their authenticity and attributions see generally Verbraken 1976; also CPPM 1B:1082; on this collection, its contents and manuscripts, see 210–12, where he refers to this manuscript as Épinal 7, as it is in Catalogue Général 3.394; see also Lambot 1961: xiv). Items are numbered in the margin or on the title line by the scribe:

[Note: The collection normally ended here, as the "Explicit" indicates. Item (li) does not occur in the usual contents of the "Collectio Quinquaginta" as listed by Verbraken.]

(li) f.93r/24-93v/38 Augustine, Sermo 113: DE EVVANGELIO [sic] VBI DICIT FACITE VOBIS AMICOS DE MAMONA INIQVITATIS [Lk. 16:9]. | 'QVOD admonemur admonere debemus. Recens euangelica leccio | admonuit facere amicos'; f. 93v is written in another smaller hand that is now very faint: ends incomplete in ch. 3: 'presserat multis abstulerat multa' (PL 38. 649/-13); an 'Explicit' has been added in a later hand and is now so faint as to be almost invisible (as PL 38. 648-49).

Part 2, "Épinal Glossary":

ff. 94-107 Latin-Germanic Glossary (including Old English), arranged in alphabetical order (A order batch and A-B order batch within each letter), written in three double columns of lemma/gloss, comprising about 3280 glosses: beg. 'Apodixen fantasia | Amineae | [...] | Amites loergae'; there is a lacuna where the central bifolium of quire XIII has been lost after f. 97v, the surviving text ending: 'cicuta uuodaeuistiae' (Goetz 1882-1901: 353/30; Pfeifer 1974, line 248), and resuming f. 98r: 'Filoxenia philosophia | facitiae gliu' (Goetz 1882-1901: 359/61; Pfeifer 1974, before line 398); ends incomplete: 'uereator confunditur | uetera-

tor. stroffosus astutus' (Goetz 1882–1901: 400/37) with what looks like a catchword 'mater' added below; the conclusion of the glossary was presumably originally provided at the beginning of the following quire, now lost (coll. Goetz 1882–1901: 5. 337–401, facs. and transcript Sweet 1883, Schlutter 1912, facs. Bischoff et al. 1988; these OE glosses combined with those in the Erfurt Glossary in parallel text with the Corpus Glossary ed. Sweet 1883: 36–106 and Sweet 1978: 2–100; OE glosses ed. Kluge 1902: 1–8, and those items with OE glosses in parallel text with those from the Erfurt Glossary ed. Pheifer 1974: 3–58).

[Note: The glossary, of which a slightly shorter version is preserved in Erfurt, Stadtbücherei, Amplonius f. 42 [129], ff. 1r–14v (see Pheifer 1974: xxv, this glossary is known as "Épinal-Erfurt," EE), and an expanded version in Cambridge, Corpus Christi College 144 [31], ff. 4r–64v (see ibid. xxviii–xxx), derives from the glossae collectae (glosses to specific texts, where the batches of glosses follow the order of the text) devised in the school of Archbishop Theodore (668–690) and Abbot Hadrian (672–709), discussed in detail by Pheifer 1987 and Bischoff and Lapidge 1994; of the many extant partial copies and traces, almost all from the German-speaking area of the continent, the "Leiden Glossary" (Leiden, Bibliotheek der Rijksuniversiteit Vossianus Lat. Q. 69 [157], ff. 20r–36r, ed. Hessels 1906), 8c/9c from St. Gall, is the best surviving example (for a list of the manuscripts, see Lapidge 1986: 67–72).]

PHOTO NOTE: The film shows in order outside covers, f. i verso / f. 1r, then goes back to opening with f. i recto facing inside front cover, then repeats opening of f. i verso / f. 1r.

HISTORY: A very good quality production visually, this manuscript was probably written in south-west England, by several scribes in the early 11c. Previous attempts to date the manuscript later stem perhaps from Martène (1700–1702: 1.sig.1r), his reference to a “Rituale vetus tempore Theodocici abbatis, qui anno 1032 obiit” that he saw at Jumièges. Wormald (1952: 79–80), followed by Temple (1976: 106), dates the manuscript “after 1031, since St. Martial is found amongst the apostles in the litany on f. 187.” Various attempts had been made at Limoges to accord the city’s 3c bishop, St. Martial, apostolic status, culminating in a proclamation by the bishop’s council in 1029 and another in 1031 (Wormald 1946: 84–86), but there is no reason to doubt that the claim may have reached England earlier in the 11c (cf. Dumville 1991: 52). Continuing use of the manuscript is indicated by the fact that several additions have been made to it, most notably by adding text in the margins or other blank spaces, as on ff. 131v and 148v; more minor annotations occur on ff. 12v, 15r, 31v, 39r, 53v, and 176v, while the annotations on ff. 11r, 37r, and 169r contain musical notation. This manuscript is miscalled by its customary name because of the presence on f. 1r of an addition, taken from a reference in the text on f. 183r, of a form of excommunication issued by the bishop ‘monasterii . . . lanaletensis’(sic), i.e. St. Germans in Cornwall, whose abbot was also bishop of Crediton. The earliest known owner is one Lyfing (item 6 below), generally identified with the Lyfing who was bishop of Crediton (1027–1046). However, attention has been called to the significance of the drawing on f. 2r showing the consecration of a church with two enclosed wells beside it, a feature that strongly suggests that the manuscript was at Wells (Rodwell 1980–1982: 42), where the bishop from 998 to 1013 was another Lyfing, who went on to become archbishop of Canterbury (1013–1020).

OE that is written in a hand dating from the early 11c (i.e. contemporary with, or very soon after, the writing of the Latin text) occurs in the form of a gloss, scribbles or pen-trials on ff. 1r (bottom margin), 120r (rh margin), 172v (gloss), 195v/2, and 196r/1 (cf. Ker, Cat., pp. 447–48).

If the manuscript was at Canterbury in the possession of Archbishop Lyfing, that would provide a plausible context for the transfer to Jumièges in the early 11c (Dumville 1991: 52; for the movement of manuscripts from England to Normandy at this time see Gameson 2003). Certainly it was transferred to Jumièges, and the oldest Norman annotation, dating from the second half of the 11c, occurs on f. 6r, beginning ‘Copiosa beneficia | quesumus’ (Doble 1937: 6, n.1). At Jumièges it was seen around 1700 by the Maurist Edmond Martène, as noted above. From Jumièges it was transferred to Rouen at the time of the French Revolution, and so became part of the Bibliothèque Municipale when it opened in 1809. It was still unbound when seen by Gage 1834: 244. When examined by Frere in 1933 (Doble 1937: v) it was tightly bound, so as to make codicological analysis difficult, and that is still the case. The binding is of black leather, blind-stamped, dating from sometime in the late 19c or possibly the early 20c, i.e. between when the manuscript was seen by Gage in 1834 and by Frere in 1933. Previous descriptions by Henri Omont in Catalogue 1849–1918: n.s.1 (1886): 69–70, by Leroquais 1937: 2.295–300, and by Hartzell 2006: 538–49.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios i + 196 + i, membrane, measuring 310 × 204 mm., written area approx. 206 × 145 mm., disposed in 27 quires. Arranged HFHF throughout. Some small holes in outer margin of ff. 196 and 197 (the end leaf) suggest that they were contiguous at an early stage. There are holes in the text area only on ff. 91, 123, 137, and in the margins on ff. 2, 22, 30, 31, 43, 49, 138, 147, 152, 154, 160, 171, 173, 189, 192. F. 84 was torn right across, but has been sewn back together. Ff. 182 and 184 have had their lower halves cut out, and there is a triangular-shaped cut in the bottom margin of f. 48. F. 86r has suffered some sort of damage, probably from spilt liquid, and lines 2, 6, and 16–18 have been rendered very smudged and pale as a consequence. On f. 91v an erasure at lines 15–16 has resulted in the text having a blurred appearance.

Prickmarks for the outer vertical double frame lines are visible in the bottom margin of all leaves in quires IV–VI, VIII, X, XI, XII, XIII, XIV, XV, XVI, XVII, XIX, XX, XXII, XXIII, most leaves in quires II, VII, ff. 11 and 18 in quire III, ff. 53, 54, and 56 in quire IX, ff. 121–124 and 126–128 in quire XVIII, ff. 145 and 147–155 in quire XXI, ff. 176–177 in quire XXV, ff. 191–192 in quire XXVI, ff. 193–195 in quire XXVII, also for the inner vertical double frame lines in quires XIV, XV, XX, XXII, XXIV, and on ff. 40, 53–54, 146, 160–163, 192. Prickmarks for the outer vertical double frame lines are sometimes also visible in the top margin of leaves, as ff. 48, 53, 137, 154, and for the inner double frame lines in quires XV, XX, XXII, and on ff. 135–136, 146, 148–151, 155, 160–162. There are otiose prickmarks for the outer vertical double frame rule in the top margin of ff. 138–141. Prickmarks for 21 horizontal lines for writing are visible on the outside margins of ff. 34, 35, 38–39, 53–54, 105, 149–155 (with some done twice on ff. 153–155), 156–159 (quire XXII, some done twice), 160–161 (some done twice), 171, 172–175 (quire XXIV), 181, 183, and in part on ff. 29, 30, 48, 55, 58, 64, 69, 71, 72, 78–82, 83–89 (quire XIII), 91, 93, 120, 146–148, 170, 176, and 194–195, but have otherwise evidently been cropped by a binder. F. 182 shows prickmarks for the horizontal lines of writing only for the eight lines written thereon.

Ruling is in hardpoint. A double frame rule is provided throughout, with the vertical lines often extending to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves, as also the top and bottom one (or two) horizontal lines, sometimes also to the gutter, as in quire XVIII. There are 21 lines for writing, and the top line receives writing, except that on f. 196r there are 22 lines. On f. 53 four horizontal ruled lines and on f. 54 all the horizontal lines are extended to the prickmarks near the outer edges to enable ff. 53v and 54r to receive marginal additions without discordant line divisions. On ff. 3r–4v, 6r–7r, and 187r–188r there are double columns ruled for the litanies.

Red and blue are used for large and small capitals, and for rubrics, with lines of alternating color. Red ink is used alongside black in the drawing on f. 1v. Musical notation in A-S staffless neumes occurs frequently, as on ff. 3r–47v, 53v, 54v, 63r, 89v, 104v, 135r, 135v, 168r, 169r, 185r, 188v, 189r, 190r (see Hesbert 1954: 14–15; Hartzell 2006: no. 318.)

COLLATION: I<sup>1+1</sup> (ff. 1–2), II<sup>8</sup> (ff. 3–10), III<sup>8</sup> (ff. 11–18), IV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 19–26), V<sup>8</sup> (ff. 27–34), VI<sup>10</sup> wants 6–10 (ff. 35–39), VII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 40–47), VIII<sup>8</sup> wants 6, 7, and 8 (ff. 48–52), IX<sup>6</sup> wants 1 and 2, with a binding stub between ff. 52/53 and 55/56, the bifolium ff. 53/54 a later addition (ff. 53–56), X<sup>12</sup> wants 11 and 12 (ff. 57–66), XI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 67–74), XII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 75–82), XIII<sup>8</sup> wants 2 (ff. 83–89), XIV<sup>8</sup> wants 4 and 5 (ff. 90–95), XV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 96–103), XVI<sup>12</sup> wants 8, 11, 12 (ff. 104–112), XVII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 113–120), XVIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 121–128), XIX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 129–136), XX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 137–144), XXI<sup>12</sup> wants 1 (ff. 145–155), XXII<sup>4</sup> (ff. 156–159), XXIII<sup>12</sup> (ff. 160–171), XXIV<sup>4</sup> (ff. 172–175), XXV<sup>8</sup> wants 8 (ff. 176–182), XXVI<sup>10</sup> wants 10 (ff. 183–192), XXVII<sup>4</sup> 2 (f. 194) and 4 (f. 196) singletons (ff. 193–196).

[Note: Quire I is no doubt an afterthought, since the text does not start until quire II. In quires VIII and IX ff. 55/56 at the end of quire IX may well originally have belonged to quire VIII before quire IX was modified by the addition of ff. 53/54. The quality of visual presentation is at the expense of regular quires, hence the considerable number of stubs. Hartzell (2006: 539) gives a slightly different account of the manuscript's make-up.]

AMEN. | Quod ipse prestare dignetur' (abridged ed. Doble 1937: 63–65).

- e. ff.96r/1–161v/13 Benedictional, encompassing 161 episcopal benedictions, mostly intended to be said at mass before communion, arranged by the Temporale (ff. 96r–132v), the Sanctorale (ff. 132v–148r), and other occasions (ff. 148r–161v): INCIPIUNT BENEDICTIONES EPISCOPORU(M) | IN UIGILIA NATALIS D(OMI)NI | 'OMNIPOTENS D(EU)S QUI INCARNATIONE | unigeniti sui mundi tenebras effugauit'; ends: 'ut gratiam tuam cito habere | mereatur in corde. AMEN. | Quod ipse prestare. Benedictio d(e)i patris & filii'; two benedictions have been added in the margin on f. 148v, and four added at the end, ff. 160v–161v; the benediction for St Cuthbert's day on f. 137v/14–21 is written over an erasure; the OE letter 'ð' + one other letter now illegible occurs at the very outside of the right-hand margin of f. 120r (abridged ed. Doble 1937: 65–111) [ff. 104r/1–3, 105r/1–2, 107v/12–20, 109v/9–21 and 110r/1–5, 110v/10–21 and 111r/1–21, 118r/5–6, 119r/5, 120r/19–21, 120v/17–21, and 161v/14–21 are blank].

[Note: For analysis see Moeller (1971–1979: 3.69–71), who suggests that the collection had its origins at St-Vaast (Arras); this is contested by Prescott (1987: 120, 128) who sees it as derived from an abridged version of the "Winchester Pontifical" (i.e., the type first developed in Aethelwold's circle and represented by the so-called Pontifical of Robert of Jumièges); for the relationship of this benedictional to other contemporary ones see Prescott 1987: 128, 141–47.]

f.196v/12–18 BENEDICTIO POST COMPLETORUM | ‘INMITTAT IN UOS D<sup>OMI</sup>N<sup>US</sup> QUIETEM SOPORIS’ (abridged ed. Doble 1937: 143) [f.196v/19–22 blank, but for a 19c (or 20c) hand which has written in the bottom margin ‘194 f<sup>(euil)</sup>lets | 11p 6 L de haut | 8p de large’ (pr. Doble 144), no doubt at the same time as the manuscript was bound (late 19c or early 20c)].

f.196r/1 the added later OE inscription: ‘Lyuinc b[iscop] ah þas boc’ (pr. Doble 143; on Lyfing, see “History,” above).

f.197rv blank except for a few scribbles on the verso (as noted by Doble 144).

PHOTO NOTES: F. 1r has two shots, unfortunately the first and better one is partly obscured by a rule. Some pages or parts of pages are too faint to read completely, as ff.1r (second shot), 2r, 2v, 3r (top margin), 74v–75r etc. Many incipits are very faint or unreadable, and those in red are particularly difficult to read, as on f. 56v. Folio numbers are generally readable.

Isidore, "De ecclesiasticis Officiis," etc.,

OE Orosius (added extract), Bede,

"De temporum ratione," "Chronicon"

[Ker 375; Gneuss B ]

HISTORY: A consistently prepared and regular manuscript written in a continental caroline minuscule of the second half of the 9c. The scribe was almost certainly Hardwinus of St-Wandrille (Nortier 1971: 7), whose obit is recorded on f. 76r (item 6c below). There is no evidence that this manuscript was ever in England. As indicated by the inscriptions added in the top margin of f. 1r 'De l'abbaye de fecamp. N<sup>o</sup>. 36.' and 'Monasteri Foscanensis', it belonged to the abbey of Fécamp, and its presence in Normandy from early times is confirmed by the early addition '⟨N⟨ATALE⟩ TAURI-NI EP(ISCOPY)⟩' (bishop of Evreux, 412) to the calendar at 11 August (f. 79v/12). Probably it went to Fécamp soon after it was re-founded under the Benedictines at the beginning of the 11c. Annotations more or less contemporary with the writing of the manuscript appear on ff. 29v-30r. Bede's De Temporum Ratione (ff. 96r-171r) is glossed above the line sporadically, with commentary in the margins sometimes, as on f. 120r. Some doodles (?12c) appear on f. 95v, as well as a brief 12c extract from the OE Orosius (item 11 below). Some 19c annotations in French occur on f. 47v.

At the time of the French Revolution the collection of books in the region (including Fécamp) was organized and taken to St-Ouen in Rouen, which became the Bibliothèque Municipale in 1809. The manuscript is in poor condition, having almost certainly been exposed to damp over a longish period, probably in the 18c. Many leaves are brittle or are stiff with creases that do not press flat under light finger pressure, and some leaves, such as ff. 139v-141r, are only partially readable. Damage at the bottom hinge area of many leaves results in loss of text, and especially at the end of the manuscript similar damage affects the outer corners. Binding of brown calf on thick cardboard of 19c. Previous description by Henri Omont in Catalogue 1849-1918: n.s. 1 (1886): 116-17.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios i + 198 + ii, membrane except for the paper endleaves, measuring 238 × 138 mm., written area 190–195 × 105–108/113 mm. (allowing 5 mm. of width for the margin when it is ruled at the outer edge of the area). There are holes in ff. 81, 88, 192. Arranged HFHF in quires of 8 throughout. Foliation is found in the top right-hand corner of recto leaves, the number '133' being used twice, so the second of these is designated f.133B(is). F. 48 has been largely cut away, but without any apparent loss of main text. The bottom margins of ff. 41–42, 75, 83–85 have been cut away. F. 94 has split (or been cut) where ruled about two-thirds of the way down and along the inner vertical rule towards the bottom; what remains is fragile, but nothing is lost.

Prickmarks for the 28 to 32 lines of writing can be seen at the outer edges of the written area in all quires. Prickmarks for the vertical bounding lines are not to be seen. Quires I, II, and III show a simple frame ruling, with 28 lines ruled for writing per leaf; there is writing on the top line. Quires IV, V, VI, VII, XII, XIII, XXIV, XXV, and XXVI show a frame ruling with a double vertical bounding line at the outer edge of the written area and 31 lines ruled for writing per leaf; the horizontal ruled lines usually all extend beyond the vertical bounding line on both sides. Quires VIII, IX, X, XV, XVI, XVII, XVIII, XIX, XX, XXI, XXII, and XXIII show a frame ruling with a double vertical bounding line at the outer edge of the written area and 28 lines ruled for writing per leaf; the horizontal ruled lines usually all extend beyond the vertical bounding line on both sides. Quire XI (containing a calendar) shows a frame ruling with a double vertical bounding line at the outer edge of the written area and 32 lines ruled for writing per leaf, and the horizontal ruled lines usually all extend beyond the vertical bounding line on both sides; f. 75 has been ruled with 22 vertical lines for the columns of a table. Quire XIV shows a frame ruling with a double vertical bounding line at both the inner and the outer edge of the written area and 28 lines ruled for writing per leaf; the horizontal ruled lines usually all extend beyond the vertical bounding line on both sides; f. 95 has been ruled with 25 vertical lines to provide a grid for a diagram.

Red is used for headings, including chapter headings, and incipits/ex-plicits throughout on ff. 1r, 3v, 4r, etc., and for the borders of diagrams on f. 64r. Calligraphic initials in brown and green and brown and red (not alternating to any apparent system) throughout, also less frequently in brown and yellow on ff. 10v, 13v, 29v, etc., and in brown and purple on ff. 22v, 31r, 41v, etc. Blue is used in an illustrative diagram on f. 64r. Red and green are used for an initial on f.128v and for the divisions in the diagrams on ff. 74v, 75r, 95r. There is a slightly more elaborate calligraphic initial 'D' in green and purple on f. 98v. Purple, green, red, and yellow are used together in the ornamental 'P' on f. 149r.

CONTENTS:

[Note: In quire X the two half-sheets have been sewn in reverse order so that the stub of f. 74 appears before f. 73 instead of after it. Attached to the front cover is a piece of paper with a typewritten list of places where the manuscript is in poor condition, dated December 1953. Titles and bibliographic notes have been added in several early modern hands.]

1. Isidore, "De Ecclesiasticis Officiis" (coll. Lawson 1989, as PL 83. 737–826; CPL 1207):
  - f. 1r/1–12 Introductory letter to Fulgentius (the bracketed words of the title in red are now only legible in part): [LIBER OFFICIORUM] | S(AN)C-TI ESIDORI EP(ISCOP)I SPALENS(IS) | 'D(ominus) ep(iscopu)s. Queris a me origine(m) officio(rum) . . . adhib&ur auctorum';
  - f. 1r/a14–1v/b11 Bk. 1 Capitula (in two columns): 'de ec(c)lesia uel uo[ca]-bulo chr(ist)ianor(um) . . . De carniu(m) esu uel piscium';
  - f. 1v/14–19 Bk. 1 Preface: 'EA quae in officiis . . . auctorib(us) referamus';
  - ff. 1v/21–21v/19 Bk. 1 text (44 numbered chapters, the chapter titles are often faint, but in general follow those of the ed.): [De ecclesia uel uocabulo Christianorum] 'Primu(m) a p&ro aeclesia'; ends: 'Hoc eni(m) nec saluator nec apostoli proibu(er)unt.' EXPLICIT LIB(ER) PRIMUS;
  - f. 21v/19–23 Bk. 2 Preface: INCIPIT SECUN/DUS | 'Q(uo)n(ia)m origines causasque officioru(m) . . . ordine p(er)sequemur' EXPLICIT P(RE)-FATIO;
  - ff. 21v/a24–22r/b8 Bk. 2 Capitula (in two columns): INCIPIUNT CAPIT-ULA | 'I De clericis . . . XXVI De manus inpositionis uel \ confirmationis';
  - ff. 22r/9–47v/22 Bk. 2 text (26 numbered chapters): I DE CLERICIS | 'Itaq(ue) omnes qui ecclesiastici ministerii gradibus'; ends: 'ut | sermo noster paternis sententiis firmaretur'.

[Note: Lawson (1989: 129–30) surmises that the Rouen I. 49 copy of De eccl. off. descends from an A-S archetype that perhaps originated with an Italian manuscript brought to England by Theodore or Hadrian and more immediately derives from an A-S manuscript brought to France. Written across the top margin of f. 29v, continuing across and down the margin of f. 30r is an anathema against any would-be book thief: 'LIB(ER) S(AN)C(T)E TRINITATIS. QVICV(M)Q(UE) ABSTVLERIT VEL FVRAT(US) || FVERIT. CV(M) DATHAN. 7 ABIRAN. TERRA EV(M) VIVV(M) DEGLVCIAT. / & INFERNVS EV(M) RECIPIAT. TENEAT. LIB(ER) S(AN)C(T)E:]

2. f.47v/24–28 attributed to Isidore (in early modern marginal note), 'de situ | paradisi | terrestris' and in text attributed to Jerome (actually resembles a combination of several phrases of Ps.-Bede): 'In co(m)-mentar(io) Hier(onymi) sup(er) Genes(im) Ad litt(eram) Paradys(us) <est> amenissim(us) | loc(us). 7 fructu nemo(rum) opac(us) . . . ad eu(m) p(er)uenire potuer(it)'.

- 3a. f.48r/1–10 attributed to Isidore, De Acolitis, supposedly from De Ecclesiastibus Officiis, Bk. 2, ch.14: DE ACOLITIS | 'Acoliti grece latine cero-ferarii dicuntur . . . venientem in mundum' (as PL 83. 793–94);

[Note: F. 48 is a cut-down sheet, about 70 mm. high. In the PL edition (= Arevalo 1797–1803) this represents an interpolation from Hrabanus, De institutione clericorum (PL 107.304B) (see Lawson 1989: 114*, 117*); not in Lawson's ed., nor does it appear in the place in this manuscript corresponding to that of the Arevalo edition, between De exorcistis and De ostiariis (at f. 31r/20).]

- b. f.48v/1–12 (addition in 12c hand) from Bede, Hexameron, on the four rivers of Paradise: 'Fontes noti -iiii- fluminu(m) exeuntiu(m) de paradiso. | phisonis . . . longiores exeant' (as Jones 1967: 48–49, PL 91.45C).

- 4a. ff. 49r/1–73v/28 Isidore, Etymologiae, Bk. 3 and Bk. 5, chs. 28–38 (slightly abridged, with internal capitula and some diagrams; occupies, with no. 5 below, quires VII–X): (Bk. 1) INCIPIT PREFATIO LIBRI T[ERTII] | DE QUATTUOR SEQUENTIBUS DISC(IPLINAЕ) | 'Mathematica latine dicitur doctrinalis scientia'; Bk. 1 ends at f. 69r/18: 'a ter|renis reb(us) adducere& [sic] et in superna contemplatione con|locar&' EX[PLICIT]; Bk. 5 beg. on the same line with ch. 28: INCIPIUNT CAPITULA DE LIBER QUIN[TO] | 'I De te(m)porib(us) 7 cronicae uocabulo . . .' (ch. 28, f. 69r/b21); 'Cronica grece dicitur'; one leaf missing after f. 73, ends imperf. (Bk 5, ch. 38.5): 'Tertia ab Abraham usq(ue) ad da[uid]' (as Lindsay 1911 ad loc.; CPL 1186); one leaf wanting after f. 74.

- 4b. f.74r/1–74v/6 Isidore, "Etymologiae," Bk. 14, chs. 1, 2: De Terra | 'Terra est in media mundi regione posita'; (line 20, ch. 2 beg.) De orbe | 'Orbis h(ic) a rotunditate circuli dictus', and ends incomplete 'In | altera uero

'europa 7 africa' (Lindsay 1911: ad loc.), followed by two diagrams illustrating this conceptual division and the caption 'ECCE SIC DIUIS[AM] TERRAM'. (as PL 111. 9–614 at 331–34; Stegmüller 7020).

5. Diagrams and Rotae ff. 74v/6–31 + f. 75r/17 (i) f. 74v upper left, a circular T-O mappa mundi; (ii) f. 74v upper right, a corresponding square mappa mundi dividing the world between the sons of Noe; (iii) below center, a rota anni (cf. Fontaine 1960: 202bis); on f. 75r a rota ventorum (cf. Fontaine 1960: 296bis).
6. Kalendar with associated texts and tables:
  - a. f.75r/18–29 Quadragesima and Easter calculations: 'Quantos dies ante pridie idus aprelis fuerit pas|cha . . . nec maior qua(m) xxvij' (cf. e.g. De argumentis lunae, PL 90.714–15);
  - b. f. 75v Tabula regularis for determining the position of the moon in the zodiac (cf. Bede, De temp. rat. ch. 19, Jones 1939: 68, Wallis 1999: 65 et pass.);
  - c. f. 76r/1–81v/33 Kalendar: MEN(SI)S IAN(UARUS) DIES XXXI | 'I. A a R(ubrica) ianuarias circu(m)cisio d(omi)ni'. At f. 78r/26 'uii [kl. Jun.]' 'beda pr(es)b(iter)', and at f. 78v/23 has been added 'x [kl. Jul.] Obiit Hard' u 'inus sacerd(os) | dona ei d(omi)ne | requie(m) a&ernam': ends: 'nox horas xuii dies vj'.
  - d. f. 82r Table of concurrents and solar and lunar regulars, 28 years: INCI-PIUNT LECTIONES SIUE REGULA CO(M)PUTI, etc.;
  - e. f. 82v/1–13 Table for finding the weekday on any day of the year according to Dionysius Exiguus: [. . .] INUIENDA(M) SECUNDUM DIO-NISIUM | '[Mar. In kalendae] xxxiii. In non(ae) uiij. In idus xii', etc.;
  - f. f. 82v/14–26 The same, according to Victorius, actually Bede: ITEM AD FERIAM INUEN(IENDAM) SECUND(UM) UICTORIU(M) | 'FEB in k(alendae) xxij in non(ae) xxxuj in idus xluij', etc. (cf. Bede, De temp. rat., ch. 22).
  - g. f. 82v/27–30 Two versified riddles: 'Prima sonat quarta respondit. Se-cunda cu(m) quinta. | tertia cum sexta nom(en) aus.' (= "Turtur", pr. Riese 1869: 1<sup>2</sup>.235, no. 770; cf. Schaller and Könsgen 1977: no. 12509); 'Est quina & femina | trina in arbore silua. scriptis litteris uiij. sublatis | trib(us) in v de[.] ille inuenies totum' (unidentified).
  - h. f. 83r Table of numerical terms, with titles partly legible: CARDINA-LES, ORDI/NALES, [Distributives], ADUER/BIALES: (line 3) 'i unus primus singuli semel | ii duo secundus bini bis . . . c centum centesi-mum centeni centies';

[Note: Ff. 83–85 have been trimmed at the bottom, apparently without loss of the main text.]

- i. ff. 83v-85v Victorius of Aquitaine, “Calculus” (multiplication tables, here lacking the fractions): (arranged down) ‘I dcccc dccc dcc dc’ etc.; (and across): ‘Nales A dcccc īdccc īidcc īidc īiid īucccc’ (cf. Peden 2003: 4–37 et pass.);

[Note: On tops of ff. 85rv, 86r are neumes, which seem little more than pen trials.]

- j. ff. 86r/1-87v/12 Tract on embolismic months: ‘Primus embolismus og-doadis ubi est sua luna | In decemb<sup>r</sup>(is) id<us>; ends: ‘Uel non conser-uat regulam in fine<m> ogdo<adis> & hendig<adis> quod est in duos annos | predictis’ (cf. In | [ . . . ]’ [the corner of the page, with the apparent ending, is cut off] (cf. De argumentis lunae, PL 90.709D; cf. Jones 1943: 33 et passim);

- l. f. 88r Tables of Greek numbers and corresponding Latin numbers and dates;

- m. ff. 88v-89r Table running across both pages: CYCLUS LUNÆ ID EST LVNAS IN KŁ || MENSIMUM CYCLUS ET CURSUS LV[NAE] (24 lines).

[Note: The outer corner of f. 89, with much text, is wanting.]

7. ff. 89v/1-93r/31 Beatus Proterius Alexandrinus (episcopus), to Pope Leo I, “Epistola de Ratione Paschalis” (on the correct date of Easter): INCIPIT AEPISTULA S(AN)C(T)I PROTERII ALE[XANDRINI] EP(ISCOP)I AD BEATISSIMUM PAPA(M) | LEONE(M) ROMANE URBIS EPISCOPUM | DE QUESTIONE PASCHALI | ‘Domino meo dilectissimo fratri & consacer|doti leoni proterius in d<omi>no salute<m>. Pi|ssimus & fidelissimus imperator nos|ter marcianus litteris ad nos nuper’; ends: ‘te que nobis|cu<m> est salutat in d<omi>no. & alia manu ualere te | & n<ost>ri meminisse do<mi>n<e> p<re>cor dilec-tissime & de|sideratissime AMEN’ EXPLICIT EP(ISTUL)A P(RO)-TERII (as PL 54. 1084–94, PL 67. 507–14; cf. Jones 1943: 58–59).

8. f. 93v/1-30 Pope Leo I, Ep. 138: INCIPIT EPISTOLA PAPE LEONIS AD GAL|LIA(M) ET SPANIA(M) DE PASCHE SOLEMNITATE. | ‘Dilectissimis fratribs uniuersis ep(iscop)s catollicis’; text begins at line 2 ‘Cu<m> in | omnibus diuinorum’; ends: ‘solemnitate feriemur’ (as PL 54. 1102, also pr. in Isidore Mercator, Decretum Collectio xcvi, PL 130.921–22).

9. f. 94r/1-21 (added in another hand) Notula on necessity and free will: ‘Quia nec aufert necessitate<m> ueniendi . . . nisi p<re>ueniente. Ad-iuuante. & subseq<uen>te | g<rati>a d<e>i.’

- f. 94r/22–33 an added diagram consisting of three intersecting circles.
10. f. 94v/1–95r/29 Figura mundi, cardinal points and winds, with diagrams: labeled 'Ianuarius cu⟨m⟩ dece⟨m⟩brio in hora|rum m⟨en⟩sura concordant || febroarius & nouember | spatium equale⟨m⟩ adsumient', etc. (= Isidore, De Natura Rerum, ch. 5, ed. Fontaine 1960: 191, PL 83.971). Continues at f. 95r/1 'hic est mundus diuisus in iiii<sup>or</sup> partes . . . in unoquo⟨que⟩ mense'.
11. f. 95v OE content: page originally left blank, but below some pen-triangular marks of abbreviation the following extract from the Old English Orosius (Bk I, ch.14) was added in the 12c: 'er romeburg getimbred were from frimðe weron | agane feower ðusend wintra 7 feor hund. 7 twa 7 hund | eahtatig. 7 æfter þe(m) þe rome getimbroð wes | wes ures drihtnes ~~ætene~~ ymb sefon hund wintre .7. (y)tiene' (coll. Bately 1980: 35/22–26; for discussion see Mossé 1955 and Bately 1980: xxxiii–xxxiv). There are some further scribbles and a design added below the passage of OE.
- 12a. ff. 96r/1–171r/21 Bede, "De Temporum Ratione" chs. 1–65, parts of 66, 67–71 (heavily glossed in places): (preface, heading erroneous) PRE-FATIO DE TEMPO|RIBVS LIBRI [rest of title added by a slightly later hand: 'Que⟨m⟩ edidit beda p⟨res⟩b⟨y⟩t(er)'] | 'De natura rerum & ratione te⟨m⟩poru⟨m⟩ duos | quondam 'per' stricto sermone libellos | dissentibus'; f. 97r/14 (chapter headings) 'I De compoto uel loquela digitorum . . . LXV De circulo magno pasche'; f. 98r/23–28 (in another hand titles to chs. "68–72" = parts of chs. 66, and chs. 67–71) 'LXUI de sex huius seculi a&atibus . . . LXXII De septima [oct]aua a&ate seculi futuri'; f. 98v/1 (text): DE COMPUTO UEL LOQUELA DIGITOR⟨UM⟩ | 'De temporum ratione d⟨omi⟩no iuuante dicturi ne|cessarium duxim⟨us⟩ utilissima⟨m⟩'; a leaf is lost between ff. 141 and 142: f. 41v ends (in ch. 38) 'nunc equinoctialem coeli locu⟨m⟩ mane oriens intra[verit]' (= Jones 1943: 251/21, PL 90. 467B) and f. 142r begins (in ch. 39) 'quota sit inuenit⟨ur⟩ in eo sexta ergo eius unum' (= Jones 1943: 253/24, PL 90. 469C); ch. 65 [numbered 'lxiiii'] ends 'evidentius agnoscant'; f. 164r/18 the text continues with the beginning of ch. 66 (Jones 1977: 463/1–464/47) lxu de sex hu(iu)s s⟨e⟩c⟨u⟩li &atib⟨us⟩ [sic] | 'De vi hui⟨u⟩s mundi aetatib⟨us⟩ ac septima . . . exspectant'; f. 165r/2 continues ch. 66 (Jones 1977: 464/48–465/71): lxui | de cursu a&atum eorumdem | Prima igitur a&ate . . . genus p⟨ro⟩paga|r& humanum'; chs. 67–71 (Jones 1977: 535–44), f. 165v/1 lxvii de reliquis sexte a&tatis | 'Hæc de cursu p⟨re⟩teriti seculi ex hebr'a 'eica ueritate'; ends: 'pre|mioru⟨m⟩ mereamur accipere palmam.' | explicit d⟨omi⟩no iuuante beda presbiteri |

[Note: A smaller hand (probably the same hand that wrote item 9) has added notes of various degrees of relevance on many leaves, mostly along the tops, and is responsible for most of the interlinear glosses. F. 102r (ch. 4) is in two columns for lists of data. The OE names of the months appear on ff. 118v–119rv, in their usual places as part of the Latin text. A rota showing the five zones of the earth is on f. 138r. On ff. 123r/19–28, 123v/1–14 there is blank space (with on the verso a drawing of a pacing bird and some scribbles added) after ‘Tricesima spatio mensium duodecim’ and before the start of xiiii Item de eodem si qui computare | non dedicit | ‘Si qui computare non didicit’. At f. 159v/25 the scribe neglected to write the title to ch. 62 and crowded it in at the ends of lines 25–26.]

f.171r/22–28 blank. Underneath (on left) is written downwards the name ‘Otbertvs’.

12b. ff. 171v/1–198v/31 Bede, Chronica majora (the greater part of ch. 66 of item 12a): begins (= Jones 1977: 465/72, Mommsen 1898: 249) ‘Ada(m) anno(rum) cxxx genuit s&h’; ends imperf. in A.M. 4667 (= Jones 1977: 531/2005, Mommsen 1898: 318, PL 90.570B) ‘hic `e` iecit cyru(m) de suum Pontum redire precepit’ (as Jones 1977: 465–535, Mommsen 1898: 3.247–327; PL 90.522–78; cf. CPL 2273).

PHOTO NOTES: Many pages are very difficult to read, partly because of the state of the manuscript, partly because of shadow on the film.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios iii + 8 + 10 + 8 + 59 + 8 + iii, membrane, except for ff. 86–93, a paper insertion of the 17c; the endleaves are modern vellum belonging with the binding. A note on f. 94r indicates that the (?19c) writer thought the manuscript contained 102 folios rather than the present 85 + 8 (there is no leaf numbered 11 or 17 and two leaves are numbered '7': see below). The leaves show the following measurements: Part A, quire I: 235 × 180 mm., written area 186 × 129/119 mm. (outer/inner); Part B, quires II–III: 235 × 162 mm., written area 184 × 116/108 mm. (outer/inner); Part C, quire IV: 235 × 180 mm., written area 193 × 122 mm.; Part D, quires V–XI: 235 × 180 mm., written area 189 × 135/117 mm. (outer/inner). Wormholes in quire I show that it was not always next to quire II. A set of wormholes near the hinge in the bottom margins start at the back of the manuscript and penetrate forward as far as the beginning of quire IX (f. 60). There are holes in ff. 13/14 (in the gutter), 21, 26, 37, 39, 54 (in the text area), 57, 70 (in the text area), and 77. A tear in f. 75 has been repaired by sewing the two pieces together. F. 26 has had its outer margin cut off. The numbering of the leaves in the top right-hand recto corner shows a second f. 7 (called here f. 7bis) after f. 8, there is no f. 11 (although the number 11 appears at the top left-hand verso corner of f. 10), and no f. 17. If the correct order of leaves were restored f. 7bis would be f. 17. Quire arrangement: Part A: quire I HFHF; Part B: quire II HFHF, quire III H; Part C: quire IV HFHF; Part C: quire V FHFH, quire VI HFHF, quire VII HFHF, quire VIII HFHF, quire IX HFHF, quire X HFFHHF, quire XI (H+) FFHFF.

Pricking varies. In Part A, quire I, slit-shaped prickmarks for the double vertical bounding lines of the ruled frame can be seen at the top of the leaves and there are 34 marks for the horizontal long lines of writing near the outer edges of leaves. In Part B, quires II–III, prickmarks for the double vertical bounding lines of the ruled frame can generally be seen at the top of leaves, and there are 23 marks for the horizontal long lines for writing near the outer edges of the leaves. In Part C, quire IV, no prickmarks are visible except the two for the outer double frame rule at the top of f. 23. In Part D, quire V, only some prickmarks for the 20 horizontal long lines of writing are visible very near the outer edges of ff. 34–35; in quire VI only some prickmarks for the 20 horizontal long lines of writing are visible very near the outer edges of some leaves, as f. 41. In quires VII–X no prickmarks are visible. In quire XI prickmarks for the vertical double bounding lines can be seen at the top of some folios, as ff. 81–82. Prickmarks for 20 horizontal long lines for writing can be seen very near the outer edges of some leaves, as f. 85, and partially on ff. 81–82. F. 94 shows two rows of prickmarks for 24 and 40 horizontal lines of writing respectively, a feature that suggests it may have been added to the quire.

Ruling varies. In Part A, quire I, hardpoint ruled double frame with 34 horizontal lines for writing, of which the top line receives writing and the bottom line does not; the vertical lines and the top two and bottom two horizontal lines extend to the edges of the leaves. In Part B, quires II–III, hardpoint ruled double frame with 23 horizontal lines of writing, of which the top line receives writing; the vertical lines and the top two and the bottom three horizontal lines extend to the edges of the leaves. In Part C, quire IV, hardpoint ruled double frame with 22 horizontal lines of writing, of which the top line receives writing; the writing extends to the outer bounding line on the right-hand side of each page. In Part D, quires V and VII, hardpoint ruled double frame with 20 horizontal lines of writing, of which the top line receives writing; generally the writing extends only occasionally beyond the inner bounding line on the right-hand side of the page; quire VI is as quire V, but the vertical bounding lines and the top and bottom horizontal lines for writing can be seen to extend to the outer edges of the leaves, as very clearly on f. 37, sim. quires VIII, IX (very clear on f. 63), X (very clear on ff. 70–71), and XI (very clear on ff. 82–83, but excluding f. 94, which has been ruled with a simple frame for 24 lines of writing).

Each Part is distinguished by its handwriting. Part B is written by at least two hands, clearly differentiated on f. 15r. Part C is written in two hands. Part D is written by seven or eight scribes.

[Note: According to Bishop (1971: xxv, 18), Hand C1, found on ff. 20r–26r/12, occurs also in (a) Worcester, Cathedral Library, MS Q.8, ff. 164–71, (b) Oxford, Bodleian Library, MS Bodley 311 (2122) [356], where the scribe signs himself off with 'Johannes me scripsit', and (c) Cambridge, Corpus Christi College, MS 285, Part B [46], inked glosses on f. 83v, as well as (d) El Escorial E.II.1 [129a]. In addition Gameson 2003: 157 suggests that Hand C2, found on ff. 26r/15–27v, may perhaps also occur in Rouen, BM, MS U.26, f.3r/6–7, and that in Part D the scribe responsible for ff. 81r–85r is probably the same as that of London, British Library, Royal MS 15.C.vii [304], which contains a similar collection and was still at Winchester in the 16c.]

There is no color in Parts A–B (quires I, II, III). In Part C (quire IV) red is used for chapter numbers and initials from f. 24v (the beginning of item 6). In Part D (quires V–XI) red is used for headings, chapter numbers and initials, and for shading some initials written in brown ink. Ornamental capital 'D' on f. 29r (beginning item 9) in green with blue edges and gold motifs, followed by one line of capitals in green. Large initial 'N' in red on f. 30v followed by two lines of capitals in green. The heading above in smaller capitals is in another shade of red, matching that in the capitals on f. 29r. Chapter numbers in red are often in the margin, and sometimes the chapter headings spill onto the margin, as on ff. 53v, 58r, and 67r. There is no color on f. 94. Neumes in margins of ff. 53v, 66v, 73v, 77v (Hartzell 2006: 557).

COLLATION: Part A: I<sup>8</sup> (ff. 1–8) | Part B: properly II<sup>8</sup> (ff. 9–16 + 7bis if f. 7bis were turned back the right way), but presently IIa<sup>2</sup> (ff. 7bis–9) and IIb<sup>6</sup> (ff. 10–16; there are no leaves numbered 11 or 17), III<sup>2</sup> (ff. 18–19) | Part C: IV<sup>8</sup> 3 (f. 22) and 6 (f. 25) are half-sheets (ff. 20–27) | Part D: V<sup>8</sup> (ff. 28–35), VI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 36–43), VII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 44–51), VIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 52–59), IX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 60–67), X<sup>12+1</sup> f. 76 added half-sheet (ff. 68–80), XI<sup>10+1+(8)</sup> wants 1–5, f. 94 was probably added later and ff. 86–93 are a 17c paper insertion (ff. 81–94).

Quire I shows a quire signature 'A' surrounded by four sets of three dots at the bottom of f. 8v near the extended outer line of the frame margin. At the bottom of f. 67v in the centre, the end of quire IX, there are vestiges of a quire signature cropped by a binder.

[Note: Quire XI is described as it appears in the present binding, but it is problematical because a binding strip has been added between the paper insertion and f. 94 and because of the paper 17c insertion which has been sewn in between leaves 8 and 8+1 as if they were the centre of the quire proper. It would appear that new material has been fused to ff. 81–85 to enable them to be sewn in. As indicated by the pricking and ruling, f. 94 was probably not part of the quire as originally conceived, but was probably added in the 11c to make additional space for item 13 which begins on f. 85v, and this was before the worm got to work on this and the preceding quires.]

CONTENTS:

Part A (quire I, ff. 1–8)

1. Originally blank f. 1r has the following additions:

- a. f. 1r (top margin and to the right of the text of 1b): later partially illegible inscription including 'Iumyeges Ordre' (?13c), the numbers 'xix'(13c/14c) and 'G 32' (its Jumièges number, 18c, possibly by the same hand as the contents list); an 18c list of contents beginning 'Hic continentur | S. Ephraim Liber', a list that includes the contents of the 16c paper insertion in quire XII; this same hand has added the titles to the individual works throughout the manuscript;
- b. f. 1r/1–12: Verse (late 12c/early 13c hand) "Trinubium S. Annae": 'Nupta fuit ioachim mater p(rius) anna marie . . . Jacob(us) ex alia cu(m)

- fr(atr)e ioh(ann)e maria' (pr. Volk 1928: 244; Chevalier 1892–1921: 2:174, no.12629; Walther no. 12499);
- c. f. 1r/17–25 from Otto of Freising (d. 1158), “Gesta Friderici I. Imperatoris,” citing an alleged prophecy to Louis VII of France foretelling the Second Crusade [promulgated 1145]: ‘Tibi dico L[udewico] pastor corporum quem inspirauit sp(iritu)s peregrini | dei . . . aquas fluminis ut transire(n)t p(er) eas | que student in p(ro)creatione [so mss., ed: -curatione] filiorum’ (as Waitz 1912: 10–11);
  - d. f. 1r/27–8, 29 contemporary (12c) with c., above, partially legible addition, ending ‘bona sunt’; a brief illegible inscription (13c) in textualis below this.
  - 2. f. 1v/6–8v/33 St Ephraem, “Sermo de compunctione cordis” (Latin version, in a late 11c hand). Begins ‘[D]OLOR ME COMPELLIT | dicere. et iniquitas mea conminatur mihi | ut sileam’; space has been left for an ornamental capital D that was not supplied; ends imperf. ‘Beatus q(ui) cu(m) fidutia p(er)git ad d(omi)n(u)m potans sine’ [= Assemani, p. 52/11] (Greek text with modern Latin translation, ed. Assemani et al. 1732–1747: 1.40–70 [CPL 1143.vi], different from this unpublished medieval Latin text).

Part B (quires II–III, ff. 9–19) 3. Fulbert of Chartres (d. 1028 or 1029), Epistles 5 (olim 1) and 3 (olim 2), in a late 12c hand:

- a. ff. 9r/1–16v/17 (no folio ‘11’) Epistola 5 ad Deodatum, “De tribus quae sunt necessaria ad profectum Christianae religionis” [before 1007]: ‘Venerabili patri & d(omi)no sibi se(m)p(er) amando deodato. fulbertus | exiguus. Vnde int(er) hesterna & secreta colloquia’; ends: ‘indigne sumant. nec p(er)nitiose refugiant’ (as PL 141.196–204);
- ff. 16v/18–23, 7bis/r/1–7bis/v/23, 18r/1–19r/20 Epistola 3 ad Einardum [1006]: ‘Domino suo einardo se(m)p(er) sibi amando. se(m)p(er) uenerando. fulbertus exiguus | Nouit & uere nouit serenitatis u(est)rę prudentia’: ends: ‘sanioris consillii ratione corrigere’ (as PL 141. 192–95). f.19r/21–3 blank.

[Note: In the recent rebinding the outside sheet of quire II (ff. 9/7bis) was wrongly removed and bound as a bifolium, with f. 7bis (recte “17”) wrongly appearing between ff. 8 and 9, but on the film/fiche it shows the old, correct, order, f. 7bis appearing where it belongs, between ff. 16 and 18.]

- 4. f. 19v/a1–b45 (added in a later 12c/13c hand, two columns, writing three lines to each ruled line) “Carmen de Destructione Troie” = Carmina Burana 101: ‘Pergama flere uolo fato danais data solo . . . Femina fatalis. femina feta malis’ (as Fischer and Kuhn 1974: 354–58, PL 142.1205–10; for discussion and bibliography see Boutemy 1946).

Part C (quire IV, ff. 20–27)

5. f. 20r/1–24v/12 “Memoriale Monachorum,” “Memoriale qualiter,” a late 8c amalgam of monastic regulations sometimes attributed to St. Benedict; begins imperf. in ch. 2 “De prima et officio capituli” (Morgand 1963: 235/7): “[similiter faciant] & in omni conuentu. Post lectione uero. recitata nomina | s(an)c(t)o(rum) quoru(m) festa. crastinus excipi& dies’; ends: ‘sic req(ui)escens rog& | ponere ori suo custodiam.’ [cf. Ps. 39:2] | HII EFFECTUS IN UNU(M) COLLECTI. CITIUS AD MEMORIAM | REDUCUNTUR. EXPLICIT MEMORIALE MONACHOR(UM). (coll. Morgand 1963: 229–82, as PL 66.937D-942A; on composition and date see Morgand 1963: 234–35; CPL 1857b, CPPM 3611).
6. f. 24v/15–26r/12 from the “Capitula Monachorum” of the Council of Aachen 816: ‘I. cap. ut abbates. mox ut ad monasteria sua remeauerint | regula(m) p(er) singula uerba discutientes legent [second ‘e’ expuncted and corrected to ‘a’]; 28 numbered chapters; ends imperf.: ‘defuerit duplum | de ceruisa restituat’ (ending sim. to ch. 22 at PL 97. 385A; as PL 97.381–94, does not follow the same order or exact wording).
- f. 26r/13–14 almost entirely erased lines apparently beginning ‘Ex publii’ and ending ‘habeat’.
7. f. 26r/15–27v/22 part of the Liturgy for the Offices for Maundy Thursday to Holy Saturday: ‘In v feria qua(m) uocamus cena d(omi)ni. Dicta aut(em) antifona ad introitu(m); ends imperf.: ‘.III<sup>o</sup>. lect<sup>(io)</sup> Hęc e(st) hereditas. [Is. 54:17] TRACT(ATUS) Adtende cele(ritate) á Seq(ui)-t(ur) mat[teus].’

Part D (quires VI–XI, ff. 28–93 + 94)

8. f. 28r/1–28v/32 Wulfstan of Winchester, alphabetical hymn in honor of St. Swithun, “Auxilium domine” (first 13 lines with A-S staveless neumes): YMNUS AD LAUDEM SACRATISSIMI PONTIFICIS S(AN)C(T)I SUUITHUNI | ELIGANTI URBANITATE METRICE ARTIS PER-ITE COMPOSITUS. | ‘Auxilium d(omi)ne qui ‘te’ rogitantibus affers’; ends: ‘Et cum swiþuno nomina nostra nota’ (ed. and tr. Lapidge 2003: 790–92, Sauvage 1886: 54–55, Dreves 1886–1922: 48.4; cf. [Hesbert] 1954: 38–39, facs. pl. I; Hartzell 2006: 557, no. 320; Schaller and Köns- gen 1530).

[Note: Uses A-S letters “wynn” and “þ” in “swiþuno” (f. 28v/32). The last part of this item has been written with more lines to the page than allowed for by the ruling in order to include the whole text. Probably this leaf was left blank when the “Translatio S. Swithuni” was written and the hymn added afterwards.]

9. ff. 29r/3–80v/10 Lantfred, “Translatio et Miracula S. Swithuni”: (Epistola Lantfredi) DILEC|TISSIMIS |FRATRIBUS. UUINTONIE |

commorantibus in s⟨an⟩c⟨t⟩i PETRI | coenobio'; ends with verses at f.30v/1–3 (in a different shade of red ink from that used in the initial 'N' of the following text): 'PANDIT HIC EX MULTIS MIRACULA PAUCA LIBELLUS. | PER MERITUM S⟨AN⟩C⟨T⟩I QUAE FECIT RECTOR OLIMPI. | PONTIFICIS NACTO SUI DHUNI CORPORE SACRO'; f. 30v4 (Preface) 'NOTVM EST | FR⟨ATRE⟩S FIDELIBVS | UBIQ⟨UE⟩ GENTIUM DE GENTIB(US) | QUANTA PIĘ DILECTIONIS BEN-Eficia . . . dinoscitur reddidisse'; f. 34r/1(Incipit Narratio, with verses) 'ANNIS ANTE TRIBUS QUAM DE TUMULO TRAHERETUR . . . Lapidge 2003: 252–333, partial ed. Sauvage 1885: 372–410 [= this manuscript, less previously published parts; see Lapidge's comments on this edition, p. 249], partial ed. PL 155.65–80) [f.80v/11–20 blank except for some trial capital letters in line 12 'A B C D' in green and 'E P' (or cap. 'Æ' 'Wyn') in red, and a later addition in line 14 'In quacunq⟨ue⟩'].

[OE Symptoms: On f. 80v, in the upper-left margin is scribbled 'amor lufu. | amore. for lufa. | amator. lufiend,' which Ker, Cat., p. 448, dates "s. xi." On f. 30v/3 note the use of A-S 'eth + h' in the added heading. Note also the A-S letter forms on f. 38r, and also elsewhere in names, as f. 37v AÐEUUOLDVS. On f. 38r the scribe's 'æpelwarabyrig' has been glossed in a later 12c (?Norman) hand 'adel uara byrit.]

10. ff. 81r–82r/20 Wulfstan of Winchester, alphabetical hymn in honor of St. Birinus of Winchester, "Agmina sacra poli": INCIPIT YMNUIS IN HONORE S⟨AN⟩C⟨T⟩I PATRIS | N⟨OST⟩RI BIRINI EP⟨ISCOP⟩I. OCCIDENTALIU⟨M⟩ SAXONU⟨M⟩ | APOSTOLI. ELEGIACO ET PARACTERICO | CARMINE PER ALPHABETUM EDITUS. | 'Agmina sacra poli. iubilent modulamine dulci'; ends: 'Commendaque pio. Blume 1903: 3–6; Dreves 1886–1922: 48.1; Schaller and Könsgen 591).
13. ff. 85v/1–20 and 94r/a1–b4 (added in 11c) Hymn of the Three Children: SEQUENTIS YMNI PROHEMIUM hoc EST. | (prologue) ‘O sa tor omniparens. esque p(er) secula clemens’; (hymn begins at f. 85v/7) SEQUITUR YMNUIS TRIUM PUERORUM. | ‘Omnia nunc elemen ta d(e)i. Benedicite chr(ist)o’; continues [after the paper insertion] on f. 94r/a1 in two columns: ‘Nix glaciesq(ue) d(e)o canite & benedicite chr(ist)o’; ends, lacking last two lines of ed. text: ‘Nos & ab igniuomo clemens substraxit auerno || (col. b) Et quia florigeru sua | germina red didit horto. | Gloria semp(er) ei maneat. | per secula sec[u]li. AMEN’ (coll. Dreves 1886–1922: 43.18; Schaller and Könsgen 11045). Rest of f. 94r/b blank except for some pen trials (including copies of first two lines of col. a, ‘Nix . . . Benedicite chr(ist)o’) and scribbles of various periods.

[Note: The following item was copied in the 17c on paper and added to the manuscript.]

14. ff. 86r/1–93r/13: (17c title) ‘Vita sancti Kentigerni, episcopi Glasguensis | ex scriptis R. Patris Patricij | Andersoni Socio Jesu’: ‘Hic sanctus ortus est parentibus’; ends: ‘Lothi regis filia(m)’ followed by the date ‘1623’ (apparently unpublished and not recorded by BHL 4645–49).

f. 93r/14–29 and 93v blank.

- 15a. f. 94v/1–14 Liturgical extract from the response to the absolution following a requiem mass: ‘lib(er)a me domine. Dies illa dies ire calamitatis (et) miseriae’ with accompanying Norman musical notation on four-line stave (pr. [Hesbert] 1954: 39–40, facs. pl. LXXXIV; Hartzell 2006: 558, no. 320).

b. f. 94v/15–24 a multiplication table, by ones, twos, threes, etc: ‘i ii iii . . . xc c’.

445. Rouen, Bibliothèque Municipale Y.6 (274)
Sacramentary (“Missal of Robert of Jumièges”)
[Ker 377; Gneuss 921]

HISTORY: A deluxe service book well known for its lively illustrations and sumptuous illuminations using gold leaf; this manuscript was written probably at Peterborough 1014 × 1023 (but cf. Hohler 1955), or possibly Ely (Tolhurst 1955), by the hand whom Bishop (1967: 39–40) called Scribe B (illustrated in Bishop 1971: pl. XI.13), who also wrote Cambridge, Trinity College MS B.10.4 and wrote or contributed to others (listed by Bishop 1967: 39–40 and by Heslop 1990: 181). For historical evidence of the making of sacramentaries at Peterborough around this time see William of Malmesbury’s Vita Wulfstani, Bk. 1, ch. 1 (Darlington 1928: 5). The illustrations mark each of the most important liturgical feasts. The OE is written in the main hand of the Missal, in a style that suggests to Dumville (1991: 52) a date not later than the first decade of the 11c, but it is probably a few years later. Given by Robert of Jumièges when bishop of London (1044–1051) to Jumièges as recorded in an 11c inscription on f. 228r (item 6 below); the Jumièges class-mark ‘K.10’ is written on f. ii verso (for the movement of manuscripts from England to Normandy at this time see Gameson 2003). It was transferred from Jumièges to Rouen at the French Revolution and has been in the Bibliothèque Municipale since its foundation in 1809. The binding of 1961 is of light-tan calf with blind-stamped borders (film shows the previous binding). Previous descriptions by Henri Omont in Catalogue 1849–1918: n.s.1 (1886), 53, and in Leroquais 1924: 1.99.

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios i + 229 + i, membrane of good quality, thick and creamy, measuring 325 × 220 mm., written area 211 × 149 mm., disposed in 31 quires. There are holes in the margins of ff. 1, 16, 20, 99, 108, 109, 111, and 216 only, and none in the text area. Arranged HFHF(H) throughout. Only traces of pricking are visible in quire I. None is visible in quires II and III. Prickmarks for 28 horizontal lines of writing can be seen outside the text area in many quires, as quire IV (where they are clearest on f. 30), and most quires from quire XII onwards. Prickmarks for the double vertical bounding lines can also be seen at the bottom of the leaves close to the edge, and sometimes at the top of leaves as well, as f. 77. Throughout the manuscript a double-bounded frame rule is shown with 28 horizontal lines, of which the top and bottom ones are extended to the inner and outer edges of the leaves. In quire II (the Calendar) 39 horizontal lines are shown in the same written area.

Gold is used for capitals and major incipits, and is prevalent throughout the manuscript. Blue and red are used for headings and rubrics; on f. 83v they occur in alternating lines. Red and purple are used in alternating lines for the service rubrics, including OE, as on f. 212r/12–14. Illuminations using gold, blue, magenta, and green with gold lettering occur on ff. 25v, 26r, 26v, 27r, 32v, 33r, 36v, 37r, 57r, 71r, 71v, 72r, 72v, 81v, 82r, 84v, 85r, 114r, 131v, 132r, 158v, 159r, 164v, 165r, and 174r. The colors are still very fresh. The calendar, ff. 6r–11v, has KL monograms in gold and details in magenta, red, gold, and blue, with paschal tables and computus materials in similar colors. There are thirteen elaborately illuminated miniature illustrations in decorated rectangular or arched frames marking principal feasts and twelve similar facing pages holding the openings of texts marking significant divisions. Temple (1976: 89–91) compares the Benedictional of St. Aethelwold (BL Additional MS 49598), both in particulars of style and in arrangement of elements.

COLLATION: I<sup>4+1</sup> 5 is glued on with the hinge side wrapped in a binding strip (ff. 1–5), II<sup>6+1</sup> 7 (f. 12) is glued on (ff. 6–12), III<sup>8</sup> (ff. 13–20), IV<sup>8</sup> wants 5–8 (ff. 21–24), V<sup>8</sup> wants 1 and 2 (ff. 25–30), VI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 31–38), VII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 39–46), VIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 47–54), IX<sup>6+1</sup> f. 57 an added singleton (ff. 55–59), X<sup>8</sup> (ff. 60–67), XI<sup>8+1</sup> f. 73 an added singleton (ff. 68–76), XII<sup>10</sup> (ff. 77–86), XIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 87–94), XIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 95–102), XV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 103–110), XVI<sup>6+1</sup> f. 114 a singleton (ff. 111–117), XVII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 118–125), XVIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 126–133), XIX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 134–141), XX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 142–149), XXI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 150–157), XXII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 158–165), XXIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 166–173), XXIV<sup>1+2</sup> f. 174 an added singleton (ff. 174–176), XXV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 177–184), XXVI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 185–192), XXVII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 193–200), XXVIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 201–208), XXIX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 209–216), XXX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 217–224), XXXI<sup>4</sup> (ff. 225–228, f. 228 has been divided from f. 225 and fused to a supporting leaf, and the quire has been glued together).

Note: F. i shows a leaf that was originally blank fused to a supporting leaf, and this original blank leaf may well have been the first leaf of the first quire, so making a quire of 6 (rather than 4+1). Frere (1858–60: 2.310) suggested that ff. 57 and 114 have lost a conjoint leaf before each of them, but, while possible, this proposition seems doubtful, as the collation shows that the provision of illustrations took precedence over the regularity of the quires, so it is more likely that ff. 57 and 114 were added singletions. Temple (1976: 89) adds the suggestion that f. 174 has also lost a conjoint leaf before it, but from a codicological point of view this seems highly improbable.]

3. ff. 25v/1–30r/18 Canon of the Mass: 'PER | OMNIA | SAECULA | SAECULORUM. | D(OMI)N(U)S UOBISCUM'; ends: '& de munere temporali fiat | nobis remedium sempiternum. am(en)'; elaborate ornamental borders to text on two double-page openings, ff. 25v–26r and 26v–27r, where the text is in gold lettering to signal its importance as the central portion of the Mass (ed. Wilson 45–48) [f. 30r/19–28 blank].

f. 30v blank.

4. ff. 31r/1–104v/11 Proper of the Time (Temporale), beginning at Christmas Eve (24 Dec.): (headed in blue) IX K(A)L(ENDAS) IAN(UARII) UIGILIA NATALIS D(OMI)NI. | 'D(EU)S qui nos redemptionis N(ost)rae annua | expectatione laetificas'; ends with "Orationes Uespertinales": '& fac nos sine ullo reatu matutinis tibi | laudibus praesentari. p(er) d(omi)n(u)m n(ost)r(u)m'; decorated text frames ff. 57r, 82r, 85r, see below (ed. Wilson 48–146) [blank spaces at ff. 70r/17–28, 70v (entire), 81r/7–28, 84r/17–28, 104v/12–28 are planned in relation to illuminated pages].

Illuminated pages:

- (i) ff. 32v–33r Christmas (illustrations on each side in matching decorated architectural frames), verso showing the Nativity, with Mary, mid-wife and angel top left, all smiling, and, bottom left, the Child in the manger with ox and ass, all joyful, and Joseph, bottom right, smiling at the baby; recto shows the Annunciation to the Shepherds, with the rejoicing heavenly host at the top, in the middle two shepherds, with three sheep and two cows, receiving the angel's message, and below the Flight into Egypt with Joseph leading the donkey with Mary and the Child on it (cf. Wilson Pls. I, II);
- (ii) ff. 36v–37r Epiphany (illustrations on each side in matching decorated architectural frames), verso showing, below, the Journey of the Magi looking towards the scene above of Herod consulting the Jewish Priests; recto, below, the Sleeping Magi warned by the Angel, and above, the Adoration of the Magi, everyone looking joyful with the exception of Mary, who is holding the Child now considerably larger than in the Nativity (cf. Wilson Pls. III, IV);
- (iii) f. 57r Palm Sunday, recto page shows beg. of text in gold letters in a very elaborate border shaped like a church: 'OM(NI)P(OTEN)S SEMPIT(ER)NE | QUI HUMANO | generi ad imitandum'.

- (iv) ff. 71r, 71v–72r and 72v Holy Saturday and Easter, (f. 71r, illustration in decorated architectural frame) the Betrayal by Judas; (ff. 71v–72r, illustration on each side with matching decorated frames), verso, the Crucifixion, Christ apparently reigning from the cross and Mary and John at its foot, Mary covering her face (weeping) and John holding a hand up to his face; recto, the Deposition (noted by Temple 1976: 90 as the earliest depiction of this scene in English illumination); f. 72v, Easter Morning (illustration in decorated architectural frame matching that on f. 71r), the three Marys at the open tomb and the angel in front of it. There is an absence of the color blue in the Passion and Resurrection pictures (cf. Wilson Pls. V, VI, VII, VIII);
- (v) f. 81v–82r Ascension (illustration verso in decorated frame), at the top the disappearing Christ's feet are not quite enveloped by the cloud above, which is flanked by two angels, and below a figure in a mandorla (cf. Schapiro 1943: 149n.); the Virgin has been suggested (Deschner 1997: 520), but with its hirsute eyebrows and small beard it looks more like Christ prior to his ascension, and the eleven remaining apostles including St. Peter in a blue wrap holding a key. Recto (in matching elaborate border) has beg. of text in gold letters: 'CONCEDE | QS OMPS DS | ut qui hodie' (cf. Wilson Pl. IX);
- (vi) ff. 84v–85r Pentecost (illustration verso in decorated frame), the Holy Spirit as a dove above, its beak pointing straight down sending tongues of red fire to the twelve figures seated below in a line. The corresponding recto page (matching border) has text in gold letters and rubrics AD MISSA< M> in line 1 and SECRETA five lines from the bottom, both of which are in blue (cf. Wilson Pl. X; color facs. Temple 1976, frontispiece).
- 5a. ff. 105r/1–167r/15 Proper of the Saints (Sanctorale), beginning with St Stephen (26 Dec.): (heading in blue) UII K< A>L IAN< UARII> N< A>T< A>L SC(T)I STEPHANI MAR< TYRIS> | DA NOBIS QS DNE | quod colimus'; ends: 'perpetuis tribue gaudere remediis. per dnum N< ost>rum'; illuminated text pages on ff. 133r, 159r, 165r (see below); blank spaces at ff. 132r/12–28, 158r/17–28, 164r/10–28 planned in relation to the illuminated pages (ed. Wilson 147–231);

Illuminated pages:

- (ii) f. 132v–133r St Peter (verso, illustration in decorated frame), holding a key in his right hand and a book in his left, his feet resting on a gold footstool, looking straight out at the reader in sorrow. The corresponding recto page, f. 133r, shows text (in matching decorated frame) in gold letters and blue rubrics: AD MISSAM ‘D⟨EU⟩S QVI HO|DIERNAM | diem’; (seven lines up) SECRETA ‘Hostias d⟨omi⟩ne | quas nomini tuo’ (cf. Wilson Pl. XI);
- (iii) ff. 158v–159r All Saints (verso, illustration in decorated frame), showing the Lamb in a circular Glory held up by two angels in pinkish-red robes, a multitude of the Blessed looking up from below. The corresponding recto, f. 159r, shows text (in matching decorated frame) in gold letters and red rubrics: AD MISSAM | ‘OM⟨NI⟩P⟨OTEN⟩S SEMPI|TERNE D⟨EU⟩S | qui non omnium s⟨an⟩c⟨t⟩orum merita’; (line 7 up) SECR⟨ETA⟩ | ‘Munera tibi d⟨omi⟩ne’ (the proper of the mass for the day), both of which are in red (Wilson Pl. XIII);
- (iv) f. 164v–165r St Andrew (verso, illustration in decorated frame), with book in left hand, extending his right hand (in blessing?), looking towards the recto page, f. 165r, which shows a corresponding ornate frame containing text for the proper of his day in gold and the rubric in red: ii KL dec nat⟨a⟩l⟨e⟩ s⟨an⟩c⟨t⟩i andree ap’ o’(stoli) | ‘MAIESTA|TEM | tuam d⟨omi⟩ne’ (Wilson Pl. XII).
- b. ff. 167r/16–227v/21 [continues without a break] Common of the Saints and Votive Masses, beginning with the Vigil for an Apostle, a Martyr or Confessor: IN UIGIL⟨IA⟩ UNIUS AP⟨OSTO⟩LI SIUE MAR⟨TYRIS⟩ UEL CONF⟨ESSORIS⟩. | ‘CONCEDE NOBIS Q⟨UESUMU⟩S OM⟨NI⟩P⟨OTEN⟩S | d⟨eu⟩s. uentura beati ill⟨ius⟩ ap⟨osto⟩li martyris con|fessoris’; ends (with Mass for Priests): ‘& ad patriam tuae re-promissionis | aeternam quandoque peruenire mereamur | inlaesi. p⟨er⟩ d⟨omi⟩n⟨u⟩m N⟨ost⟩r⟨u⟩m ie⟨su⟩m chr⟨istu⟩m’; blank spaces ff. 173r/25–28, 173v (entire) planned to correlate with the illuminated page f.174r, containing in a decorated frame the beg. of the proper of the mass for the Holy Trinity, beg. of text in gold letters: ‘OM⟨NI⟩PO-TEN⟩S SEMPI|TER|NE D⟨EU⟩S QVI | DEDISTI NOBIS FAMULIS TUIS’ (ed. Wilson 231–315) [f. 227v/22–28 blank].

[Note: The litany on ff. 207v–208v (f. 208rv in two columns) includes virgins associated with Peterborough (Cyneburg, Cyneswith, Tibba) and Ely (Æthelthryth, Sexburg, Wihtburg, Eormenild) (ed. Lapidige 1991: 270–72, cf. 82); f. 205r/25 (neumed in red): ANTIPHON ‘Beati eritis cum uos oderint homines. Beati inmac[ulati]’ (cf. Hartzell 2006: 538).]

Rubrics in OE occurring in the Missa pro Infirmis (Visitation of the Sick and Dying): f. 207r/24–207v/2 ‘Her onginð seo endebyrdnys to ge|neosgenne oððe tosmerigenne untrumne . . . þone sealm singende misere mei d(eu)s’; f. 209r/1–5 ‘Ponne wyrceſe [sic] | sacerd cristes rodetacen . . . oðre betwyan þan syngan þa sealm(as) þe her / gemearcode / sint’; the following all occur in a single anointing prayer: f. 210r/21–23 ‘Ponne se untruma bið gesmyred | on þam mold . . . þonne cweðe se sacerd þes gebed’; f. 210v/6, 9, 12–13, 14; f. 211r/2, 5, 8, 11, 14, 15, 16 (cf. Wilson 292–93); and in another: f. 211v/19–20 ‘Onbyrie þonne | godes lichoman . . .’, line 25 ‘On þare fyllednysse þissere þenunge’; and in another: f. 212r/12–14 ‘þissun eallun þus gefylledon cweðum . . . beo his þenung þæt bið’ (cf. Dubois 1955, also facs. of f. 207r).

6. f. 228r/1–18 An 11c note in red ink on the consigning of the manuscript to, and its keeping at, Jumièges: ‘Notum sit omnib(us) tam præsentib(us) qua(m) | futuris p(er) succendentia tempora fidelib(us) | quod ego. Rotb(er)tus abba gemmetesium | prius postmodu(m) uero s(an)c(t)e Londonioru(m) | sedis presul factus dederim librum | hunc S(AN)C(T)E MARIÆ in hoc michi com[m]isso | monachorum S(AN)C-TI PETRI cœnobio ad honore(m) | s(an)c(t)oru(m) quorum hic mentio agitur & ob | memoriale mei ut hic in p(er)petuum | habeatur. AM(EN)’ (pr. Wilson 316; Dubois 1955, facs. facing 307).

HISTORY: This manuscript, comprising three parts, Part A (ff. 3–84) written by several hands in the 10c, Part B (ff. 85–150) written in the 12c, and Part C (ff. 151–192) written in the 13c, was at the abbey of St-Bertin at St-Omer, as indicated by the inscriptions on ff. 1v and 192v (items 1(d) and 15(b) below). Part B shows signs of organized collaboration (e.g., there is a change of hand on f. 120 at line 6), and seems to have been deliberately added to Part A: Item 5 has a 'supply' ending on f. 85r written by a hand later than that of f. 84v, the last leaf of quire XII in Part A. Item 6 begins on f. 85v, and continues in a very different format; and Item 8 ends with a bifolium on f. 126r, with f. 126v probably originally left blank, but when Item 9 was added it was convenient to fit Item 9(a), a diagram, on to f. 126v, with the main text beginning on the first leaf of quire XIX, f. 127r; the hand that takes up at f. 85r also does so at f. 126v. In the 13c it was decided to add Part C and ff. 1–2 were added at this time too, perhaps in an effort to rehabilitate the manuscript. Probably at this time some repairs were applied to quires II–III (ff. 3, 7, 10–11, 14–15, 18), and to Quires IV–VI (ff. 19–42), and f. 193 was added. In Quires II–III some uncial fragments that belong with one in Boulogne-sur-Mer, Bibl. Mun. 27 have been fused or sewn to the inner top corner of ff. 3, 7, 10, 11, 14, 15, 18. These fragments date from the 6/7c (Lowe 1953: 6, no. 734) and have been well studied by Wilmart 1925. In quires IV–VI some fragments from a 13c manuscript (perhaps that from which f. 193 was taken) have been fused or sewn to ff. 19–42 in the same position; see further below under "Contents" before item 3. There are annotations indicating subsequent use of the manuscript, e.g. on f. 85r 'omnis h<om>o p<ri>mum uinu<m> bonu<m> potat', and all round the text as commentary in the margins on ff. 123v–124r. An annotation in the right-hand margin of f. 145r has been partially cropped by a binder, and similar damage has affected the annotations in a very small cramped hand on ff. 146r–148r.

At the time of the French Revolution the manuscript was removed from St-Bertin and kept in the Jesuit College in St-Omer, which served as a depot for the nationalized books taken from religious houses and elsewhere. From there it joined the Bibliothèque Municipale in St-Omer (then in the same building), which opened in 1805, and which in turn became the Bibliothèque d'Agglomération de St-Omer in 1997. The manuscript has been damaged by exposure to damp, probably prolonged, at some earlier stage or stages of its history (quires II–VI perhaps earlier, and the whole in the 18c?), and many folios are stained and some of those near the beginning are difficult or impossible to read near the outer edges. The manuscript received its present binding of brown calf in the 19c. Previous descriptions in Catalogue 1849–1918: 3 (1861): 82, Bergmann and Stricker 2005: 3.1370–72 (no. 718).

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios 2 + 82 + 66 + 42 + 1, membrane, measuring 279 × 200 mm. All three Parts are arranged HFHF normally in quires of 8. The written area varies. Part A is disposed in double columns in quires II–XII, measuring approx. 222 × 170 mm. (with each column 75 mm. wide). In Part B quires XIII–XXI show a written area disposed in long lines, generally 240 × 158 mm. (extending in width to 175 mm. on f. 109r), but 245 × 158 mm. in quires XVII–XXI. In Part C the written area is disposed in double columns (with the exception of the first page, f. 151r, which shows long lines), measuring approx. 251 × 160 mm.; the width of the columns is 70 mm. (inner) but 80 mm. (outer) in quire XXII, but generally approx. 75 mm. each in the other quires, except that in quire XXV the column nearest to the outer edge of the leaves is slightly wider than the other. Some of the folios are rather stiff, probably as a result of drying out after exposure to damp. In Part A there are holes on ff. 1, 23, 29, 33, 60, 63, 65, in Part B on ff. 86, 108, 118, 119, 129, 131, 143, and in Part C on ff. 156, 162, 177, 178, 179, 180, 185, 186, 187, 188. A stain caused by spilt liquid on f. 165r is reflected back on to f. 164v.

Pricking: In Part A no prick-marks are visible except for those for the vertical bounding lines at the bottom of the leaves in quires VIII, IX (where some prick-marks for the vertical bounding lines are also visible at the top of the leaves), X (ff. 69–72), XI and XII, and except for traces of prick-marks for the horizontal lines in quire V on f. 32. In Part B no prick-marks are visible except for traces of prick-marks for the horizontal lines in quire XIII, e.g. on f. 86. In Part C quire XXII shows 38 prick-marks for the horizontal lines on the first four leaves near the hinge, but the marks for the vertical bounding lines are no longer visible; evidently the pricking was done with the sheets open flat. Quires XXIII and XXIV show 38 prick-marks for horizontal lines on all eight leaves near the hinge, so evidently the pricking was done with the sheets folded; again no prick-marks for the vertical bounding lines are visible. Quire XXV shows 39 prick-marks for horizontal lines on all eight leaves near the hinge and also near the outer edges of most leaves, so the pricking was done with the leaves folded near both the left-hand and right-hand edges. Quire XXVI shows prick-marks for horizontal lines near the outer edges of the leaves only, but a full set has not survived the (19c) binder's guillotine on any leaf; pricking in this quire was evidently done with the leaves folded using just the outer edge. Quire XXVII shows no prick-marks.

Ruling in Part A: None visible in quire I. In quires II–VI the ruling is for a frame of double columns with single bounding lines and 32 horizontal lines for writing, of which the top line receives writing. The top and bottom horizontal lines extend to the outer edges of the leaf. Quire VII shows 35 lines of writing, ruled as before with the top and bottom horizontal lines extending to the outer edges of the leaves. Quire VIII shows 30 lines on the first and last leaves, a bifolium, (ff. 51 and 58), 31 lines on the other leaves, and was evidently ruled bifolium by bifolium. Quire IX shows 31 lines of writing, but the ruling is heavier and the top and bottom horizontal lines do not extend to the outer edges of the leaves; however, the vertical bounding lines do extend to the top and bottom edges of the leaves. Quires X and XII shows 31 lines with the top and bottom horizontal lines extending to the outer edges of the leaves, and the vertical bounding lines also extending to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves. Quire XI shows 31 lines of writing with the top and bottom horizontal lines extending to the outer edges of the leaves, and in the case of the outer bifolium (ff. 73/76) the bottom two horizontal lines extend to the outer edges of the leaves.

Ruling in Part B displays a change of format: quire XIII shows 37 long lines, with some horizontal lines (3, 14, plus the top and bottom lines) ruled to the outer edges of the leaves; the vertical bounding lines also extend to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves. Quire XIV shows 37 long lines with the bottom horizontal line ruled to the outer edges of the leaves and the vertical bounding lines also extending to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves. Quire XV shows 37 long lines with the top and bottom horizontal lines ruled to the outer edges of the leaves, but leaves 3–8 also show the penultimate line so ruled, and leaves 4–7 show the second line so ruled; the vertical bounding lines also extend to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves. Evidently the ruling was done leaf by leaf. Quire XVI shows 37 or 38 long lines with the top and bottom horizontal lines extending to the outer edges of the leaves, and the vertical bounding lines also extend to the top and bottom edges of the leaves; on f. 109r an extra bounding line is ruled on the hinge side to accommodate capitals. Quire XVII shows 38 long lines, but the ruling is very faint; sometimes the top and bottom horizontal lines extend to the outer edges of the leaves. Quire XVIII, a bifolium at the end of item 10, shows 33 long lines with the top two and bottom two horizontal lines extending to the outer edges of the leaves, and the vertical bounding lines also extending to the top and bottom edges of the leaves. Quire XIX shows 37 long lines with the vertical bounding lines extending to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves. Quires XX and XXI show 37 long lines with the top and bottom horizontal lines extending to the outer edges of the leaves and the vertical bounding lines extending to the top and bottom edges of the leaves.

Ruling in Part C: Quire XXII shows 38 long lines on the first leaf, f. 151r, but thereafter reverts to double columns also with 38 lines, for which the ruling is faint, but apparently it does not notably extend beyond the written area. Quire XXIII shows 38 lines disposed in double columns with the top two and bottom two lines (sometimes three or four) extending to the outer edges of the leaves, and the vertical bounding lines also extend to the top and bottom edges of the leaves. Quire XXIV shows 38 lines disposed in double columns, with the top two and bottom two lines usually extending to the outer edges of the leaves, and the central vertical bounding lines also extend to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves. Quire XXV shows 39 lines disposed in double columns, with some horizontal lines at the top and bottom (not always the very top and bottom lines) extending to the outer edges of the leaves, and the vertical bounding lines also extend to the top and bottom outer edges of the leaves. Quire XXVI generally shows 39 lines disposed in double columns with 38 lines on the last folio, but the ruling is faint and has suffered from the condition of this quire near the backend of the manuscript; on f. 188 the vertical bounding lines extend to the top and bottom edges of the leaves. Quire XXVII shows 46–47 lines disposed in double columns, with the ruling only partially visible, but a vertical bounding line on f. 192 can be seen to extend to the bottom outer edge of the leaf. The last leaf, an addition between the end of the manuscript and the binding, is also disposed in double columns with 47 lines.

Color and Decoration: In Part A the chapter numbers are in red. Rubrics in red sometimes occur in the margins where insufficient space was left for the rubricator, as on ff. 7r, 7v–8r, 38r, 52v, 54r, 56r, 67v, 68v, 69v, 71r, etc. There are ornamental capitals in “Franco-Saxon” interlace style using multi-colors on ff. 4r (‘P’ in green, red, and brown), 4v (‘N’ in green red and brown), 25r (‘S’ in pale red and brown), and 25v (‘Q’ in pale red and brown). On f. 26v the style is romanesque (‘A’ 3x in pale red and brown), suggesting later refurbishment of the manuscript, and less complex ones occur, for example, on ff. 28r (A), 45r (A). In Part B there are ornamental capitals in romanesque floral style using multi-colors on f.85v (‘E’ and ‘Q’, both in red, blue, green, and brown), and less complex ones, for example, on f. 146r (‘Q’ red only). Large capitals in red on ff. 96v, 97r (slightly ornamental), 109v (slightly ornamental), and in green and red on f. 127r (‘C’). No color occurs between ff. 128r and 145r. In Part C there is an ornamented capital on f. 151v (‘E’ in magenta, red, and brown), but no color from ff. 154v–183r and 185r to the end. There are large capitals in red on ff. 183v (‘Q’) and 184v (‘V’). Gaps have been left for ornamental capitals on f. 167v, 172v, 175r, and 177r.

COLLATION: Part A: I<sup>2</sup> (ff. 1–2), II<sup>8</sup> (ff. 3–10), III<sup>8</sup> (ff. 11–18), IV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 19–26), V<sup>8</sup> (ff. 27–34), VI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 35–42), VII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 43–50), VIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 51–58), IX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 59–66; at the bottom of f. 66v/b the smaller hand of f. 67r has written ‘Hinc superius scriptu⟨m⟩ e(st)’ to indicate the take-up of the new quire), X<sup>6</sup> (ff. 67–72), XI<sup>4</sup> (ff. 73–76), [textual lacuna] XII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 77–84); Part B: XIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 85–92), XIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 93–100), XV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 101–108), XVI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 109–116), XVII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 117–124), XVIII<sup>2</sup> (ff. 125–126), XIX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 127–134), XX<sup>8</sup> (ff. 135–142), XXI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 143–150); Part C: XXII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 151–158), XXIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 159–166), XXIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 167–174), XXV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 175–182), XXVI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 183–190), XXVII<sup>2+1</sup> (ff. 191–192 + 193).

The first quire was originally in a larger format as text has been lost from a binder’s cropping on f. 2. There is a quire signature ‘a’ on f. 158v, the last leaf of quire XXII, which is the first quire in Part C.

CONTENTS:

On the inside of the front cover there is a brief modern 19/20c note relating to the physical make-up of the manuscript.

1a. f.1r: A note apparently on ecclesiastical matters at the top of the page.

The beginning is illegible. Ends: ‘consil[ium] subiungit’.

b. f.1r: The number ‘237’, probably an inventory mark;

c. f.1r: A medieval library mark ‘Pastorale gregorii 4<sup>o</sup> s⟨ecund⟩o om⟨ilia⟩’.

d. f.1v: A curse (14/15c) ‘Liber s⟨an⟩c⟨t⟩i Bertini Si quis abstulerit anathema | reportet Amen +’, followed slightly lower down by ‘lib(er)

S⟨an⟩c⟨t⟩i b⟨er⟩tini’ and a little lower again ‘Titules isti⟨us⟩ libri grad⟨us⟩ fine lib⟨ri⟩’, a reference to item 15 on f. 192v; and at the bottom ‘Iste libraria s⟨an⟩c⟨t⟩i b⟨er⟩tini’.

f. 2 (written in 12/13c in two columns):

- 2a. f.2r/a1–42: Augustine, “Retractiones” ch.7 (8), “De Anime Quantitate”. Begins partly illegible ‘[In eadem urbe scripsi] dialogum in quo de ani[ma multa quaeruntur ac] disseruntur’; ends: ‘Hic liber sic incipit. Q⟨uonia⟩m ui[de]o te abundare otio’ (as Mutzenbecher 1984: 21–23; Knöll 1902: 34–36; PL 32. 594. CPL 250; cf. item 7).
- b. f.2r/b1–2v/b44 (incomplete): Chapter headings (sometimes summaries) of Augustine’s “De Quantitate Anima”, beginning illegibly with ch. 1 ‘...quaestionis scilic⟨et⟩ unde sit anima | II Qualis sit anima’; the chapter headings go to ‘XII’ on f. 2rb and on f. 2va/b go down the a-col. to about ch. XVIII (it is difficult to be exact because the numbers have been trimmed) and run over to the b-col., line 28 ‘X.VIII. Nichil in om⟨n⟩ib⟨us⟩ creaturis p⟨ro⟩pinquiū . . .’; ending imperf. with ch.XXI: ‘& quod in uniu(er)sitate nulla sit deformitas. q⟨uonda⟩m ordinata’; the list on f.2v/b1–25 ‘I GRAD⟨US⟩ Quid anima [illegible to the end of the line] | arbustis . . . VII. Quod in hoc gradu uel potius mansione quan|ta sint bona non est dictu facile’ is a list of the contents of ch. 33 (CPL 257; cf. item 10; this work ed. Hörmann 1986 and PL 32.1033–80, but neither edits the capitula).

Part A: Reused Materials in ?13c repair: Eight scraps from a 6c/7c Italian uncial manuscript of Augustine Enarrationes in Psalmos (PL 36–37) have been used to repair the upper inside corners of ff. 3, 6, 7, 10, 11, 14, 15, 18 (in quires II, III), the scraps forming a triangular-shaped reinforcement that is fused or sewn in place around the damaged corner (Lowe 6.734). Similarly sized and disposed scraps from a handsomely written 12c Gregory, Homiliae in Ezechilem (PL 76) have been used to repair ff. 19, 20, 22, 23, 25, 26, 27, 30–42 (in quires IV, V, VI). For the kind of damage see the unrepaired leaves in quires VII, VIII (ff. 43–58). Cf. Wilmart 1925.

[Note: A strip 55 x 210 mm. (writing width 120 mm.) from the same uncial manuscript was used to make repairs to Boulogne-sur-Mer BM 27 (32), a 12c Ps.-Dionysius, also from St-Bertin, where no doubt the repairs were done (Lowe, loc. cit..)]

3. ff. 3r/a1–73v/b32 (in double columns; the main title on f. 3r/a1–3 is partially effaced) Gregory, “Regula Pastoralis” (as Rommel 1992; PL 77. 13–128. CPL 1712);

ff. 3r/a3–4r/a30 Capitula begin, partly obscured by a repair patch: [IN NOMINE DOMINI INCI]PIUNT CAPITU|[LA] LIBRI PASTORALIS |

[CURAE... E]DITUS A S(AN)C(T)O GREGORIO | PAPA \ VRBI(S)
 ROM(E) / [last two words added in red] A(RCHIE)P[ISCOPO] | [I]

 rite omnibus qualit(er) p(re)di|cator ad sem&ipsum redeat.' | EXPLI-CIUNT CAPITULA.

f. 4r/a31–4v/a23 text entry damaged by damp begins partly illegible at INCIPIT PROLOGUS | FELICITER SERME[N]TE UE|RA LEC-
 TIO. Begins at f. 4r/b1 'PA|S|TO|RALIS | CURAE ME | PONDER' A' |
 FUGERE DELITES|cendo uoluisse'; ends: 'suae ausibus in ip|sa locu-tionis n(ost)rae ianua repellantur.' | EXPLICIT PROLOGUS;

ff.4v/a24–25v/b15 Regula Pastoralis part 1 (and part 2, the chapters are numbered consecutively throughout the work): INCIPIT LIBER |
 PASTORA|LISCURE. AEDI|TUSA S(AN)C(T)O GREGORI|O PAPA
 URBIS ROMAE || [top line effaced] | IOHANNEM EPIS[COPUM]

 meditatione discatur'; ends: 'uectes a circulis nu(m)|qua(m) recedant.'

[Note: Edd. make a division at ch. 11, f. 11r/a/30, which they designate Part 2.]

ff.25v/b15–26r/a24 Part 3 Prologue: CAP(ITULA) QUANTA | debe'a't
 e(ss)e diuersitas in ar|te praedicationis | 'QUIA IGITUR | QUALIS
 DEBEAT ESSE | PASTOR | OSTENDIMUS. NUNC | qualiter doceat
 demonstrem(us)... ex' h' orta|tione tangere corda audien|tiu(m) deb&'.
 What follows at lines 24–29 is not part of the Prologue but is properly the ending of ch. 1 (which is repeated in its place at f.26v/a32, etc.): 'Sed quid utilitatis | est. quod cuncta haec collecta nu|meratione transcurrimus. | si non &iam admonitionis modos | p(er) singula quanta possumus | breuitate pandamus.'

ff.26r/a30–73v/b31 Part 3: 'Alit(er) iamque ammonendi | sunt uiri. atq(ue)
 alit(er) femine'; ends (ch. 55): 'Sed | in huius quoço uitç naufragio oratio|nis tuç 'me' tabula sustineat ut quia. | pondus proprium deprimit.
 tui | meriti manus [me] leu(.)et. | EXPLICIT | LIBER PAS|TORALIS
 | CVRAE. EDI|TVS A S(AN)C(T)O GREGORIO | PAPA VR|BIS RO-
 MAE. | SCRIPTVS | AD IOHANNEM EPISCOPVM.

[Note: A 12c hand has supplied the missing titles in red on ff. 69v, 72rv. Ch. 'LXV';
 f. 72v/b8 is Part 4 in the edd.]

4. Glosses from standard works, with some vernacular interpretations added on originally blank pages (see Steinmeyer and Sievers 1879–1922: 4.586–87):

a. f. 74r/a1–74r/b2 glossa collecta to "Cura Pastoralis": ALIQUA VERBA
 DE LIBRO PASTOR(ALI) | 'De litiscendo fugiendo (vel) abscondendo

- . . . laude | utcu⟨m⟩q⟨ue⟩ tam. ubiq⟨ue⟩ tam' (OHG glossed ed. Steinmeyer and Sievers 2.217–18 [DCXLIV]) [f. 74r/b/3–25, blank];
- b. ff. 74r/b26–75r/a10 from alphabetical gloss to Conciliar Canons, A-E: “INCIPIVN'T GLOSE DE VERBIS ( . . . ) CANONIBUS\ EDITA / Aleator luso'r' cupiditatis . . . Exam⟨en⟩. inquisitione⟨m⟩” (cf. “Leiden Glossary” I, ed. Hessels 1906: 1–2, no vernacular words);
- c. f.75r/a10–31 (+ 76r/a1–6) from glossa collecta to Eusebius/Rufinus, “Historia Ecclesiastica”: IN LIBRO ECCLESIASTI|CAE HISTORIAE. | ‘Panigericis. in laudibus . . . Quadriplas die. hoc est. iii. hore que crescent | in .ivii. anno quando fit bissextus’; cont. on f. 76r/a1–1-6 (= “Leiden Glossary” IV.103–121 with some omissions): ‘Sinis.ascas. sociatrices . . . biben|ne. securis bina aciem habens’ (cf. “Leiden Glossary” IV, ed. Hessels 1906: 8–10, no vernacular words);
- [Note: Another hand writes f. 75rb, and the previous hand continues the batch at f. 76r/a1, ‘Sinis. ascas. sociatrices . . .’ [= Hessels “Leiden IV” 103] with other hands continuing to the end of the section; the blank f. 75r/b–75v was then filled in by items 4d, 4e.]
- d. f.75r/b1–17 glossa collecta to “Regula Benedicti,” prologue: INCPIT PROLOGUS. EXI|MII PATRIS N(OST)RI BENE|DICTI ABBATIS. | ‘Libenter. uoluntarie . . . Præcepta | mandata’ (cf. Hanslik 1960: 1–9, no vernacular words);
- e. f.75r/b17–75v/b30 + 31 glossa collecta to “Regula Benedicti,” chs. 1–3: DE GENERIBUS | MONACHORUM .I. | ‘Inlecebris. delectationibus carnalibus’; probably ends imperf.: ‘Subiectione. subpositione’ (= 3.4); line 31, another hand adds ‘Diocesim. id ⟨est⟩ gubernationem ⟨ue⟩l p⟨ro⟩uidenti(am)’ (= RB 64.4);
- f. f. 76r/a7–b30 glossa collecta to Gregory, “Dialogues”: GLOSE DE DIA/ LOGO(RUM) \ A primeuo flore. id ⟨est⟩ a primo flore bar|be . . . autenticu⟨m⟩. au|toriale; added on lines 30–31 ‘Agnia. id ⟨est⟩ ignorantia. | talascit. id e(st) perturbat’ (= “Leiden Glossary” XXXIX, ed. Hessels 1906: 40–42; OHG/OE ed. Steinmeyer and Sievers 2.244 [DCLX]; a couple of the glosses have intruded from conciliar texts, ibid. 2.150 [DC]; the final added glosses are hermeneumata, cf. “perturbat . ταρασσει” [CGL 2.149.13], “αγνοια . ignorantia, inscientia” [CGL 2.216.46]).

[Note: Germanic glosses on ff. 74r and 76r noted by Stüben 1939: 456, printed by Gysseling 1948: 60–61; edited with commentary by Blech 1977: 73–86. There are two OE glosses on f. 76r/a11 ‘flebotomu⟨m⟩. blodsax’ and 76r/a22 ‘rimis.bordremum’, ed. Blech 1977: 83]

5. (a) ff.76v/a6–85r/14 (in double columns except for long lines on the last page, added later) Isidore, “Synonymorum de lamentatione animae peccatricis”: INCIPIT LIBER SY|NONIMA. BEATI ISI|DORI EPIS-COPI. | ‘ANIMA MEA | in angustiis est’; ends in supply leaf: ‘tu m⟨ih⟩ se⟨m⟩p(er) uita mea places.’ EXPLICIT. (as PL 83. 827–68; ed. Elfassi 2009; CPL 1203).

[Note: The text is defective, with material missing after the bottom of f. 76vb ‘animo | uenenato’ (in Bk. 1, ch. 7 = PL 83.289C) and top off. 77ra ‘[c]ontinentia hominem’ (in Bk. 2, ch. 9 = PL 83.847C), so a quire would seem to be missing between ff. 76 and 77; however the scribe has spaced out the last words ‘animo uenenato’ as if finishing something (though in mid-sentence), so perhaps a quire was already missing in the exemplar and the scribe knew it; the ending is completed (in long lines) by a 12c supply on f. 85r, the first leaf of Part B, ‘Quicquid agis p(ro) futura age mercede || q(er)neq ret(ri)butionis te teneat exspec’ta’tio’ (= PL 83.867B).]

6. f.85r/15–21 “Regula formatarum Attici”: ‘In formata ep(isto)la assumat(ur) i⟨n⟩ supputatione⟨m⟩. p⟨ri⟩ma g⟨re⟩ca elem⟨en⟩ta pat⟨ri⟩s 7 filii & sp⟨iritus⟩ s⟨an⟩c⟨t⟩i. hoc | .II. Y. A. . . . q⟨ui⟩ s⟨e⟩c⟨un⟩d⟨u⟩m g⟨re⟩ca elem⟨en⟩ta sig⟨nifi⟩ca⟨n⟩t AMHN’ (as PL 56.750–51, Collectio Quesnelliana, ch. 63; cf. CPL 1770, Maassen 1870: §§523–26, 618–23)

[Note: This goes under the name of Atticus, Patriarch of Constantinople 406–425, because the Latin version of the Canons of Nicaea, which included this text, were transmitted to the Council of Carthage (419) under his name. In the litterae formatae “the Greek alphabet is used in place of numerical signs. In order to prevent fraud or imposture, it was said that the Fathers of the Council of Nicaea had formulated a decree to the effect that the litterae must contain such a series of letters as, on addition of their numerical values, would determine the origin of the document. The initials given were those of the Three Divine Persons, II.Y.A; of the Pope; of the writer and recipient of the document; lastly, the letter of the cycle, and the word AMHN. Unfortunately, the writers were ill-instructed . . . so that in a short time the means of control became to all intents and purposes literary” (Leclercq 1907: 1.333).]

Part B

7. ff. 85v/1–96r/37 Fulgentius Ruspensis (d. 527), “De Fide ad Petrum” (attr. to Augustine as “De vera fide”): EPISTOLAM AUGVSTINI de Vera Fide | (Prologue) ‘Epistolam fili petre tuę caritatis accepi . . . s⟨ed⟩ nequitia humani | erroris inuenta’; (f. 85v/33, text beg.) ‘Qvocumq⟨ue⟩ igit⟨ur⟩ loco fueris constitutus’ (from f. 92v/36 the mostly short chapters [chs. 4–43] beg. ‘Firmissime’ are marked with large plain initial ‘F’); ends: ‘& si | q⟨ui⟩d alit⟨er⟩ sapit. hoc q⟨uo⟩q⟨ue⟩ illi d⟨eu⟩s reuelauit’ (as Fraipont 1968: 711–60, PL 40.753–78 [where ch. 45 is additional]; CPL 826).

8. Augustine, "De Utilitate Credendi":

- a. ff. 96v/1–97r/29 Augustine, from "Retractiones," Bk. 1, ch. 14: 'Iam uero apud ippone(m) regiu(m) p(re)sbiter scripsi libru(m) de utilitate credendi ad amicu(m) meum'; ends: 'ad eu(m) ipsu(m) me scripturu(m) | fuisse. q(uo)d hic n(on)du(m) scripsera(m)' (as Mutzenbecher 1984: 41–45; Knöll 1902: 65–71, PL 32. 605–8. CPL 250; cf. item 2a);
- b. ff. 97r/31–109v/7 Augustine, "De Utilitate Credendi": 'SI MICHI HONORATE unum atq(ue) ide(m) uideret(ur) e(ss)e'; ends: 'Placatiore autem animo tuo | facto. ero fortasse in ceteris promtior.' EXPLICIT LIBER BEATI AVGVSTINI ep(iscop)i | DE VTILITATE CRENDI (as Zycha 1891: 3–48, PL 42.65–92; CPL 316).
9. ff. 109v/7–126r/21 Augustine, "De gratia Novi Testamenti ad Honoratum" (=Ep. 140): Incipit Liber eiusdem de GR(ATI)A NOUI TESTAM(EN)-TI ad / HONORATVM. | 'Quinq(ue) m(ihi) p(ro)posuisti p(er)trac-tandas questiones atq(ue) soluendas dilectissime mi fr(ater) | honorate. hinc inde raptas'; ends 10 lines short of ed. text: 'aliud | aliq(ui)d agat(ur) [sic] aut querat(ur) n(isi) ut q(ui) gloriat(ur) in d(omi)no glo-rietur.' Explicit AVG(VSTINVS) | DE GR(ATI)A NOVI testam(en)ti ad HONORATU(M) (as Goldbacher 1904: 155–234, PL 33.538–77; CPL 262; cf. item 11) [f.126r/22–33 blank].

[Note: An unidentified commentary in a contemporary hand has been written in the margin/bottom of f. 123v, continuing in the margin of f. 124r.]

- 10 f.126v "Sphere of Life and Death," circular prognostic diagram for calculating the outcome of a patient's disease, with circles and cross containing numbers for calculation and Greek captions transliterated into Latin: 'Zoe mikra. id(est) uita difficilis. / Zoe Megale . i(d est) uita cita. / Thanatos mikros. i(d est) Mors breuis / Thanatos megale. i(d est) Mors cita,' etc. (cf. Thorndike 1.682–85; Wickersheimer 1914: 167–68)

11. ff. 127r/1–146r/22 Augustine, "De vera religione" (ad Romanianum): INCIPIT LIBER S(AN)C(T)I AV|GVSTINI DE VERA RELIGION(E). | 'CVM om(n)is uitę bonę ac beatę uia in uera religione sit consti-tuta'; ends: 'que(m) | diligentes 7 quo fruentes beati uiuimus. unum d(eu)m ex quo om(n)ia. in q(uo) om(n)ia. | p(er) quem om(n)ia. ipsi gl(or)ia in s(e)c(u)la s(e)c(u)lo(rum) Am(en).' Explicit lib(er) s(ancti) Aug(ustini) de uera relig(ione) (as Martin 1962: 187–260, PL 34.121–72; CPL 264).

12. ff. 146r/23–150v/38 Augustine, "De quantitate animae": Incipit dialog(us) augustini de quantitate animę. 'Adeodat(us). | Quoniam video te habundare ocio'; ends imperf. in ch.14: 'in quo | tam(en) tanta uis est ut eo dimidiu(m) celu(m) cui(us) ineffabile spaciu(m) est ex ali-quo eminenti [...]’ [= Hörmann 160/2, PL 32.1048/-6] (as Hörmann 1986: 132–231, PL 32.1035–80; CPL 257; cf. item 2a).

[Note: On f. 146rv, 147r 13c marginal notes in boxes of various shapes.]

Part C

13. f. 151r/1–38 from Augustine, “De gratia Novi Testamenti ad Honoratum” (= Epistola 140): beg. imperfect in ch. 33, §77 ‘[quod stultae non sumpserit] Oleum secu(m) sapientes’; ends imperf. in ch. 36, §82: ‘p(er) q(uo)d & nob(is) recipientib(us) eu(m) [potestas daretur]’. (= Goldbacher 1904: 225/19–230/17, PL 33.573–75; cf. item 9, above).

[Note: The text of “De gratia N.T. ad Honoratum” is given in full as item 9, above. The present item cannot be a supply text to that as the corresponding occurs at f. 125r/1–125v/19. This is a different hand from those of the texts on ff. 85v–150v and from that on f. 85r, the supply leaf at the beginning of Part B.]

14. ff.151v/a 1–192v/a 5 (in double columns): Gregory of Elvira (Iliberritanus)? (d. after 392), “Tractatus Origenis De Libris Sacrosanctorum Scripturarum” (coll. as “B” Bulhart 1967; coll. as “B” Batiffol/Wilmart 1900, repr. PLS 1.358–471; CPL 546, on authorship see Heidl 2003: 239):

Paulus Diaconus, extracts; epitomized historical works; Isidore “Etymologiae,” extracts, etc.; Virgil, Isidore and other Glossaries; “Etymologiae” fragment

[Ker Appendix 33; Gneuss – ]

HISTORY: Written probably towards the end of the first quarter of the 12c, this manuscript is a utilitarian product, probably designed for teaching. The date is confirmed by the fact that the catalogue of popes (item 3) ends at Honorius II (1124–1130) with this entry added in another hand and several lines of blank space after them. The manuscript comprises four contemporary parts (A-D) mainly concerned with glossing and/or Isidore's Etymologiae. A bifolium (Part E, ff. 133–34) dating from the 14c, and containing another fragment of Isidore's Etymologiae, has been added, probably later in the 15c with the present binding. The parts were written by four main scribes. There are more than 3500 OHG glosses, most integral but many interlined, a very few derived ultimately from OE glosses stemming from the “Leiden Glossary” tradition (see Lapidge 1986: 71). The dialect is south-western, Alemannic, the forms preserved from as early as the 8c; a number of the glossaries in Part D are closely related to those in the early 9c Alemannic St. Gall 299 [450], i.e., those related to Leiden 10h, 10j, 10r(iii), 10u, and not related to Leiden 10m, 10r (ii), 10f, 10w, 10x, 10y(I), 10ab, 10ac, 10ah (see Steinmeyer and Sievers 1879–1922 [henceforth StS], ad loc.); Sélestat lists tend to be alphabetized and longer than those in SG 299 (cf. Schröder 1956/57: 197–98).

The manuscript was formerly thought to have been written at Reichenau (founded 902), on account of the indication of the marginal additions on ff. 12v–13v ‘Augia’, ‘Augia insula’ and ‘Chaugense’, so read. These marginal additions are written in the hand of the scribe: on f. 12v/21 ‘Hui⟨us⟩ p⟨a⟩-p⟨ae⟩ anno S. Pir|minu’s’ augia⟨m⟩ c⟨on⟩strux⟨it⟩; on f. 13r/27 ‘arnolfi hu-
manitate | in sue uia su⟨m⟩ptib⟨us⟩ pu|blicis past⟨or⟩ in augia | insula e⟨st⟩
sepultus.’; on f. 13v/11 ‘Tertio hui⟨us⟩ anno bv⟨ch⟩|chaugense cenobiu⟨m⟩ c⟨on⟩structu⟨m⟩ e⟨st⟩ Ann⟨o⟩ incar|nation⟨is⟩ d⟨omi⟩nice .dcccc.ii.’ The first two do indeed refer to Reichenau, but, despite the date matching that of Reichenau, the third apparently refers to Buchau am Federsee, a convent already founded in 770. So if the scribe refers to more than one abbey, the case for one of them as the place of origin is compromised. These are not the only scribal additions to be found in the margin: they occur from time to time, notably on ff. 10r–14r, and (probably as part of the text) on ff. 59r–63v and sideways on ff. 64v, 65v–80r. On f. 15v/15 there is a marginal addition (beside the entry for Pope Urban) in the hand of the scribe: ‘Hui⟨us⟩ p⟨ri⟩mo an|no Zwiuil|dense cenobi⟨m⟩ | constructu⟨m⟩ e⟨st⟩’ [1089]. On the assumption that the place of origin was Reichenau some scholars were led to conclude that the provenance was Zwiefalten, but this has not been considered certain: cf. Samaran and Marichal (1965: 659), and earlier Fasbender (1908: 19–20), who argued for either Reichenau or Zwiefalten as the place of origin, dismissing Buchau as a mere nunnery. In fact the place of origin is Zwiefalten, as is indicated by the identity of the scribes with those found in other Zwiefalten manuscripts (Spilling 1989: 85), and see “Contents”, below, item 5.

The late medieval binding is in thick calf, sewn on five bands through the spine (which is therefore tightly attached), so thick that, according to notes kept in the library at Sélestat and made by Abbé Joseph Walter (early 20c), who catalogued the library’s printed books, he thought the binding to be of hippopotamus skin (Nilpferdleder). The manuscript was heavily annotated in the 17c, indicating some interest in the contents, as, for example, on f. 8r in the order of the early popes.

Exactly how the manuscript left Zwiefalten (dissolved 1802) and joined the library at Sélestat is moot, although Wackernagel (1845: 318) and Fasbender (1908: 5–9) thought that it must have come via Beatus Rhenanus (d.1547). The abbey at Zwiefalten was plundered in 1525 during the Peasants’ War (Bauernkrieg). In any case it has apparently belonged to what is now the Bibliothèque Humaniste at Sélestat (Alsace) from late medieval or early modern times. The humanist library at Schlettstadt (originally founded 1452) was an amalgam of the parochial library, which included manuscripts bequeathed by Jean de Westhuss, enriched by donations from Jean Fabri, Louis Dringenberg, Jacques Wimpfeling, and Martin Ergersheim up to 1535 and then by the library of the famous humanist scholar Beatus Rhenanus, which he bequeathed in 1547 to the town where he was born. Under the terms of the Peace of Westphalia (1648) Alsace became part of France, after which the official name of the place became Sélestat. The Bibliothèque Humaniste became the Bibliothèque Municipale after the French Revolution. Alsace was part of Germany from 1870 to 1918, during which time the Stadtbibliothek was installed in the Halle-aux-Blés, where it remains today as a major tourist attraction. Previous description in Catalogue 1849–1918: 3 (1861), 591; also Steinmeyer and Sievers 1879–1922: 4.612–14; Bergmann and Stricker 2005: 4.1630–35 (no. 849).

CODICOLOGICAL DESCRIPTION: Folios 132 + 2, membrane, showing holes in the text area in ff. 17, 21, 22, 35, 39, 76, 77, 110, 115, 131, and in the margins in ff. 52, 68, 109, 114; ff. 19 and 32 show a tear or cut that has been stitched, and f. 100 has had its right-hand margin cut away. For HF arrangement see “Collation.” The leaves measure 264 × 175 mm., but the size of the written area varies as follows: Part A, quire I 203 × 117 mm., quire II 197 × 123 mm.; quire III 200 × 120 mm.; Part B, quire IV 198 × 110 mm.; quire V 202 × 115 mm.; Part C, quire VI 200 × 125 mm.; quire VII 203 × 135 mm.; Part D, quire VIII 203 × 113 mm.; quire IX 199 × 120 mm.; quire X 203 × 123 mm. in double columns; quires XI, XII, and XIV 203 × 124 mm. in two columns of 59 mm.; quire XIII 192 × 124 mm. in two columns of 59 mm.; quire XV 203 × 133 mm. in two columns of 65 mm.; quire XVI 203 × 133 mm. in long lines (some with a column at the left 42 mm. wide); quire XVII 187 × 124 mm. in long lines; quire XVIII 197 × 133 mm. in long lines; Part E, Quire XIX 217 × 136 mm. Foliation in modern pencil occurs at the top right-hand corner of recto leaves. F.1r also has the number ‘13’ in ink.

The pricking of quires I, II, IV, V, VIII, IX, XVII, and XVIII shows prickmarks for single vertical bounding lines and for 35 horizontal lines for writing near the edges of the leaves. Quires III, VII and XVI are similar, except that they show 36 horizontal lines, and quire XVI is provided with an extra prickmark for a vertical bounding line to make a narrow column at the left. Quire VI shows only traces of prickmarks. In quires X and XIX no prickmarks are visible. Visible in quires XI, XII, XIV, and XV are prickmarks for vertical bounding lines, including two at the center, and for 35 horizontal lines of writing; but in quire XI only on ff. 70–71 can they be seen; quire XIII is similar, but there are prickmarks for only 33 horizontal lines (with the bottom line not ruled).

Quire I shows a single framed rule in hardpoint with 35 long lines for writing, but the scribe has sometimes written more lines, notably on f. 3v where there are 50 lines. Writing on the top line. Similarly single-framed are quires II, IV, V, VIII, IX, XVII (but fol. 122v–124v disposed in triple columns), and XVIII, but quire V has an extra line of writing below line 35. Quires III and VII are ruled the same as quire II, but show 36 lines. Quire VI is ruled as quire II, but shows only 34 lines. In quire X the ruling is so faint that it can hardly be seen, but apparently the leaves were ruled for two columns of writing with single bounding lines, including that at the center, and 35 horizontal lines. Quire XI shows a frame ruling for double columns with single bounding lines and 35 horizontal lines for writing; the column width is 59 mm., and the width of two columns 124 mm. Quires XII, XIII, XIV, and XV are similar, except that quire XIII shows only 32 lines ruled, and quire XV shows a greater width to the columns and written area. Quire XVI is ruled as quire III, for long lines, but there is a vertical rule to make a column of approximately one third width at the left, and this is used on ff. 107v, 109r-v, and 110r. Quire XIX is ruled with single bounding lines extending to the edges of the leaves and there are 50 horizontal lines for writing.

Red is used through most of the manuscript: for headings, initials, marginal rubrics, the encompassing of marginal additions (most notably in quire IX), and the shading of some capitals, all visible in quires I, IV, VII, VIII, XI, XII, XIII, XIV, XV, XVI, XVII, XVIII (but no color on ff. 131v–132v at the end); red in quires II and III for headings, initials, rubrics and the shading of some capitals; red in quire V for initials and the shading of capitals, but also for the framework of a drawing of Noah's ark on f. 31v; red in quires VI, IX, and X for initials and the shading of capitals, and in quire X note the framework for the table of the names of the months in various languages in red on f. 58r. Quire XIX shows no color.

COLLATION: Part A: I<sup>4</sup> (ff. 1–4), II<sup>4</sup> wants 1 (ff. 5–7), III<sup>8</sup> (ff. 8–15); Part B: IV<sup>8</sup> 3 (f. 18) and 6 (f. 21) are half sheets (ff. 16–23), V<sup>8</sup> (ff. 24–31); Part C: VI<sup>2</sup> (ff. 32–33), VII<sup>10</sup> 4 (f. 37) and 7 (f. 40) are half sheets (ff. 34–43); Part D: VIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 44–51), IX<sup>6</sup> 2 (f. 53) and 5 (f. 56) are half sheets (ff. 52–57), X<sup>1+8</sup> (ff. 58–66, f. 58 is of reduced height, apparently added at the beginning), XI<sup>8</sup> (ff. 67–74), XII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 75–82), XIII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 83–90), XIV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 91–98), XV<sup>8</sup> (ff. 99–106), XVI<sup>10</sup> 2 (f. 108) and 8 (f. 114) are half sheets (ff. 107–116), XVII<sup>8</sup> (ff. 117–124), XVIII<sup>8</sup> 3 (f. 127) and 6 (f. 130) are half sheets (ff. 125–132); Part E: XIX<sup>2</sup> (ff. 133–134).

Part B

- 4a. ff. 16r/1–18r/2 Brevis Historia Imperii Romani: (title in margin) Quom(o) romanu(m) / imp(er)iu(m) in grecia(m) / de grecia in fran(ciam d(e)o ordinan(te translatu(m) / sit. \ 'Script(ur)vs romanu(m) imp(er)iu(m) p(ri)mu(m) dicendu(m) arbitror'; ends: 'Quo de|functo heinric(us) fili(us) ei(us) q(ui)nt(us) regnauit' (unpublished; Germanic gloss noted by Wackernagel 325 (no. 2), also StS 2.360 n.5);
- b. f. 17r/1–17v/13 (margins) Einhard, "Vita Karoli Magni," Bk. 2, ch. 2: De viiiiu(m) circulis | te(r)rē hunorum. | 'Terra hunor(um) viiiii circulis | cingebat(ur) . . . ut de eis mi|nimas reliq(ui)as remanere | p(er)miserit' (as PL 98.1392–93).
5. Verses added (13c) in originally blank space (divided into two columns from line 4) probably collected by or attributable to Reinhard von Munderkingen at Zwiefalten (abbot of Zwiefalten 1232–1234, 1251–1253) and intended to accompany illustrations (Spilling 1989: 85):
  - a. f. 18r/a4–27 Vers(us) sup(er) imagine(m) d(omi)ni | 'Vmbra resignat que(m) sapi(s) esse d(eu)m . . . Hi(n)c uos discati(s) pro me q(uo)d dura seratis'
  - b. f. 18r/a28–31 Versvs de Sac(ra)m(en)tis | 'Picta manus d(omi)ni n(on) est b(e)n(e)dictio vini . . . Pars vivis. pars defunctis. pars t(er)tia s(an)c-tis' [lines a32–4 blank];
  - c. f. 18r/b4–13 "Epitome Statii Thebaidos": Vers(us) in xii lib(ri)s stacii theb(aidos) | 'Associat p(ro)fugu(m) p(ri)m(u)s tyd(e)o polinice(m) . . . Argia(n) flente(m) narrat duoden(us) 7 igne(m)'; (Walther 1959: no.1630);
  - d. f. 18r/b14–27 Epitaphiv(m) Achillis. | 'Pelides ego sum tetidi(s) notissima p(ro)les . . . Cum p(re)ssi hostile(m) fraude p(er)empt(us) hv`mv(m)'' (as Baehrens 1879–1883: 4:148–49, Riese 1870: 2.82, no. 630; Schaller and Könsgen 11821) [lines b28–35 blank].
6. ff.18v/1–33v/35: Chronological/historical material from various sources:
  - a. ff. 18v/1–19v/8 Bede, "De Temporibus Liber," chs. 16–21: 'Sex mundi etatib(us) te(m)pora distinguunt(ur) Prima etas ab ada(m) usq(ue) ad noe'; ends near the end of ch. 21 (fifth aetas): '[C]leopatra ann(is). ii

Hucusq(ue) regnu(m) gr(e)cor(um) [ . . . ]' (as Jones 1980: 600–7, PL 90. 288–90; CPL 2318);

[Note: Just as Bede's De Temporum Ratione (PL 90.545–71) incorporates for the sixth age a chronicle from Tiberius to Leo in the 8c (Mommsen 1898: 246–353), to which supplementary material was often added later, so further chronicle material follows here.]

- b. f. 19v/9–17 Mythographus Vaticanus I, "Historia Dardani et Origo Troianorum," ch.132: Origo troian(orum) 'dardan(us) fuit q(ui) ex ioue & electra filia atlantis nat(us) . . . anchises edit(us) | e(st) q(ui) enea(m) filiu(m) p(ro)creauit' (as Kulcsár 1987: 55);
- c. ff. 19v/17–31v17 Paul the Deacon, "Historia Romana" (no heading, only mark of beginning a colored initial; an abbreviated version with many gaps and rearrangements) plus a Continuation: from Bk. 1 'Prim(us) in italia ut q(ui)b(us)da(m) placet regnau(it) ian(us)'; from Bk. 2 (f. 20v/25): 'Anno ccc|lxv ab urbe c(on)dita p(ost) capta(m) aut(em) (pr)i-mo'; ends with ch. 4 (f. 21r/1): 'amat(us) i(n)iecit. sicq(ue) || c(on)-clusu(m) e(st)', the rest of Bk. 2 summarized f. 21r/1–6; continues with Bk. 3, ch. 10 (f. 21r/6): 'Quingentesimo '& eni(m)' & xl anno a c(on)-dita urbe luci(us) emili(us) paulus '&' publi<us>t<er>en|ti<us> uarro c(on)tra hannibale(m) mittunt(ur)', running to beg. of ch. 12 (f. 21r/16) 'Anno xiii. p(ost)ea q(ua) hannibal in italia(m) uenerat'; then immediately skips to Bk. 4, ch. 12: 'scipio q(ui) multa bene in hispania ege|rat', continuing to Bk. 4, ch. 16 ( f. 21v/5) ending '& in bononiensi agro fruges in arborib(us) nate s(un)t'; Bk. 5, chs. 3–9 (f. 21v/6 ): 'Hec in ext(er)nis bellis. in ciuilib(us) aut(em) bellis'; Bk 6 (f. 21v/18) 'Marco emilio lepido q(ui)nto catulo c(on)sulib(us) cu(m) sylla c(on)sul re(m) publica(m) c(on)posuisset'; Bk. 7 (f. 23r/22): 'Anno | dcc viiiii. urbis c(on)ditę int(er)fecto cesare ciuilia bella reparata s(un)t'; Bk. 8 (f. 24v/25): 'Anno dccc ab urbe c(on)dita uetere | & valente c(on)suli-bus'; Bk. 9 (f. 25v/4): 'Maximian(vs) ex corpore | militari p(ri)m(us) ad imp(er)iu(m) accessit'; Bk. 10 (f. 26v/22): 'Constanti(us) & galeri(us) augusti creati s(un)t'; Bk. 11 (f. 27v/1): 'Anno ab urbe c(on)dita .cxviii ualentinian(us)'; Bk. 12, ch. 1 (f. 28r/5): 'Anno ab urbe c(on)dita. c.xxxviii. theodosius xl. i. imp(er)ator | imp(er)iu(m) sol(vs) obtinuit'; from Bk. 13, ch. 1 (f. 28v/5): 'Hic a c(on)stantio comite | uiro strennuo & bellico extict(us) e(st)'; Bk. 14 (f. 28v/23): 'Anno ab urbe c(on)-dita cc ii defuncto theodosio'; Bk. 15 (f. 29r/20): 'Anno ab urbe c(on)-dita cc.xi p(ost) martiani int(er)itu(m) leo v<sup>us</sup>; Bk. 16 ch. 2 (f. 29v/26): 'Anno ab incarnatione d(omi)ni | cccc xc ii. anastasi(us) purpura(m) induit' ch. 11 (f. 30r/21): 'Anno ab incarnat(i)one d(omi)ni dxxviii'

iustinian⟨us⟩ iustini sororis’ ; Bk. 17, ch. 6 (f. 30r/33) ‘Qui magno certamine cu⟨m⟩ eo c⟨on⟩flixit auxiliantib⟨us⟩’; end with Bk. 17, ch. 51 (f. 31v/15): ‘classe⟨m⟩ inuasit ac destruxit’ (as Crivellucci 1914: 5–267, Droysen 1879: 3–135; CPL 1181). Followed by a sentence taking it up to A.D. 714: ‘Hoc | temp⟨or⟩e luitprant longobardæ rex & Karolvs p⟨ri⟩nceps franchæ fili⟨us⟩ pipini amicissi|mi erant.’

d. f. 20v (lower margin, 20 lines) summary of “Historia de Prelis”? In uita alexandri magni legit⟨ur⟩ q⟨uo⟩d | in p⟨ri⟩mordio expeditionalis . . . Qui | alexander xx|iii etatis sue anno alexan|dria⟨m⟩ fundauit’ (cf. ed. Landgraf 1885). In bottom margin, in a different hand, are headings outlining the life of Alexander the Great.

e. f. 21rv (margins) EXCERPTV⟨M⟩ DE GALICA \ HISTORIA | ‘Cu⟨m⟩ hec circa renu⟨m⟩ ge|runt⟨ur⟩ in noricu⟨m⟩ fi|nibus . . . Na⟨m⟩ cu⟨m⟩ se magistra|tu abdicaret iudicio | civiu⟨m⟩ da⟨m⟩natus e⟨st⟩’ (as Grimm 1854: 1.269–70; OHG gll. coll. StS 2.336 [DCXCVIII]).

[Note: This famous passage from an otherwise unknown work mentions a Swabian goddess “Ziza” or “Ciza.” This may be the same as what Tacitus understood as “Isis” whom, he says, the Suevians worship (Germania 9). The passage occurs in many manuscripts of SW German provenance, all with the same OHG glosses.]

f. f. 31v/18–35 diagram of ‘ARCA NOE’, with labelled sections and flanked by a brief allegorical commentary: ‘Noe archa fabricauit centu⟨m⟩ annis . . . cu⟨m⟩ omn[i] | bonitate’.

Part D, consisting of Glossaries

[Note: The original scribe left space for additions which have often been supplied later.]

9. Glosses to Arator and Virgil:

- a. ff. 44r/1–45v/7 Glossa Collecta to Arator, “Historia apostolica”: Incipit glosa sup(er) aratore(m). | (accessus ad auctorem) ‘Tempore vigilii papq obsederat roma(m) alaricus rex | go tho(rum) . . . floriano abb(at)i ad erudiendu(m) co(m)|mendat(us)’; (line 8, glosses begin to “Ad Florianum”) ‘Maturis. i(d est) p(er)fectis’; last gloss is to “Hist. Ap.” 1.216: ‘Munifica. larga’ (“Hist. Ap.” as Orbán 2006: 1.211–39; glosses as Orbán 2006: 2.1–124; Germanic glosses [4] pr. Wackernagel 325, ed. StS 2.39 [DXXXVI]);
- b. ff. 45v/7–57v/31 (title in margin, text-hand changes here) Sup(er) vir/giliv(m)\ ‘Latium(m) gen(us) unde latinu(m) | Latium(m) latu d(icitu)r ita lia & dictu(m) e(st) a latendo’; ends: ‘ipsa(m) & sonitu(m) s(ed) p(ro)-prie e(st) flexilis tuba classicu(m)’; another hand adds three lines, a non-Virgilian tag (cf. Irvine 1994: 461): ‘Quatuor claves s(un)t scientiæ . . . int(er)rogat *ue*l p(ro)pt(er) irrisione(m)’ (Germanic glosses [101] pr. Wackernagel 325–7, ed. StS 2.686–88 [DCCCLXII]);
- c. f.45v/10–17 (marginal addition) extracts from Horace and Ovid: Oratius | ‘Pallida mors quo pulsat | pede pauperu(m) tabernas. | Regu(m)q(ue) turres’ (Horace, Carmina 1.4.13–14); ‘In uitiu(m) dicit culpe fuga | si caret arte’ (Ars, 31); ‘Quo semel e(st) imbuta re|cens seruabit odore(m) Testa | diu.’ (Epistolae, 1.2.69–70); Ovidius. ‘Non bene con|ueniunt nec in una sede | morant(ur) Magestas & amor ‘& turpitudo’ with ‘deitas’ added above ‘Magestas’ (Metamorphoses, 2: 846–847) (pr. Munk Olsen 1980: 125–26).

d. f. 58r Table (4 × 12) of the names of the months in Latin, Hebrew, Greek, and Egyptian, with OHG glosses (added in hand of 6e): NOMINA MENSIVM | LAT(INE) , HEBR(AICE) , GRECE , EGYPTIACE | ‘Ianuarius’ ‘Wintirmanoth’, Thebeth , EYDINIOS. Thvbino(s)’, etc. (Germanic forms pr. Wackernagel 327, noted StS 3.609 see MLXX). Next to this in a different hand and correlated to the months is a list of winds with OHG interpretations: ‘Subsolanus ‘ostroniwinth’ qui est apodiotes / te(m)p(er)atus & suauis’, etc. (cf. StS 3.609 [MLXIX]) [f. 58 has been trimmed after about line 26, apparently no text lost from either side].

10. ff. 58v/1–132v/18 Glossaries:

[Note: Latin/OHG (with a few OE elements) showing affinity with the Leiden Glossary (Hessels 1906), as noted by Stüben 1939: 457, followed by Lapidge 1986: 71. For earlier analysis see Wackernagel, summarized by StS 1879–1922: 4:612–14, also 2: 246, 598, and supplemented by Schlutter 1921: 385–88. The antecedents of the glosses found here are discussed by Wesle 1913: 161–68.]

- a. ff.58v/a1–64v/a27 alphabetical ab-order Latin-OHG/Latin glossary to Virgil: ‘Auena. habirhalme’; ends: ‘Zephyrus. sunduuint. zona [‘z’ altered from ‘b’] \ stricha’ (Latin-OHG glosses [709] pr. Wackernagel 327–38, ed. StS 2.675–86 [DCCCLXI]); the same hand has added some omitted Virgil items between the columns on f. 59v/1–14 written in 23 tighter lines: ‘Constitus ar|boribvs. idest | ornatus . . . Conuallis | quasi caua|ia uallis’; other insertions on bottom margins ff. 62v, 63v, 64r, up in margin of f. 64r, along margin of 64v and between the lines freq., esp. f. 62v;
- b. ff. 59r–63v (outer margins) alphabetical glossary A-L to Priscian (ed. Hertz and Keil): ‘Andria i(d est) fabula’; ends imperf.: ‘Lixa seruus militari(s) | qui sequit(ur) exercitum’ (Germanic glosses [5] pr. Wackernagel 338 (no. 7), OHG ed. StS 4.344 [DCCLXXXIII<sup>d</sup>] );

manic glosses [81] pr. Wackernagel 345–46; OHG coll. StS 2.93–96 [DLXXXIX]).

[Note: Cf. “Glossae uerborum de canonibus,” Leiden Glossary I (ed. Hessel 1906: 1–3), which however has fewer respective items, is incomplete, ending at “Scrupulum. anxietas” (item 133), and has no vernacular interpretations.]

- s. f.94v/b18–95r/a5 Gennadius of Marseilles (d. ca. 496), “De ecclesiasticis dogmatibus,” ch. 4 (PL 42.1214–15): De multa blasphemia he|reticorum. | ‘Nihil creatu(m) aut seruiens in trinitate. ut | uult dionisivs fons arrii . . . ut p(re)smit siluan(us) & braxeas penta|politana’;
- t. f. 95r/a5–35 brief glossa collecta to “Poenitentiale Cummeani” (as ed. Wasserschleben): De penitentiali. | ‘Sub strigator(um) substituto(rum) . . . Ires sup(er) positiones. ‘i(dest)’ tres biduanas’ (Germanic glosses [7] pr. Wackernagel 347; OHG coll. StS 2.365 [DCCLVIII]) [f. 95r/1–4 blank];
- u. f. 95r/b5–96v/a26 alphabetical glossary to Gregory, “Dialogues” (PL 77.149–429), many items similar to (unalphabetized) Leiden Glossary XXXIX, “De Dialogorum”: Sup(er) libru(m) dialogoru(m) | ‘Antiquarios. librarios’; ends: ‘Xenia. munera’ (Germanic glosses [36] pr. Wackernagel 347–48; coll. StS 2.246 [DCLXI<sup>b</sup>] ; ed. with extensive commentary Schulte 1993: 339–58; cf. Hessel 1906: 40–42);
- v. f. 96v/a30–99v/b14 alphabetical, entirely Latin-OHG glossary to Gregory, “Cura Pastoralis” (PL 77.13–128): In pastorale(m) cvra(m) | ‘Allegationibvs. redin’; ends: ‘Uelat. hulta’ (Germanic glosses [365] pr. Wackernagel 348–53, OHG ed. StS 2.209–16 [DCXLII<sup>b</sup>] );
- w. f. 99v/b17–100v/b17 glossa collecta to Gregory, “Homelia in Evangelia” (PL 76.1075–1312), running from Hom. 1 through Hom. 39: GLOSA SVP(ER) xl<sup>a</sup> OMELIAS GREGORII P(A)P(E) | ‘Homelia. grece. lat(ine) p(o)p(u)laris allocutio vel | sermo’; ends: ‘Discreui(s)|se. kunderskeitotwesen’ (Germanic glosses [56] pr. Wackernagel 353–54; coll. StS 2.262–64 [DCLXXIII]);
- x. f. 100v/b19–102v/a27 glossae collectae to Bede, “De natura rerum,” and “De temporum ratione” (PL 90): DE NAT(VR)A RERV(M) BEDE P(RES)B(ITE)RI | ‘In speciem absoluti orbis’; ends: ‘nullvs e(st) q(ui) sua(m) record(etur) infantia(m)’; the gloss shifts from DNR to DTR at f. 101r/b6; on f. 101v (margin) is a gloss to DTR ch.24 (Germanic glosses [3] pr. Wackernagel 354; OHG coll. StS 2.46 [DLIII]);
- y. (i) f. 102v/a28–b20 glossa collecta to part of Bede’s “Chronica maijora,” ch. 66 of “De temporum ratione” (PL 90): DE CHRONICIS. | ‘Non diuersaru(m) linguaru(m) q(ui)a cccc gente | & vi gentes n(on) plvsq(ua)m xx & vii lingvis | loq`v`unt(ur) . . . Multas costas. i(d est) curtes’; (Germanic glosses [2] pr. Wackernagel 354; OHG coll. StS 2.45 [DXLIX]);

- y. (ii) f. 102v/b21–103r/b26 (without heading, but large initial) more glosses to Bede, “De temporum ratione”: ‘Tempvs un⟨us⟩ ann⟨us⟩ te⟨m⟩pora .ii<sup>o</sup> ‘duo’ anni . . . q⟨ui⟩a uet⟨er⟩es annu⟨m⟩ | dicebant circuitu⟨m⟩’;
- z. f. 103r/b26–104r/b7 Fulgentius (fl. late 5c), “Expositio sermonum antiquorum ad grammaticum Calcidium” (an explanation of obsolete words, here slightly abridged): DE IGNOTIS VERBIS | ‘Sandapila⟨m⟩ antiq⟨ui⟩ uoluer⟨unt⟩ dici feretrv⟨m⟩’; ends: ‘Delenificvs d[icitur] | blandilocvs’ (as Helm 1898: 111–26); added at the end are some only partly legible hermeneumata items: ‘Gliceriu⟨m⟩. dulcis [mulier]. . . Philociu⟨m⟩. amicula (gl.: ‘amabilis mulier.’). P⟨er⟩ipietasma [sic] i⟨d est⟩ sup⟨er⟩ab[undans]’;

[Note: The last item seems to be “peripsema”, which occurs at Werden Glossary A 131 with an OE-derived gloss, “peripsema, id est superabundans, purgamenta uel gisupop [sic]” (ed. Gallée 1894: 340), also = Leiden IV, “Inc. in libr. Eccl. Ist.” 71: “Peripsima, gaesuopç” (ed. Hessels 1906: 9).]

- aa. f. 104r/b7–105r/b17 a gloss on the names and their etymologies of Church offices, drawn from Isidore, “Etymologiae” 9: De diuersis no⟨min⟩ib⟨us⟩ in ‘eccl⟨esi⟩a usitatis | Ap⟨osto⟩li gr⟨ece⟩ lat⟨ine⟩ missi d⟨icu⟩n⟨tu⟩r’; ends: ‘Bithalassu⟨m⟩ mare d⟨icitu⟩r i⟨d est⟩ sant|wrfi. ubi mare circu⟨m⟩luit’ (1 OHG gloss, ed. StS 4.305 [CCCXCIII<sup>b</sup>] );

[Note: From item 10 aa. until item 10 as. (v). the lemmata and texts are based directly or indirectly on Isidore’s “Etymologiae,” as noted. A 17c hand here (as elsewhere throughout) has frequently noted the Isidore references by bk. and ch. All citations are as Lindsay 1911, ad loc.; cf. CPL 1186]

- ab. f. 105r/b18–105v/b26 class-glossary, names of family relations and then of court functions: De diu⟨er⟩sis no⟨min⟩ib⟨us⟩ nature. | ‘Heros. i⟨d est⟩ d⟨omi⟩n⟨u⟩s. Genitor. pat⟨er⟩ . . . Sicofanta. trukinere’ (Germanic glosses (69) pr. Wackernagel 354–55; OHG coll. StS 3.424–26 [DC-CCCL<sup>a</sup>] );

- ac. ff. 105v/a31–107r/28 (f. 107r long lines) Latin-Latin/OHG class-glossary on parts of the human body, ages, growth, etc.: Nomina menbro⟨rum⟩ univscuivsq⟨ue⟩ | HOMINIS. | ‘Homo ab humo dict⟨us⟩ e⟨st⟩ . . . Cora. unkiscorinfahs. Ossa hominis .cc | xviii. | (f. 106v/10) Duob⟨us⟩ substantiis c⟨on⟩stat homo’; ends (cf. Ps.-Bede, De nativitate infantium, PL 90.960): ‘Beda dix⟨it⟩. StS 3.434–35 [DCCCCLIX<sup>b</sup>] ); [f. 107r/29–36 blank; f. 107v is divided into 3 informal columns];

ad. (i). f. 107v/a1–31 (no heading) Latin-OHG class-glossary on church vestments and furnishings: ‘⟨ue⟩l amathuitta | Capsa. kaff... Thimiamada’ (Germanic glosses pr. Wackernagel 357 as no. 31, items 1–27; OHG ed. StS 3.654–55 [MCXXXVI]);

[Note: This glossary with sim. OHG interpretations, is widespread, sometimes with titles such as “De ornatu ecclesiae” or “De rebus ecclesiasticae” (see StS 3.653–56). The first item properly belongs with ‘⟨ue⟩l facitcurula’ (interlined at 26) = “facietergium: (h)antuahilla” face-/hand-towel, cf. Etym. 19.26.7; the last entry is properly “Thimiamada: odora,” cf. Etym. 4.12.2.]

ad. (ii) f. 107v/a32–b3 etymology of “Alleluia” and list of days of the week: ‘Alle. i⟨d est⟩ pat⟨er⟩. lu. i⟨d est⟩ fili⟨us⟩ | ia. i⟨d est⟩ sp⟨iritu⟩s s⟨an⟩c⟨tu⟩s | Dies solis. i⟨d est⟩ feria p⟨ri⟩ma. ‘i⟨d est⟩ d⟨omi⟩nica’ ... Dies sat⟨ur⟩ni. fer⟨ia⟩ vii.’;

ad. (iii) f. 107v/b8–18 + c13–16 Latin-OHG class-glossary on buildings and tools: ‘Palatiu⟨m⟩. phalinza ... forfex. wâtscâri d⟨icitu⟩r a filo’ (Germanic glosses pr. Wackernagel 357 as no. 31, items 28–41; OHG ed. StS 3.629 [MXCVI]);

[Note: A widespread class-glossary with sim. OHG glosses in many copies, see StS 3.627–31.]

ad. (iv) f. 107v/b25–37 + c27–35 Latin-OHG class-glossary on equids: DE EQVIS. | ‘Caballus. ros ... Cithareda. harphari’ (Germanic glosses [21] pr. Wackernagel 358; OHG ed. StS 3.450 [DCCCCLXXV], who mistakenly locate it on f. 109r].

ae. ff. 107v/c36–109r/36 (long lines, f. 109r/4–33 written around the marginal texts on f. 109r) Isidore, “Etymologiae,” Bk. 12, ch. 1 “De pecoribus et iumentis”: De diuersis animalib⟨us⟩ || ‘Om⟨n⟩ib⟨us⟩ animantib⟨us⟩ ada⟨m⟩ p⟨ri⟩mu⟨m⟩ uocabula indidit appellans’; ends: ‘Musino & capra & ariete. 12. f. 132v (9 lines upside down in bottom margin, 10 short lines in side margin, added in 14c hand) German verse “Minnelied”: ‘Ich wen vil dick ez si mir kunt sú müg mit lieb(er) w(er)den’; ends: ‘ez ist | nit mi(n) est a[lez] | ir. R(es)p’ (pr. Bethmann 1845 and, more accurately, Martin 1883.)

Part E

13. ff.133r/1–134v/50 (inner bifolium, probably added with the binding, written in long lines in a 14c hand) two extracts or fragments of Isidore, “Etymologiae”: Headed in a later hand “Libri Origin. seu Etymolog. Lib. II. Cap.xxiiii.” (the same hand that added bk. and ch. references to “Etymol.” extracts in Part D):

- a. ff.133r/1–134v/31 begins at Bk. 3, ch. 24 with chapter headings: ‘D[e as-tronomie nomine] De i(n)uentorib(us) astronomie De scriptorib(us) [recte institutoribus] astronomie . . .’; text begins f.133r/12: DE ASTRONOMIA ‘Astro[no]mia e(st) astro(rum) lex’; text of Bk. 3 ends at f.134v/31: ‘sapientia i(m)plicatos a t(er)renis reb(us) abducer(ent) [& in] sup(er)na(m) c(on)t(em)pla|tione collocarent’ FINIT LIBER [...] (library stamp over last word);
- b. f.134v/32–50 Continues at Bk 13 with headings: ‘De mundo [...] de el[e]-m(en)tis. de celo . . . de diluuiis’; (preface) ‘In hoc u(ero) sequ(en)ti libello . . . causasq(ue) cognoscat’; text of Bk. 13 (f.134v/35): ‘Mund(us) e(st) celu(m) t(er)ra’; ends imper. at Bk. 13, ch. 3, where the text is virtually illegible.

PHOTO NOTES: Modern foliation is often not visible due to a stain in upper right corner of versos running through the book. For technical and copyright reasons the fiche are published exactly as received from Sélestat, Bibliothèque Municipale, in 35 mm. format (six openings to a fiche) and with the library’s original headers.
